MARKET BOARD IS PROPOSED TO AID FARMER

Agricultural Commission, Named by Coolidge, Outlines Plan To Be Sent to Congress.

FARM PRODUCT RATE CHANGES ARE URGED

Commission Proposes That Government Act as Great Research and Advisory Board.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, January 27.—A federal cooperative marketing board of five members to act as a big brother to the farmer is proposed in the report of the special agricultural commission appointed some weeks ago by President Coolidge.

This board would act as a service bureau for agriculture, somewhat as the department of commerce acts as a service bureau for business. It would offer advice in forming cooperative marketing associations, assist in installing account systems, and use its good offices to help farmers in any way possible.

It would, in short, try to make a business man out of the farmer. It proposes to make the government act as a great research and advisory bureau and not as a financial angel.

No Bill Indorsed.

Although there are probably a hundred bills in congress dealing with the farm problem, the commission declined to indorse any of them, but gathered its suggestions from all of them and suggested a composite bill.

The commission's report will be sent to congress Wednesday. It comes at a time when wheat is selling over $2, the highest point since the war, on the Chicago, Kansas City and Omaha exchanges.

At the white house it was said the president earnestly hoped that congress would find time to act on the recommendations at this session. But after a white house breakfast conference Senate Leader Curtis and House Leader Longworth doubted if this would be possible.

Filing of this report marks a new phase in the handling of the farm problem. Since the early days of the war when congress passed the Lever food control bill to stabilize the wheat price, the federal government has been tinkering with all sorts of artificial devices, digging up cash and turning various kinds of double somersaults in trying to comply in slight measure with the demands of the great, powerfully organized farm organizations, which maintain lobbies here and hold congress pretty much under thumb.

Must Stand on Own Feet.

This report plainly indicates that those days have gone. Though it does not say so bluntly, the whole import of the recommendations is that aside from such protection as the tariff can give, the farmer must stand on his own feet and, like the business man, rely for profits on more efficient selling of his products rather than on cash from the federal treasury. This is the last word on the farm problem and represents the policy the Coolidge administration will support for the next four years.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been advanced in recent years to help the farmer tide over the deflation period. Many of these loans may never be paid off. The farmers were caught in a desperate plight and had to be helped at whatever cost, but the market jump last summer helped the situation considerably. Now the government is going to see if it cannot introduce business efficiency into the hitherto haphazard practice of husbandry. Therein lies the real significance of this report. It embodies the Coolidge attitude toward the problem, attempts to make farming a self-sus-

OPPORTUNITY'S KNOCK

Proper Poise

Poise is the outward indication of an inner purpose in a man's life. It shows that he is on the way to understand himself. It is the badge of personality.

The man of poise has a power many times that of other men. He is master of many situations because he is master of himself.

When you stop worrying about your abilities, and set your mind to developing yourself, just as you are, to your highest possibilities—you are beginning to come into your own. Self-realization is success.

RELIEF REACHES FLOOD DISTRICTS AS WATER RECEDES

Brunswick-Darien Causeway Entirely Submerged and Extent of Damage Not Known.

Brunswick, Ga., January 27.—Good and bad news reached Brunswick this morning from the adjacent flooded territory. Slight improvement was noted in places while in others an increase in the rising waters was recorded. The Altamaha delta remains covered with water and the automobile highway between Brunswick and Darien is impassable.

An army truck loaded with food by the Bainbridge Red Cross reached the marooned people of Everett City last night after making a 15-mile trip overland and transferring the food to boats.

The Southern railway operated its first train into Brunswick this morning in 10 days by detouring at Jesup over the Atlantic Coast Line to Nahunta and thence to Brunswick.

The Buffalo swamp was six inches higher this morning than yesterday, with the water still rising. The outlying section from the mouth of the swamp to the Altamaha river, a distance of 10 miles, was reported a solid sheet of water. The loss of cattle has been heavy.

RELIEF REACHES FLOOD DISTRICT.

Savannah, Ga., January 27.—Captain Frank W. Spencer, commanding the Red Cross relief expedition now at Townsend, Ga., on the tug Paulsen reported by long distance telephone to the Savannah Press this morning there are 90 families, including 350 persons, who must be cared for, not alone for the moment but for several days. Captain Spencer said:

"There are 90 families, including

Women Urge Reform Laws For Juveniles

Clubwomen Say That Present Laws Are Too Severe.

Declaring that the spread of juvenile criminality has become alarming, that there is no stated punishment for juvenile murderers aside from that of the adult criminal, and averring that it is not just and right to make a child suffer the severe and irreparable consequences administered to hardened adult criminals, the resolutions committee of the Atlanta Woman's club Tuesday night passed a number of resolutions.

In effect, they advocate a reform method of punishment for the crime of murder, if committed by minors, details of such a scheme to be worked out by a prison committee and presented to the state legislature. The particular resolution on minor murderers follows:

"Whereas, the number of cases of juvenile criminality is becoming alarming in its frequency; there is no stated punishment for juvenile murderers, other than that of the adult criminal and murderer; it is not just and right to make a child suffer the severe and irreparable consequences administered to hardened adult criminals.

"Resolved, that the Atlanta Woman's club advocate a reform method of punishment for the crime of murder committed by minors, the details of which method to be worked out by a prison committee, appointed by the governor of the state, and that this same committee be instructed to work out details for a prison reform affecting all criminals;

"Be it further resolved, that a bill drawn up by said committee, incorporating the substance of this resolution, together with details of method attached, to be placed before the state legislature at its next session;

"Be it further resolved, that this club invoke the aid of the city federation and the state federation in promoting reforms indicated in these resolutions, and that the state legislative council be urged to draw up a bill embodying the substance of this resolution to go to the legislature at its next session."

These resolutions will be presented to the executive board of the Atlanta Woman's club at a special meeting today. The resolutions were signed by Mrs. Norman Sharp, president; Mrs. George S. Obear, Jr., chairman of the resolutions committee; Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, Mrs. John R. Hornady, Mrs. A. W. Stirling and Mrs. Alyce Taylor.

At Tuesday's meeting, resolutions also were adopted advocating extension of compulsory education in Georgia, from the ages of 6 to 16 years. The club went on record as favoring a strict enforcement of the compulsory education laws.

These resolutions were signed by members of the resolutions committee and also will be presented today to the executive board.

NO MOVE ANNOUNCED FOR RECONSIDERATION

Oklahoma, Kansas, Ohio and North Dakota Act. Referendum in 1926 Is Proposed in Washington

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Chicago, January 27.—Barring possible reconsideration, the child labor amendment to the constitution tonight had been defeated, the proposal having been defeated in either one or both houses of the legislatures or by referendum in 13 states. Under the constitution, the amendment would have to be ratified by three-fourths of the 48 states, so that an adverse vote in 13 states would make this impossible.

Oklahoma, Kansas and Ohio today were added to the list of states finally rejecting the amendment, while similar action was taken in the senate of North Dakota and Washington. In Washington, however, the senate sent to the house a bill which would submit indorsement to the people in a referendum in 1926.

14 States Have Acted.

Fourteen state legislatures have acted upon the congressional proposal to amend the constitution so that congress might legislate in regard to employment of children under 18 years of age, while in Massachusetts, the proposed amendment was rejected by referendum last November.

California and Arkansas were the only states favoring the proposal, while the amendment was rejected by one or both houses of the legislature in the following states: South and North Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, South and North Dakota, Kansas, Ohio, Washington and Delaware.

In Wyoming, the senate voted to postpone indefinitely a resolution of ratification.

While it is possible in some states for the legislatures to reconsider, no move in that direction has been made, and in several instances the vote has been so large against the amendment that reconsideration apparently would be futile.

PAINT MORTIMER AS DRAFT DODGER

High Officials Scored by Thompson's Lawyers. Name of Mrs. Votaw Struck From Records.

Chicago, January 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—James S. Easby-Smith, personal counsel for Charles R. Forbes, former director of the veterans' bureau, began his closing argument in the veterans' bureau conspiracy trial today with renewed attack upon the testimony of Elias H. Mortimer, paid informer of the government, and chief witness for the prosecution. The case likely will go to the jury Thursday.

Easby-Smith's argument, which may close tomorrow, came after that of Randolph Laughlin, of St. Louis, and former Senator James Hamilton Lewis, counsel for J. W. Thompson, codefendant with Forbes, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government through veterans' hospital contracts.

Recalls War Record.

Laughlin characterized Mortimer as "a perjurer." Lewis told the jury he was "a poor unhappy man, suffering from some sort of a mental abberation," and Easby-Smith recalled that during the world war he "hied himself unto the green pastures of Washington when millions of his fellow men were offering themselves to the defense of their country."

"The record in this case," he said, "shows that he went to Washington just about the time of the passage of the second draft act, which made men of his age, 33, subject to call."

Franklin J. Stransky, of counsel for Thompson, argued that the trial grew out of the political situation which devolped in Washington in 1923, rather than out of the disinterested pursuit of justice for justice's sake. Lewis previously had addressed himself to the theme of tracing to their original sources the causes of the irregularities charged against the defendants.

Arraign Cabinet Heads.

"If this government seeks to punish those responsible for the delay in building hospitals and refuge houses for our sick and maimed soldiers," he said, "I call upon the nation to arraign those cabinet heads, those congressmen and senators, who, to aid their political fortunes, supported their constituents to profit on the government in selling real estate to block progress of any one construction until opportunity can be afforded for all

STONE CHARGED WITH TYRANNY IN HOUSE FIGHT

TECHNICALITY INVOKED IN SUIT IS ASSAILED

Stone Expected to Appear Before Committee Today to Give His Side of James Ownbey Case.

Washington, January 27.—Qualifications of Attorney General Stone for appointment to the supreme court occupied the attention of the senate in open session for more than two hours today before it re-affirmed its opinon that the subject was one which the rules required should be considered in executive session.

Taking advantage of President Cummins' reversal of a former ruling to permit him to answer published statements about his position on the nomination, Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, went at length into Mr. Stone's activities as counsel for the estate of J. Pierpont Morgan in a suit against James A. Ownbey of Colorado, the outcome of which he characterized as "an act of judicial tyranny."

Special Session Today.

While the debate was in progress the senate judiciary committee completed arrangements for a special session tomorrow at which it will renew consideration of the nomination, recommitted to it yesterday by the senate. It was the expectation of most members that the attorney general would be invited to appear tomorrow and give his version of the Ownbey case and of the steps being taken by the department to seek a second indictment of Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, in the District of Columbia.

Reports were current at the capitol today that Mr. Stone would not be averse to appearing at an open session if the committee decided to hold one, provided his appearance would not prejudice consideration of the Wheeler case by the district grand jury. Because of the latter factor, however, it was considered improbable that such a session would be held or that any action would be announced by the committee before the grand jury completed its work. At the department of justice all comment was withheld as to the attitude to be taken by the attorney general.

Judged by Arguments.

Declaring the action obtained by the Morgan estate against Ownbey in a supreme court decision sustaining Delaware courts in an action brought there subsequent to the institution of receivership proceedings in Colorado violated the "fundamental principles of justice," Senator Heflin said he would judge Mr. Stone's "conception of the intent of the constitution" by his arguments in the case.

"No attorney's duty to his client requires him to do anything in the trial of a case which denies to the person proceeded against 'due process of law'," the Alabama senator asserted. "No attorney is justified in taking advantage of or solemnly invoking a technicality which, if sustained, would deprive the humblest citizen of the right to appear in court and be heard in reply to the complaint filed against him."

Technicality Invoked.

Senator Heflin contended such a "technicality" had been invoked to prevent Ownbey from being heard in his own defense in the Delaware ac-

GASOLINE PRICE JUMPED 2 CENTS BY LOCAL DEALERS

Increase of 4 Cents Per Gallon Is Noted in Two Jumps During Past Two Weeks.

The retail price of gasoline in Atlanta will be increased two cents per gallon, effective Wednesday morning, according to officials of a number of oil companies. The price today will be 24 cents per gallon.

Diminishing surplus stocks and increased consumption is given as the reason for the latest jump in prices.

Only eight days ago, January 19, the retail gasoline price was jumped from 20 cents to 22 cents per gallon, the latest increase of two cents resulting in a four-cent jump within the past eight days.

Officials of the Standard Oil company called attention Tuesday night to the fact that on October 1, last year, gasoline was bringing 23 cents per gallon, but had been reduced as surplus stocks increased, to 20 cents since October. As the surplus became smaller and consumption increased it has been found necessary to increase the price, it was pointed out. "Atlanta, as a matter of fact," one official said, "is paying only one cent more per gallon than was being paid on October 1, last year."

BLANKET OF SNOW PREDICTED TODAY BY VON HERRMANN

Atlantans were scheduled to wake up this morning, look out of the window and see the ground covered with a white blanket of real snow. The prediction was made Tuesday by C. F. von Herrmann, local weather man, and immediately the youth of the city began laying plans for snow battles, snow men and other such luxuries which are rare in these parts.

Mr. Herrmann forecast snow for Wednesday in his official communique of Tuesday afternoon and pointed to the rapidly dropping thermometer as advance proof of his prediction. A drop of 20 degrees was recorded in about five hours, the reading at noon being 50, at 1:30 it was 46 and as dusk fell it had dropped to a trifle below 40.

A temperature of 25 degrees is expected in Atlanta by the early hours of Wednesday.

The snow and cold wave is moving on Georgia from the northwest, where it was first reported early Monday morning and four places reported below zero temperatures on Tuesday morning.

Social Celebrities Named

:: FLEISCHMANN, HARRIMAN, HILL MENTIONED ::

In Latest Broadway Trial

New York, January 27.—The social tone of Steve Clow's trial as a mercenary village gossip of Broadway, jumped several octaves Tuesday afternoon when Otto H. Kahn, Julius Fleischmann, Averill Harriman and Percival Hill, among others, were brought into the case.

Clow's fight in court has developed into a veritable sewing circle for gossip, but until Tuesday the names mentioned were in the main, those of more or less standard Broadway characters, including Peggy Joyce, Edith Bobe and Tex Rickard.

Clow and three employees of his magazine, Broadway Brevities, are defending themselves against a technical accusation of using the mails to defraud, but the case actually represents the first effort of the United States attorney to put out of business a number of magazines which are said to exist by intimidating persons of social, theatrical and sporting prominence.

The defense began its case Tuesday and A. B. Brown, one of the defendants, a tall suave man who once solicited "advertisements" for Brevities, took the stand. When he was turned over for cross-examination the prosecutor read him a list of names and sums and at the mention of each name there was a perceptible start of surprise on the part of the crowd which had come to hear the gossip of the great.

Brown admitted that he got $250 from Kahn, the banker, and patron of the theater, who last year backed Maurice Gest in the stupendous production of "The Miracle"; $500 from Julius Fleischmann, at whose magnificent estate at Port Washington, Long Island, the British polo team made its headquarters last summer; $500 from Averill Harriman, president of the United American steamship lines, and $100 from Percival Hill, president of the American Tobacco company.

Mingled with the names of these social celebrities were those of Jesse Lasky of the Famous Players-Lasky Movie company, who gave Brown $2,000; $150 from Rosina Galli, the opera star; $250 from Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees; $200 from Frank Godsol, president of the Goldwyn Pictures corporation, and $200 from Archie Selwyn, the theatrical producer.

Brown admitted that he had a fine personality for a salesman and denied that he had ever obtained orders for advertising space by means of threats. The sums that he received were, of course, for advertisements, but the rates, he admitted, varied "according to circumstances."

SLASH IN SECOND CLASS MAIL RATES URGED BY GEORGE

Georgia Senator Opposes All Proposed Increases and Favors Reduction to Basis of 1919-1920.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, January 27.—The senate refused today to eliminate the present preferential mail rate allowed religious, educational, scientific and philanthropic publications, adopting by a vote of 51 to 23 an amendment to the postal pay and rate increase bill by Senator Butler, republican, Massachusetts, to retain the present rate of 1 1-4 cents a pound on the advertising sections of such periodicals.

The vote had the effect of reversing the recommendation of the senate post-office committee, which favored a uniform rate for all publications, including those in the special classifications.

George Urges Elimination.

At the conclusion of the day's debate on the bill, which centered about proposed changes in the zone rates affecting the advertising sections of publications, Senator George, democrat, Georgia, urged elimination of all proposed increases in second-class rates and a reduction to those in effect in the fiscal year 1919-1920. A vote on this proposal went over until tomorrow.

Elimination of the proposed increases in rates will mean ultimate rejection of the entire bill, providing also for postal salary advances, Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, declared during the debate, but Senator George argued that the reduction he proposed would tend to increase rather than reduce revenue from this service.

CONFERENCE GETS UNDERWOOD BILL BY VOTE OF HOUSE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, January 27.—By an overwhelming majority the house late today sent the Underwood bill authorizing the lease of Muscle Shoals to conference between the senate and house. In conference an effort will be made to adjust the differences over the legislation between the two bodies and report the bill out in finished form for a final vote at this session. House conferees were appointed immediately. It is planned to request the appointment of senate conferees tomorrow, which is expected to evoke a controversy on the senate floor.

If the senate conferees friendly to the Underwood bill are obtained, it will be necessary to depart from the usual custom of selection. It happens that all of the conferees in regular line of appointment opposed the bill when it was before the senate.

Supporters of the bill object to their appointment on the ground that they could not conscientiously represent the senate in conference. Efforts, so far futile, have been made to settle the dispute amicably.

Prepared To Fight.

If necessary, advocates of the bill are prepared to fight it out on the senate floor. Their plan tonight was to [illegible] the appointment of Senators McKinley, Illinois, and Keyes, of New Hampshire, republicans, and Harrison, Mississippi, democrat, members of the senate agriculture committee, as senate conferees.

If their plan succeeds these senators would be substituted for Chairman Norris, McNary, Oregon, and Smith, South Carolina, ranking republican

MORRIS IS DEACON IN ATLANTA CHURCH

Flags at Half Mast Today as Alderman Carl Dolvin, Victim of Car, Is Laid to Rest.

A. M. Morris, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Morris, of 190 South Lee street, and a deacon in the Capitol View Presbyterian church, is held without bond at police station on a charge of murder, and W. Garland Cooper, Jr., 18, of 143 Dill avenue, son of Councilman W. Garland Cooper, of the tenth ward, and C. B. Thurman, 18, of 150 Dill avenue, son of Dr. J. B. Thurman, are free on $500 bonds, respectively, following their surrender Tuesday afternoon in connection with the death of Alderman Carl Dolvin, 35, of the tenth ward, who was slain in an automobile accident early Monday night. Morris is charged with piloting the death car.

Both Cooper and Thurman are under a blanket charge of disorderly conduct. Morris was taken to police station by Councilman Cooper, who stated that he took Morris into custody as soon as he learned he was the driver of the car which struck down and fatally hurt Mr. Dolvin.

Morris Tells of Crash.

"After a sleepless night I was preparing to come to the police station Tuesday and make a clean breast of the whole affair," Morris said Tuesday night. "Clarence Cooper, older brother of Garland, Jr., came by, and I hailed him. En route to town, I told him the whole story and he told me to go with him to Mr. Cooper's office.

"When I told Mr. Cooper that we were riding in the car that killed Mr. Dolvin he was stricken with grief, and asked why we had not told before. I explained that Mr. Dolvin stepped from the left-hand side of his machine and that the crash was unavoidable. We drove on, I told him, because we did not know what to do. We were frightened. This morning my brain was clearer and today I came to give myself up. I did not intend to hurt anyone.

"Mr. Cooper said that I must go to the station at once and that Clarence would return for Garland, Jr., and G. B. Thurman, my companions. Clarence got them as soon as he could go to their homes and return.

"This is the first time I have ever been in trouble in my life. I have a wife and a young baby and I think too much of them to drink or have anything to do with liquor. There was no liquor in our car and none of the trio had been drinking. I am

Work Keeps Prisoner Happy, Says Atlanta Warden's Wife

:: MRS. SNOOK PRAISES AMERICAN PRISON SYSTEM ::

American prisons are the best-regulated, most sanitary and advanced institutions in the world, far surpassing those of foreign countries. According to Mrs. J. W. Snook, wife of the newly installed warden of the Atlanta Federal penitentiary.

"And the difficulties now found in American prisons may be overcome by providing prisoners with adequate work for which they are justly compensated," declared Mrs. Snook.

"Idleness is the worst thing imaginable for anyone, whether in or out of a prison. In a prison it broods discontent and strife and makes prisoners doubly unhappy. When a regular 8-hour work day with just compensation becomes an established feature of American prisons the institutions will be as near perfect as it is humanly possible to make them," she said.

Mrs. Snook, who last summer made an inspection tour of criminal institutions in Great Britain, France, Italy, Greece, Switzerland and Servia, speaks with authority on the subject. Nine years' practical experience in management of the women's department of the Idaho State prison, also lends weight to the words of the warden's wife.

"Of course, I have always been in charge of the women's department and as there is no such thing at the Atlanta federal penitentiary I shall have to sit back and watch John work," Mrs. Snook said.

"We have always cooperated in the matter of prison administration and, of course, the ideas he will put into effect in Atlanta are views we jointly hold."

These ideas, Mrs. Snook declared, are absolute abolition of special privilege granting to certain prisoners and the providing of suitable work to keep all prisoners busy.

In attempting to place the blame for criminal intent Mrs. Snook was admittedly at a loss.

"Great numbers of criminals have been found to have been physically abnormal but such abnormalities cannot be wholly blamed. Heredity and environment have great bearing on the matter. I firmly believe," she declared.

"I have encountered quite a few people who evidenced surprise at the reserved, refined manner of some men who are being confined. The majority of people seem to think that a prisoner is some mysterious person lost to all the sensibilities of life, something to be shunned as an evil.

"This is a false notion. The American prison today is striving to correct criminals and to convert them into better men and women, deserving of society's favors. And a measure of success is being attained.

"The Atlanta penitentiary is the largest we have ever been in charge of and I am very hopeful for a great success in John's administration," declared Mrs. Snook, turning conversation to her husband, whom she insisted was the prison's warden.

"Of course, I shall always be ready to help him in any way," she added.

TAX REFUND RULED FOR CALIFORNIANS

Attorney General Holds Estate Levy Incorrect—U. S. May Return $3,000,000 to Pacific State.

Washington, January 27.—Attorney General Stone has held that the federal government's basis of taxing California estates under the California community property law is incorrect, and the treasury faces refunding of taxes thus collected since the California law was enacted.

The attorney general expressed no opinion with respect to the principles governing the taxation of income derived from community property.

Simultaneously with the announcement of Mr. Stone's opinion of the estate tax phase, which was requested by the treasury, the latter department announced it was prepared to seek a final court determination of the right of the husband and wife each to make a separate return covering one-half of the community income.

The treasury, under Mr. Stone's ruling, will have to refund only about $3,000,000 collected illegally on estate taxes. Approximately $77,000,000 is involved in the income tax feature of the two-year-old controversy.

STREET CAR FARE INCREASE GRANTED

Street railway fares in Athens in future will be 10 cents single cash fare, two tickets for 15 cents, or a weekly pass, good for all members of one family, for $1.

The petition of the Athens Railway Electric company to put these rates in effect was approved Tuesday at an executive session of the Georgia public service commission and it is expected that the new rates will be put into effect at once. The weekly pass, transferable among all members of one family, is expected to result in a large increase in street railway transportation in the "Classic City," it is said.

The commission also approved the petition of the Brunswick Light and Power company for a revision in lighting and power rates.

On Tuesday morning the commission held a public session, hearing petitions from a number of public utility concerns.

The most important matter up for hearing was the petition of the Georgia Hydro-Electric company to issue 10,000 shares of common stock and $750,000 in bonds for the purpose of purchasing the properties of the Towalaga Falls Power company, near Griffin.

Other cases scheduled included a petition of the Putnam Mills and Power company, of Eatonton, for revision of lighting rates; application of the American Express company for authority to abandon its agency at Green's Cut and a request that the Louisville & Nashville railroad be required to stop its trains on signal at Chatsworth.

FARMERS CAUTIONED ABOUT TOBACCO FIRES

Pointing out that some Georgia tobacco farmers last year suffered a loss of from 10 to 50 per cent of their crops because of "black fire" and "wild fire," officials of the Georgia state board of entomology on Tuesday issued special instructions for the burning of plant beds and care of tobacco seed. Great precautions should be taken against these diseases this year, it was stated.

O. C. Boyd, of the board, issued the following instructions for tobacco culture:

"Choose a location at a considerable distance from beds or fields of previous years, preferably on entirely new land.

"Sterilize the soil by burning brush or similar material for at least 30 to 60 minutes. This operation insures the killing of weed seeds, and parasites that cause leaf spots, root-knot, damping off, root rot, etc., diseases which may prove destructive not only in the beds, but also in the field.

Frames Harbor Germs.

"Use new lumber for plant bed frames. Old frames may be harboring several kinds of disease germs, and cannot easily be disinfected properly. Tools used for working the soil, however, can and should be sterilized by dipping for at least 30 minutes in a solution of formaldehyde, one pint of formalin to 10 pints of water. If old cloth covers are to be used again, they should be sterilized by boiling for an hour.

"Avoid carrying any kind of tobacco whatsoever to the beds during their preparation or at any time thereafter, for this is known to be a sure means of introducing the bacteria which causes 'black fire' and 'wild fire,' as well as other disease organisms.

"Do not add stable manure or corresponding organic fertilizers to the seed bed after burning it over. Commercial fertilizers, however, may be used after firing the bed."

Seeds Carry Pests.

Concerning the sterilizing and sowing of the seed, Mr. Boyd gives the following instructions:

"As it is definitely known that the parasites of several tobacco diseases, including 'black fire' and 'wild fire,' are carried on the surface of the seed and in accompanying bits of refuse, it is strongly urged to sterilize the seed. Inclose seed in a loose, cheesecloth bag, and submerge from 10 to 15 minutes in a corrosive sublime solution (bicloride of mercury), one ounce to eight gallons of water. Use a glass or earthenware vessel. Agitate well by poking the bag up and down during the treatment. Remove and rinse by dipping several times in each of two or three changes of clean water. Then spread the seed in a thin layer and dry as rapidly as possible. This method will not injure the germinating power of the seed if properly followed but the seed should not be sprouted before sowing in the bed.

"Do not sow too thickly, else there may develop considerable damping off and root rots, due to poor ventilation and uneven watering."

NEGRO LEADERS OF G. O. P. GIVE BAG TO SLEMP

Washington, D. C., January 27.—(Special.)—Henry Lincoln Johnson, republican national committeeman from Georgia, and a delegation of negro republicans, presented C. Bascom Slemp, who is retiring as secretary of the president, with a leather traveling bag Tuesday. The presentation was made at the white house executive offices.

They also presented a formal letter of regret at his retirement, which thanked Slemp for his interest in their behalf.

Great Britain Is Planning Offer To Persuade France To Meet War Obligations

England Wants Enough From Germany, France and Her Allies To Pay United States.

BY CHARLES M. M'CANN.

London, January 27.—Great Britain is preparing a diplomatic coup which will put her first in the field, and perhaps first in line for obtaining debt payments from France.

While American and French statesmen have been exchanging harsh words relative to France's intention to pay or to repudiate her debt to the United States, Britain has been formulating a document which is expected to lead to a definite French offer to pay. Anglo-French negotiations, in turn, may precipitate the mooted conference of European debtors and creditors, with the United States observing the proceedings from across the Atlantic if she doesn't care to join in them.

Reply to Clementel.

Austen Chamberlain and Winston Churchill, the chief lieutenants, in Stanley Baldwin's cabinet, have jointly drafted a reply to a letter from Etienne Clementel, French minister of finance, in which the latter left the way open for funding negotiations on favorable terms if Britain was disposed to suggest them.

The British suggestions will be completed within a fortnight. It is learned that embodied in them is a statement of the British case applicable not only to France but to all Britain's debtors. Thus they can be read by any debtor as applying to any obligation, and they will represent a basis for negotiations between Britain and any of her debtors.

France is expected to be able to make concrete proposals to London without further correspondence.

Seeks to Pay U. S.

British treasury officials are examining the text of the suggestions. Roughly, Britain will declare that she expects from Germany and her other debtors combined a sum equal to her annual obligations to the United States. The maximum would be in the neighborhood of $200,000,000 yearly. Dawes' plan receipts from Germany would be expected to supply half this sum. France and the other allied debtors would contribute the balance in proportion to their individual obligations.

Thus in its present state, the plan, which must be approved by the cabinet, recognizes the principle of pooling debts. The question of payments from the allies in the event of a collapse of the Dawes plan has not been solved. It represents the most difficult feature of the British reply.

New State Official Succeeds To Office Held by J. D. Moor

Haliard de La Parelle has been appointed assistant entomologist for the state of Georgia and will this week take up his duties with the state board, it was announced Tuesday by State Entomologist Ira W. Williams. Mr. de La Parelle succeeds the late John D. Moor.

The new state official is a graduate of the University of California and comes here from that state, where he has resided since boyhood. He served overseas in the World war with the 117th Engineers, Forty-second division. For the past two years he has been connected with the California department of plant quarantine. He is a native of Kentucky.

4 out of 5 are victims

The law of averages is immutable. Dental statistics prove that four out of every five over 40—and thousands younger, too—are marred by Pyorrhea. Do you want to escape?

It takes healthy gums to keep healthy teeth

Bleeding gums are Nature's first warning of Pyorrhea. Then they begin to recede, lose that rich, pink color. Disease-breeding poisons collect in pus pockets and often drain through the entire system.

If used in time and used consistently, Forhan's will prevent Pyorrhea, or check its progress—something ordinary tooth pastes are powerless to do. It contains just the right proportion of Forhan's Astringent (as used by the dental profession in the treatment of Pyorrhea). It is safe, efficient and pleasant tasting. Even if you don't care to discontinue your favorite dentifrice, at least start using Forhan's once a day.

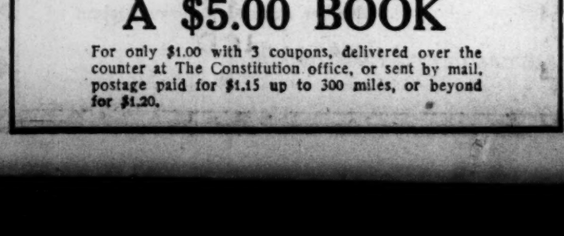

Forhan's is more than a tooth paste; it checks Pyorrhea. Thousands have found it beneficial for years. For your own sake ask for and get Forhan's For the Gums. At all druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

BUSINESS LEADERS SUBSCRIBE $50,000

A larger budget than has ever been used by the Atlanta Merchants and Manufacturers' association was subscribed at the first membership meeting of the organization Tuesday morning at the Chamber of Commerce building.

A representative body of merchants and manufacturers of the city attended the meeting, which was called primarily for raising $50,000 as a budget for 1925, and for the discussion of the program outlined at a recent banquet of the association. The main feature of the 1925 program will be an advertising campaign, advertisements to appear in all three Atlanta papers. J. K. Orr presided.

With the amount already subscribed and with funds which will be obtained from a membership drive that will begin immediately, it is stated that the budget for 1925 will surpass any other ever raised by the association.

W. V. Zimmer, president of the Atlanta Hotel Men's association, delivered a brief address at the meeting, in which he stated that the policy of his association would be to aid in carrying out any movements that would materially help Atlanta and that hotel men will assist merchants and manufacturers in any way possible. Definite action of the hotel men will be taken at its meeting Thursday, stated Mr. Zimmer.

Meyer Regenstein, prominent Atlanta merchant, told the gathering of the plans of the millinery line of the association, stating this branch had planned to make Atlanta the distributing center of the southeast.

THREE-ACT PLAY TO BE PRESENTED AT WOMAN'S CLUB

"Brother Maccabees," a popular play by Larry E. Johnson, well-known American playwright, will be presented at the Atlanta Woman's club the second week of February, by the Stewart Hale Players, according to announcement Monday.

The play is a story of romance in three acts, with an elaborate setting, and is presented by a group of experienced players, it is said.

The play has had two years on Broadway and will be produced under the direction of George C. Chancellor, the same director who supervised its presentation in New York.

Music will be furnished by Tucker's Entertainers.

JUNIOR LEAGUERS ENTER 2 CONTESTS IN SHOW PLANS

Contests for the most popular girl and the best advertising solicitor in connection with the Junior League Follies of 1925, to be presented at the Atlanta theater the week of February 16, were announced Tuesday by Mrs. Bolling Jones III.

The prize for the most popular girl in the cast will be awarded on the last night of the show to the player receiving the most votes, which will be sold nightly from the stage. The prize consists of a large silver picture frame donated by Latham & Atkinson, jewelers.

The advertising contest will close shortly and competition is keen among members of the league. Members securing most advertising for the program will win. First prize will be a corsage of orchids and a $20 gold piece, and second and third prizes will be a silver vase donated by Maier & Berkele, and any pair of shoes in the French Shoe Shop, respectively.

Atlantan To Contest For Share in Estate In New York City

T. S. Chancellor, well-known Atlantan, returned Tuesday to Atlanta from New York, where he went to present claims for himself and his two brothers to a share in the Robert S. Edwards estate, valued at $400,000,000. Mr. Chancellor has records showing that he is a direct discendant of Robert Edwards, who is said to have leased properties covering 78 acres in and about Wall street and Trinity church in New York.

The property was leased by Robert S. Edwards in 1778 for a period of 99 years, heirs claim. The property was obtained in grants from King George III, of England, and at the end of the lease period, they claim the property should have reverted to them. Mr. Chancellor stated that he expects to return to New York soon and enter suit in order to protect his family's interest in the estate.

MANY STATE OFFICES UNDERGOING CHANGES

A number of departmental offices at the state capitol are in chaos at the present time, as workmen prepare to renovate and rearrange the location of various branches of the state government.

The supreme court room was covered with plaster and dirt on Tuesday as workmen tore down much of the interior work in a thorough renovating which they are giving to the historic chamber. The department of game and fish on the third floor, expects to move into new quarters on the other side of the rotunda by the beginning of next week, and a corps of workers also are busily engaged in preparing these rooms.

Quarters of the state public service commission have been at the mercy of the workmen for a week or more, a complete rearrangement of offices, with the object of conserving space, being in progress there.

ESCAPED CONVICT WILL BE RETURNED

Curtis Howard, escaped Georgia convict from Chattahoochee county, was recaptured Tuesday in Chattanooga, Tenn., according to advices received at the state prison commission office.

Howard, a negro, escaped from the Chattahoochee county chaingang on November 11, 1919. He was convicted of manslaughter in Muscogee county and sentenced to 20 years.

Chattanooga Chief of Police W. R. Hackett stated that the prisoner waived requisition and papers for his return to this state were prepared immediately at the executive offices.

UNDERWRITERS HEAR TALK BY HASTINGS

Glover S. Hastings, of Boston, Mass., superintendent of agencies of the New York England Mutual Life Insurance company, will be principal speaker today at 1 o'clock at annual meeting of the Atlanta Life Underwriters' association, to be held at the Henry Grady hotel.

He will speak on "Putting Life Into Life Insurance," his address being followed by an entertaining musical program.

:: SEVENTH "MADE-IN-GERMANY" OBSERVANCE ::

Doorn, January 27.—Frederick William Hohenzollern, the former emperor of Germany who fled from his post on November 9, 1918, celebrated his 61st birthday Tuesday on his tiny estate in the low country.

None of the six Hohenzollern princes was present. Most of the time Tuesday, however, was spent in the depleted midst of his family, receiving congratulations from his faithful court and the Princess Victoria Louise and her husband, the Duke of Brunswick.

A flood of congratulatory messages, pledging the senders to remain true to the kaiser, has descended on Doorn. There have been gifts of flowers, hams, bacon, books and trinkets, but the old days, when as his imperial majesty, Kaiser Wilhelm, II, he could command a spacious palace or castle for his birthday celebration, or the dainty precincts of Sans Souci at Potsdam, are no more. Before 1914 the kaiser's birthday brought jeweled trinkets from St. Petersburg. Gorgeous gifts from Munich. Rome, Madrid, London and other capitals contributed costly presents and friendly words.

Made In Germany.

Tuesday, William experienced the seventh of a series of Made-in-Germany birthdays, with most of Germany, even, abstaining from recognition of the occasion.

Most of the kaiser's sons, with their iron crosses, military trappings and cropped heads, have dropped from view. The former crown prince dallies with politics and husbandry on his estate at Cels, Silesia. Another son, Joachim, killed himself at Potsdam, in 1920.

Prince Oscar Charles doubtless is enjoying the company of his morganatic wife, Ina, Countess of Bassewitz, whom he married as the storm broke July 31, 1914. Subsequently she has become a princes of Prussia, but what the kaiser might have said about so lowly a mate for a member or his family probably might have been plenty had not questions of army corps and Belgium demanded his attention.

Sons Escaped Harm.

Prince Eitel Frederick is not even so well known as his seagoing namesake which harried the seas as a commerce raider during the fall of 1914. Like their military brothers, Adalbert and August William, escaped harm during the war. Only the empress, whose heart was broken and Joachim, who killed himself, gave their lives as a result of the conflict.

There is a recrudescence of monarchism in Berlin with nationalists in the cabinet. The same party is becoming lusty in the Hohenzollern stronghold of Prussia. Such reactionary papers as the "Kreuz Zeitung" continue to print an iron cross at the masthead; but all this seems not enough to bring William back to his throne.

For all his reported acquisition of monkey glands and his dyed whiskers, it is an old man who celebrated in Doorn and his day of glory is gone.

Plan To Move Seminary To Atlanta Arouses Interest

Prospective theological students are beginning to manifest interest in the removal of Columbia Theological seminary from Columbia, S. C., to Atlanta, it was learned at the weekly meeting of the Presbyterian Ministers' association this week.

Several ministers reported that young men of Atlanta had decided to enter the ministry when Columbia seminary is located in Atlanta, as it would give them an opportunity to attend this great training school, which privilege would be denied them if they had to seek their training elsewhere. It was stated by one minister that three young ladies had expressed a desire to go into Christian service since they would have the opportunity of entering the training school, which will be a part of the work given by the seminary.

That the location of Columbia Theological seminary in Atlanta will mean much to Presbyterianism in the southeast is indicated by statistics reported from other sections that have seminaries. Reports show that 70 per cent of graduates of Union seminary at Richmond settle in Virginia—think what a similar result would mean for Georgia and the whole southeast.

Dr. J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott college and one of the foremost educators in the south, in commenting upon the campaign for the removal of the seminary, stated: "We have only to look at the effect of Emory university school of religion to see what a great step forward Methodism has taken in this community within 10 years. Since Atlanta is the most accessible city in the assembly, since it has more Presbyterians than any other city in the south, and since it has a natural territory of large size from which to draw, I am convinced that it ought to have a theological seminary; and surely it is wiser to move the one from Columbia here than to try to start a new one."

CALLS 1924 VOTE MOST INTELLIGENT

Boston, January 27.—The campaign of 1924 worked a veritable revolution in the political thinking processes of the people, United States Senator William M. Butler said tonight in an address at a dinner given in his honor by the Republican club of Massachusetts. The November election was the greatest "thinking election" since the war between the states, the campaign of 1896 alone standing comparison, he added.

Messages of regret at their inability to attend were read from President Coolidge and Charlges G. Dawes, vice president-elect, at the dinner which was announced to be "in recognition of Senator Butler's service in connection with the nomination of President Coolidge, and as chairman of the republican national committee, in securing the election of Coolidge and Dawes."

"There are millions of voters today and I am speaking advisedly, who have no fixed political home, and recognize no party control," Senator Butler said. "Aroused by their experiences in the campaign to a realization that right political thinking is as important as right living they are standing at the political cross-roads.

"Inclined to the belief, common even within our own party, that campaigns and elections are primarily the creations of politicians who conduct them chiefly for their own advancement, and that political platforms are interesting merely as graceful arrangements or meaningless phrases, they have been suddenly brought to a realization that these happenings are of vital importance, not only to the life of our nation but even their own personal fortune."

"These people," he asserted, "who I believe can be brought into formal affiliation with us. But we cannot ignore the fact that their vote in the main were cast for Coolidge the man rather than Coolidge the republican. We must prove to them that our party is worthy of the president and that the president is typically a product of our party."

COTTON CONFERENCE PRODUCES RESULTS

Memphis, January 27.—Traffic managers of various cotton cooperative marketing associations throughout the entire cotton-producing territory who are members of the American Cotton Growers' exchange today concluded a two-day conference, at which various questions having to do with the handling of cotton, marketing, insurance and practically every phase of the business were discussed. The conference was the first session to be held since the American exchange made Memphis its general headquarters last August.

Charles B. Bowling, traffic manager of the American exchange, was in charge of the several conferences held, and said that he was highly elated at the success of this first conference.

"We found that many of those in attendance," he said, "had solved problems that were causing great concern to other associations and the opportunity for an exchange of ideas and full discussion was of tremendous value to all who attended."

A. O. Moser, secretary and general manager; C. B. Howard, general sales manager, and L. F. McKay, director of field service and public relations, were included in the officials of the exchange who attended the two-day conference.

TUGS FREE SCHOONER SHERWOOD FROM ROCKS

Mobile, Ala., January 27.—The American four-master schooner Hope Sherwood, Ira McLaughlin, master, aground between Fort Morgan and Pensacola, Fla., since January 12, was floated today by tugs and towed to this port. The schooner was driven ashore during heavy weather while en route to this port from Macoris, Santo Domingo.

DR. SUN YAT-SEN REPORTED DEAD

Tokio, January 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, one of China's most noted political leaders, is dead at Peking, according to a dispatch received here this afternoon by the Japanese semi-official news agency.

EXPECTED TO DIE, PEKING REPORTS

Peking, January 27.—(By the Associated Press).—Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, head of the government of South China, with headquarters at Canton, is suffering from a cancer of the liver which is expected by physicians to prove fatal within ten days.

That announcement was made after an operation yesterday.

Seattle, Wash., January 27.—Peace in China with preservation of the republican form of government as a result of the conference of Chinese leaders now being held in Peking, China, was forecast by Dr. Robert S. Norman, of Oakland, Calif., legal adviser to Dr. Sun Yat-Sen at a banquet given in his honor here last night by the Chinese National Party of Seattle.

"The real fighting in China is over, at least temporarily, while the four representative leaders of the nation are in conference in Peking," said Dr. Norman. "This is the most promising step toward stable peace in China since the revolution. The present fighting is over local and restricted issues in isolated sections.

"Dr. Sun told me he would be willing to forego any personal ambitions should some other man be selected as a leader for all China at this conference."

Dr. Norman will leave tomorrow on the American Oriental Mail line steamship, President McKinley, for Peking.

SISTER SENDS WESLEYAN CHECK.

Macon, January 27.—Mrs. H. H. Kung, sister of the wife of Sun Yat-Sen, head of the government of south China, who is reported dying in Peking, is the donor of a check for $300 received Monday by President Quillian, of Wesleyan, with a letter in which Mrs. Kung expresses her desire to aid in the effort for a greater Wesleyan, and hopes that her two little daughters "may learn to love the alma mater."

Mrs. Kung was graduated from Wesleyan in 1909. At that time she was Miss E. Ling Soone, sister of Miss Cheng Ling Soone, who was graduated four years later and who later was married to Sun Yat-Sen, one of China's most able and prominent political leaders in the stormy period of the nation's history through which it has passed and is passing.

The letter was written from Shanghai on Christmas eve and inclosed a draft for $300 gold.

Early in the fall of 1924 Mrs. Sun Yat-Sen made a gift of $500 to the college.

NORTH CAROLINA SPENT $43,356,817 IN 1924

Washington, January 27.—Expenditures of the state government of North Carolina for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, totalled $43,356,817, or $16.16 per capita, according to figures made public tonight by the census bureau.

Expenditures for operation of the general departments of the state government totalled $13,687,789. The largest expenditure was that of the highway commission, $24,288,470.

The state's revenues for the period totalled $22,113,457, or $8.24 per capita. This figure was $6,541,672 more than the total payments of the year exclusive of those for permanent improvements. Payments in excess of revenue receipts were made from proceeds of obligations.

Property and special taxes represented 23.3 per cent of the total revenue for 1923, against 41.6 per cent for 1922.

The state's net indebtedness was $54,093,700, or $20.16 per capita, in 1923. The per capita debt for 1922 was $10.47, the bureau figures showed.

ALMON ADVOCATES UNDERWOOD BILL

Washington, January 27.—Representative Almon, democrat, representing the Eighth Alabama district, in which the Muscle Shoals power project is located, declared in an address in the house today that he favored the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill because he was "willing to trust the president of the United States to make a lease of the property as provided in the bill."

"The farmers," Representative Almon asserted, "have grown tired, impatient and somewhat disgusted and do not understand why congress cannot settle this question and put the plants into operation for the manufacture of fertilizer.

"I do not know to whom the president will make a lease. No American citizen or American owned and controlled company, or corporation, is barred under the provisions of the senate bill. Personally I would like to see it leased to Henry Ford, for I believe that he and his company would utilize this property to a greater advantage to the American people at large, and especially the farmers, than any one else to whom it could be leased. We expect to make an effort to get Mr. Ford interested again in Muscle Shoals when this bill is enacted into law."

Representative Almon declared it had been proven "that with cheap water power at Muscle Shoals, taking the nitrogen from the air by fixation of atmospheric nitrogen, phosphate from mines nearby with inexhaustible quantities of the coal, limestone and all other raw materials in close proximity to Muscle Shoals, that fertilizer could be made there from one-third to one-half cheaper than existing prices.

It was conceded, he said, that the price of fertilizer made at Muscle Shoals would control the price of all fertilizer used by the farmers. This would amount to a saving of at least $175,000,000 annually to the farmers of the United States.

"I would call the attention of my democratic colleagues, especially from the south," the speaker continued, "that we have a republican president from New England, who in his recent address to congress recommended and urged that this great development, located in the center of the south, not only be completed but that it be operated for the manufacture of fertilizer for the benefit of agriculture.

"The senate bill carries out his recommendations. So it seems to me that every representative, especially from the south and other agricultural districts, which require and use fertilizer, should give this measure hearty and unanimous support. Of course the advantages accruing to agriculture would inure to every class of the American people."

MRS. T. J. BOWDEN DIES AT PORTERDALE HOME

Covington, Ga., January 27.—(Special.)—Mrs. T. J. Bowden, 52, died at her home in Porterdale Monday morning after having been seriously ill for three weeks.

She is survived by her husband, T. J. Bowden, and the following children: H. G. Bowden, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. Bennie Morris, John B. Bowden, Mrs. Lartrelle McKibben, Miss Jennie Mae Bowden, Miss Mamie Bowden and Charlie Bowden, all of Porterdale.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. J. Brown at the County Line church Tuesday morning. Interment was in the church cemetery.

tion when he failed to produce a bond of $200,000 fixed by a court, and that his subsequent failure to answer was used to obtain an affirmation of the decision by default in the supreme court.

"Colonel Ownbey was called," he asserted, "and then was denied a hearing by the court which called him because he couldn't raise $200 to buy a permit to be heard. The technicality was raised under an obsolete statute known as the 'Custom of London,' but which had been annulled in the British courts 40 years before.

"No bond was required of the Morgan heirs when they attached the property of Colonel Ownbey. No one denied he had the testimony necessary to disprove the allegations set out in the complaint against him."

Senator Heflin also asserted the court record showed that the Morgan estate had offered $1,250,000 for property of the defendant, which it subsequently bid in at a legal sale for $41,000.

Ruling of Chair.

The discussion did not end until Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, temporarily occupying the chair, ruled in favor of several points of order against a speech in reply to Senator Heflin by Senator Sterling, republican, South Dakota, chairman of the judiciary sub-committee which first considered the Stone nomination.

Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, asserted after the ruling had been made that it was time for the senate to "get in step with the public" and eliminate some of the secrecy of government business. He pointed out that while the senate yesterday was arguing about maintaining the secrecy of its executive sessions, President Coolidge had broadcast to the country by radio a business meeting of the executive departments.

PAINT MORTIMER AS DRAFT DODGER

political imposters to bleed the nation by swindling the government under the pretense of serving the bleeding veterans. Let us demand responsibility where it lies—on congressmen and senators of the United States."

Upon agreement between counsel, and with the consent of Federal Judge George A. Carpenter, the name of Mrs. Carolyn Votaw, sister of former President Harding, was withdrawn from the record of the trial. Mrs. Votaw, who was an adviser to the federal board of vocational education under Forbes' administration of the veterans' bureau, was mentioned in the trial in connection with a letter to Mortimer by J. W. Black, Thompson's partner.

A formal stipulation between counsel exonerated her of any connection, even circumstantial, with the case in trial, or with any alleged irregularities in the veterans' bureau.

Easby-Smith pointed to differences between Mortimer's testimony here and the story he related before the senate veterans' bureau committee in the fall of 1923, particularly with reference to a secret code which Mortimer had said four times in this trial be communicated to Forbes as a part of the conspiracy.

"Swear Soul to Hell."

He alluded also to the testimony of Dr. George B. Tulldige, of Philadelphia, Mortimer's father-in-law, that Mortimer had threatened "to swear his soul to hell and his body to the penitentiary" to "get Forbes." He recalled from the same testimony Mortimer's threat unless Mrs. Mortimer supported his testimony before the senate committee he would "drag her down into the mire."

"Gentlemen of the jury, I still remember that one of the ten commandments is 'Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor;' and I contend here that that commandment applies just as much to government prosecutors and agents of the department of justice as it does to the rest of us."

"Why look at the way this mind worked!" Lewis exclimed in elaborating upon his suggestion of mental debility in Mortimer. "First it was $1,500 to be divided between three; then it was $15,000, again to be divided in three; then $50,000 for a pardon, to be divided in three; then $100,000 for his influence in the Gutheil case, to be divided in three; then $300,000 for the Vincenti pardon, to be divided between three—Mortimer, Jesse Smith and some one else and lastly $1,000,000 for the wooden fleet, to be divided between Pope, MacDonald and Mortimer.

"It is not improbable that he is now telling of an offer of $2,000,000 or $5,000,000 from the government not to desert this case."

MARKETING BOARD AS AID TO U. S. FARMERS

taining business, and seeks to relieve the government from the doles which have been extracted from it since the war.

Committee Recommendations.

In substance the commission recommends:

1. Creation of a federal cooperative marketing board of five members, two to be the secretary of agriculture and the secretary of commerce, the other three to be nominated by recognized cooperative marketing associations, and to be paid $12,000 a year, to serve six years. For the first year the board would receive an appropriation of $500,000.

2. That this board lay down standards for grading, exchange of price and crop information, install efficiency and accounting systems, give advice, make special surveys, and register marketing associations meeting its standards, all on a voluntary basis.

3. Exemption of cooperative organizations from anti-trust and restraint of trade laws in pooling prices and crop information and in voluntarily agreeing to restrict or expand crops to meet demand.

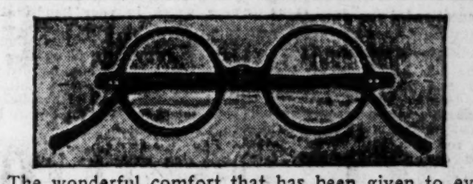

Agricultural Credits.

4. Amendment of the agricultural credits act so that national agricultural credit corporations are made eligible to rediscount with federal intermediate credit banks, especially to aid in live stock financing.

5. Readjustment of rate structure affecting farm products and live stock by interstate commerce commission.

6. Expansion of protective tariff to protect against foreign hides and meats, copra, vegetable oils and dried fruits.

The report warns agriculture against depending upon foreign markets and urges farmers to adjust their business on a domestic basis. This is a direct blow to the principle involved in the famous McNary-Haugen bill, which would stabilize domestic wheat prices by authorizing the government to buy wheat and pool it for export in order to keep up the home price.

The wonderful comfort that has been given to eyeglass and spectacle wearers has caused us to suggest the skull fit zylonite frame.

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS WORTH

More!

Once again the L. & N.'s treasury has been opened to provide funds for bettering its service. This time five million dollars go into the purchase of equipment. More locomotives, more freight cars and more passenger coaches are necessary to handle the increasing volume of business.

Eternal watchfulness of the condition of its equipment, its roadbed and its service has earned for the L. & N. and maintained for three generations the name—"The Old Reliable".

Atlanta Woman Educator Lauds Constitution Part In Oratorical Contest

Mrs. Julia O'Keefe Nelson Says Move Is "Finest Thing Attempted by Any Daily Paper."

Mrs. Julia O'Keefe Nelson, member of the Atlanta board of education, writing The Constitution in regard to the oratorical contest now being conducted in this state by this paper, the state high school association, and the American Bar association, declares it "one of the finest things attempted by any daily paper in a long time."

This contest, which has been sponsored by The Constitution and for which this paper is offering a number of cash prizes, is part of the national contest conducted by the American Bar association in which seven handsome cash prizes are offered for the seven best orators among the students in American high schools.

Any bona fide school student, resident of Georgia, is eligible to enter the contest in this state. Either boys or girls may compete. The only restrictions are that they must be over 19 years of age on February 1, this year, and that the original orations they write for the contest must not take them over 10 minutes to deliver.

There are eight subjects from which each contestant may choose in writing his oration, the first being the federal constitution, and the others the relationship to this document of Washington, Madison, Jefferson, Marshall, Webster, Hamilton or Lincoln.

Elimination Contests.

Elimination contests will first be held in each high school and the winners will then meet in a contest with other school winners in their congressional district. For the 12 Georgia district winners The Constitution offers prizes of $15 each. These 12 will then come to Atlanta on May 24 and compete before Governor Clifford Walker. For the state winners The Constitution offers a first prize of $100 and a second prize of $20. The state winner will then go to Nashville to meet other state winners in this zone, to compete for the zone winner on May 1. There are seven zones in the country, and the seven zone winners will meet in the national conest in Washington, D. C., on May 8. They will deliver their orations before President Coolidge and the following seven prizes will be awarded:

First, $2,000; second, $1,000; third, $500; fourth, $450; fifth, $400; sixth, $350; seventh, $300.

Speaking further of this contest, Mrs. Nelson said on Tuesday:

"Ever and anon is the lament heard 'We have no Benjamin Hills nor Robert Toombs in congress now, no Henry Clays nor Daniel Websters. No great orators to champion great causes.'

Everyone Has Part.

"The bricklayers, the carpenters, the inventor, the capitalist, are necessary pillars in the temple of civilization, but so are authors, editors, professors in school and colleges, lecturers, preachers, though the fact seems to be often overlooked.

"The tendency now is to overrate industrial education and underrate scholastic instruction. Oratory, of course, can be degraded to base uses, but I think history reveals that oratory usually means noble thoughts, simply and nobly expressed. I believe the majority of famous orators were men cultivating a noble art, for noble purposes.

"I presume the contest in oratory will inspire many a student to pore over the lives of great orators, to study their aims and struggles and successes. It will take the thoughts of all true aspirants from the mad rush for money. It will inspire them to think of noble service and seek noble English in which to express such service.

FOUR PRISONERS TO TESTIFY TODAY IN PEN INQUIRY

Four federal prisoners, among them George Remus, "millionaire bootlegger," will appear before the federal grand jury of this district when it meets in special session today to resume the investigation which resulted in the indictment several weeks ago of A. E. Sartain, former warden of the Atlanta penitentiary, and I. J. Fletcher, former deputy warden, on charges of accepting bribes.

The prisoners, who have been held in jail at Athens since they appeared before the grand jury here some time ago, were brought to Atlanta Tuesday night. Besides Remus, there will be C. C. Tuten, whose charges that the former warden accepted bribes from him in exchange for "easy" tasks around the prison formed the basis of the indictment against Sartain. William Haar, of Savannah, and Emanuel Kessler, alleged notorious bootlegger from New York, are the other two.

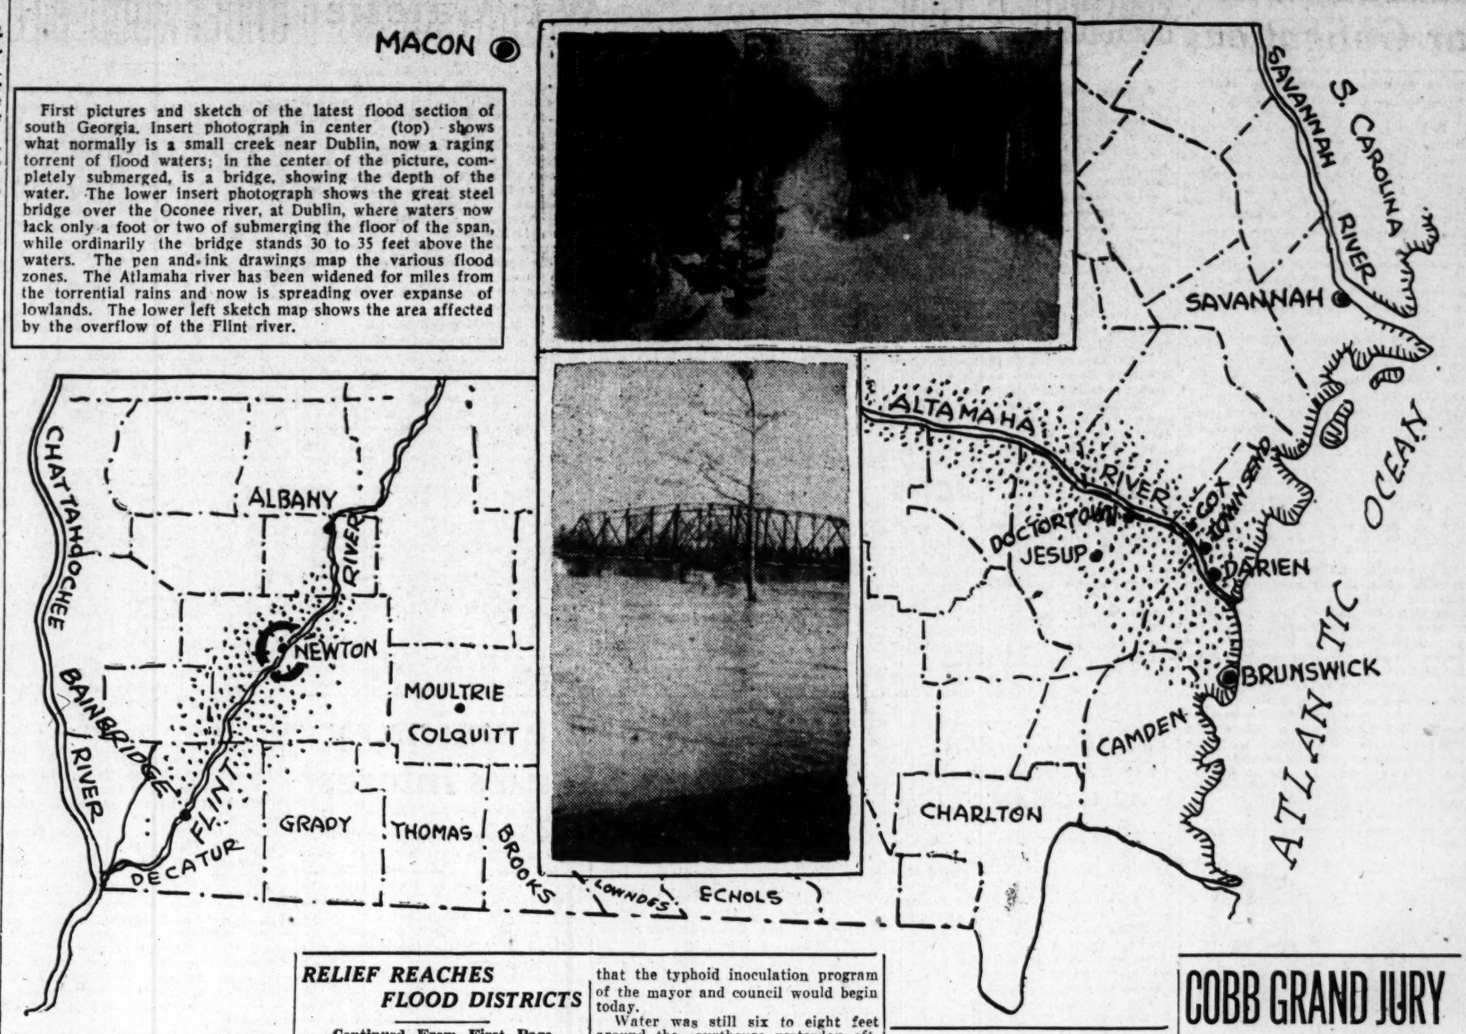

Investigation of conditions at the prison has been under way for some time, under direction of Frank L. Dodge, chief of department of justice agents. Mr. Dodge still is in Atlanta and it is understood he will have charge of presenting evidence at Wednesday's session of the grand jury.

Clint W. Hager, district attorney, refused to comment on the announcement that the four prisoners had been subpoenaed. It is understood, however, that the special session of the grand jury today will seek new indictments against both Fletcher and Sartain, although what charges would be preferred could not be learned.

Since the indictment of Sartain, John Snook, of Idaho, has assumed the office of warden.

Where Flood Waters From North Georgia Now Rage

RELIEF REACHES FLOOD DISTRICTS

150 persons, to care for in this vicinity, according to Dr. W. J. Long, chairman of the relief committee. These families are scattered about at isolated spots, some hovered together in single farm houses, some marooned in their own dwellings.

"At Cox nearby, there are 40 families reported to be in distress. Emergency supplies were being rushed to them this morning.

"Those who haven't been here cannot realize the serious plight of these people.

"The Paulsen arrived here within 20 minutes of the scheduled time yesterday, and there hasn't been an idle moment since in getting food to the sufferers.

"I do not believe there are any unaccounted for, so thorough has the distribution, under the direction of local authorities, been carried out, and the immediate needs have been cared for. However, there appears to be no abatement of the waters in sight, and it will be necessary to carry on this relief work for several days.

"When we arrived here yesterday the local committee, headed by Dr. Long, met the tug Paulsen at Cedar Point, our landing place, and the unloading of food was started without delay.

"Piled on horse drawn teams—automobile truck travel is impossible—a full ton of food was carried on the first trip into the flood stricken area.

"Luckily, we brought along a couple of detachable motors, and these were hooked onto the rowboats supplied at Cedar Point. The rowboats are attached to the teams, and in some cases, automobiles. When the cars stall, the motorboat travel is resorted to. The food is piled on the motors and—well, you can bet the chug chug of those little motors up to some farm house crowded with despondent folk whose wordly wealth has been swept away overnight is sweet music to their ears.

"I spent last night on the tug. Other members of the Savannah party, including Miss Kirkpatrick, who represents the Red Cross, were taken to Townsend, where accommodations were provided for them.

"This morning, I made the trip from Cedar Point to Townsend in an automobile. I had a rowboat attached, but we pulled it all the way. The trip from Cedar Point to Townsend is fourteen miles, but we picked a way that only required about a mile's travel through deep water.

"When I reach Savannah today I will take on a supply of compasses, as we find we need them badly in this water flooded country.

"Major Price, who was sent from Fort Screven to make a survey of the situation in this vicinity, arrived in Townsend this morning. He says the conditions at Ludowici are fairly good. We will go to Darien tomorrow.

"One of the lamentable tolls of the flood is the loss sustained by the livestock men. One man has lost over $5,000 worth of sheep. Another over $3,000 in cattle. The carcasses can be seen floating about, and this does not help health conditions.

"There are a few cases of influenza reported, and I have communicated with the captain of the United States coast guard cutter Yamacraw, now at Sapelo Sound. He has promised to send an army physician if local doctors cannot control the situation."

The Paulsen left Townsend shortly after 9 o'clock on its return to Savannah. It was expected to reach Savannah tonight.

Fort Screven authorities have been ordered to supply the needs of the flood sufferers through the civilian authorities. The rations include army goods, such as flour, bacon and canned goods.

COURTHOUSE STILL STANDING

Albany, Ga., January 27.—Captain Clyde Johnson, of Atlanta, and a sergeant from the medical corps arrived here last night and left today for Newton to assist Colonel P. L. Jones, of the United States army; Major Frank Greene, of the Red Cross, and Captain R. E. Jones, of the officers' reserve corps, as well as the Newton relief committee, in working out the problems that are expected to follow the flood. Recession of the Flint river waters from the business houses and homes of Newton is expected to call for sanitary and health measures, as the county seat has been under water for more than a week. Yesterday afternoon the waters began falling rapidly. Yesterday afternoon a meeting of the mayor and council of Newton was held and an ordinance was passed providing for compulsory inoculation against typhoid.

Soap, lime, crude oil, sufficient for all the flood sufferers there, were taken to Newton yesterday. The oil and lime will be used for disinfecting purposes. Colonel Jones made a talk to the people yesterday on the importance of safeguarding health at this particular time and announced that the typhoid inoculation program of the mayor and council would begin today.

Water was still six to eight feet around the courthouse yesterday afternoon and was in all of the stores although the waters had receded probably four feet from high water mark. No further cracking in the courthouse wall was noted since the falling in of a portion of the north wall Sunday and hopes were entertained that the building would stand.

Florida tourists trains from Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati, running regularly through Albany, by way of Tifton and Waycross, and which have been detoured for several days through Thomasville, are now operating on their regular route again, the Atlantic Coast line's big washout at Alapaha, beetween Tifton and Waycross, having been repaired.

Other tourist trains from New York, Washington and Philadelphia regularly routed through Savannah continued to be routed through Albany, as the Atlantic Coast Line's washout between Macon and Savannah had not been repaired. The Central of Georgia's line between Macon and Savannah was opened yesterday.

RED CROSS RELIEF REACHES STATESBORO.

Statesboro, Ga., January 27.—Red Cross relief from Atlanta is being distributed through the Statesboro chapter to flood-stricken families in the Dover and Ogeechee sections.

Miss Elizabeth Robison reached here yesterday from Atlanta, and with M. C. MacDougle, local Red Cross chairman, made a survey of the conditions in the stricken area.

One woman was found ill with influenza in her home, marooned by the rising water and lying in a bed soggy with the water which had invaded the room. Twelve destitute cases were found and aid administered.

Funds are being sent from Atlanta to care for the sufferers around Dover and Ogeechee.

FLOOD INTERFERED WITH COURT.

Savannah, Ga., January 27.—Flood conditions in south Georgia seriously interfered with the federal court for this district when Judge Barrett convened the adjourned November term Monday. Many of the grand and traverse jurymen who live in the rural districts were unable to reach Savannah. Six grand jurymen answered to their names when the list was sounded. This was not a sufficient number to transact business.

A dozen traverse jurymen answered "Here." This is enough for one complete jury and the court intends to proceed. Instant notices will be served on citizens in Savannah ordering them to report as talismen in order to make more jurymen available.

THOMASVILLE ATTENTIVE TO TOURIST TRAINS.

Thomasville, Ga., January 27—(Special.)—With 30 or more extra passenger trains a day detouring through Thomasville for the past week, the town and vicinity has had to do some hustling to supply milk, cream and eggs for the use of the dining cars, as all of these trains stop over here to change crews and to replenish supplies.

Most of the passengers have taken the long detours good-naturedly and many seem interested in Thomasville. Under the auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, a bevy of Thomasville's prettiest girls have been carrying flowers to the trains each day and presenting them to the belated tourists, who have seemed most enthusiastic over the flowers and the attentions shown them.

A big black cook on one of the trains remarked to the agent here, "Boss, we sho likes dis place. Can't you sidetrack our train and hold it here?" showing that the enthusiasm for Thomasville was not confined to the Pullmans.

Great credit is due the employees of the Atlantic Coast Line here for the energy and loyalty displayed by them in the unflagging work done in handling the vast amount of extra business at the station.

Among the trains coming through here every day have been the Palmetto Limited, Seminole Limited, Floridian, Dixie Limited, Dixie Flyer, Southland, Dixie Express, Everglades Limited and a number of others.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE TO HIGHWAYS.

While reports from south Georgia to the state highway department indicate that the damage to highways by the floods has been far greater than was at first anticipated, plans for immediate repair and rebuilding were pushed on Tuesday. It is expected that everything will be in readiness to begin the rebuilding in the worst flooded areas as soon as the floods which still cover large areas have subsided, officials said.

Officials of the highway department on Tuesday conferred with Secretary of State S. Guyt McLendon in regard to the possibility of immediate availability of funds to meet the flood emergency and were assured by Mr. McLendon that collections for 1925 automobile license tags, which are made through his office, were sufficient to insure the payment of a substantial amount of these funds to the highway department at once.

The funds from this source are turned over to the highway department for repair and maintenance of roads and it is considered fortunate that, if the floods had to come and damage the roads, that the disaster came at this time of the year when the income from tag sales is heaviest.

It was stated Tuesday that it would be impossible to estimate the total amount of road damage from the floods until the waters had all receded but that conditions in south Georgia were quite serious. Greatest damage, it was said, was done to fills and approaches to bridges, which had in many instances been washed away when the weight of the dammed waters became too great for the embankments to bear.

PLAN TO BEAUTIFY PEACHTREE STREET URGED BY WOMEN

Plans for a planting ceremony to be held at the Atlanta Woman's club as soon as all property owners on Peachtree street, from the Woman's club building to Oglethorpe university, respond to the proposal to plant flowering peach trees on the lawns and in front of the homes along Peachtree, are being made by the forestry committee of the Atlanta Woman's club, it was announced Tuesday.

Several hundred trees already have been ordered and plans to make the street "a flowering boulevard" are meeting with enthusiastic success, members of the committee state. An extensive door-to-door and letter campaign is being conducted and all property owners will be listed by February. Trees will be planted at intervals of 25 feet. Thus far the proposal has not met with a single objection, the committee reports.

Mrs. J. R. Gray, one of the property owners, has placed an order for 90 trees, and Mrs. Wickliffe Goldsmith has ordered 18. Other orders for 12 or more have been received from Mrs. Hollins Randolph, Mrs. Edwin Johnson, Mrs. Henry Topps and others.

All property owners on Peachtree street, from the Woman's Club building to Brookwood station, who have not been called on, are urged to communicate with Mrs. C. N. Davie, Hemlock 2533-W. Other residents on Peachtree street, from Brookwood station to Buckhead, who have not yet been reached, are requested to communicate with either Mrs. J. R. Little, Hemlock 6031, or Mrs. Guy Woolford, Hemlock 1007-J.

INJUNCTION HITS VALIDITY OF CITY ZONE ORDINANCE

Validity of the zoning law now in effect in Atlanta is attacked in an injunction asked of Judge W. D. Ellis in Fulton superior court, by Mrs. Chauncey Smith, of East Eighth street, who asks that the city be restrained from prosecuting her for building a business house at the intersection of Piedmont avenue and the Southern railroad.

Mrs. Smith claims that she requested permission of city council to build a store on the site, but that her petition was denied on the grounds that it was a residential zone. However, she proceeded with construction of the building in order to test the law, and a case was made against her in recorder's court.

Mrs. Smith claims that the law is unconstitutional in that it deprives the owner of use of the property by limiting the uses to which it can be put.

The case will be argued before Judge Ellis this morning.

M'CLURE GETS PERMIT TO ADD TO BUILDING

Extensive improvements and alterations to the McClure Ten Cent company building at Whitehall and Hunter streets were announced Tuesday with issuance of a building permit stating that the work will cost $68,000. However, officials of the company could not be reached Tuesday night, and the nature of the improvements could not be learned.

The contractor, according to the permit, is C. H. Van Ormer.

ATLANTA CITIZEN KILLED IN WRECK

Fitzgerald, Ga., January 27.—G. C. Wallace, Atlanta, express messenger, was killed and several passengers slightly injured late today when a passenger train of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic railroad, for Atlanta, ran into an eastbound freight train 21 miles east of Fitzgerald.

Engineer William J. Morrison, on the passenger train, and C. M. Wilson, engineer on the freight, jumped from the engines, as did also their firemen, and escaped with minor injuries. J. D. Cornwall, mail clerk, probably owes his life to the steel car provided for the service.

One young man said to be en route to an Atlanta hospital was also hurt. He was brought to a local hospital for treatment.

Several hundred people gathered at the depot to meet the relief train which had been dispatched to the scene of the wreck.

Both engines were badly damaged and the express car and contents were a total wreck. Officials expect to have the track cleared for traffic during the night.

Hundreds of cars of perishable freight detoured from other lines will be delayed by the accident.

A misunderstanding of orders to the freight crew is said to have caused the wreck.

The body of G. T. Wallace, killed in a wreck yesterday near Fitzgerald, is expected to arrive in Atlanta sometime this morning, it was stated Tuesday night from the residence at 92 Park street. He was 26 years old.

The deceased is survived by his widow; a one-year-old daughter, Lalah Wallace; his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wallace, of Mandeville, La.; two sisters, Mrs. Paul Galmiche and Mrs. Anita Amecker, and two brothers, Simon and Wilbur Wallace.

THE SUNSHINE WAY TO SUNNY CALIFORNIA.

The operation of a through drawing-room sleeping car daily, between Memphis and Los Angeles, is announced by the Missouri Pacific railroad, to commence from Memphis, Tenn., on Sunday, February 1.

This sleeper will be carried by the famous Sunshine Special, departing from Memphis at 11:15 p. m., and arriving in Los Angeles via the Southern Pacific lines at 5:25 p. m., on the third day.

An attractive feature of this route is the four hours' stop-over at El Paso, permitting of a visit to quaint, interesting Juarez, Mexico—just across the border.

Excelling dining car service provided for all meals.

COBB GRAND JURY ASKS JITNEY BAN

Marietta, Ga., January 27.—(Special.)—A feature of the street-car jitney question here today was the commendation by the Cobb county grand jury in its presentments, of the Marietta ordinance barring jitneys operating in opposition to the street cars, and the recommendation that Smyrna council also pass similar ordinance.

The grand jury in its report expressed its high regard for the Atlanta Northern railroad and deplored opposition to it by jitneys and recommended that they be barred from all of Cobb county. "If our people need any further power to protect them from these motor vehicles, we recommend that such power be acquired at the next session of the legislature" the report concluded.

J. L. Gantt was foreman and H. G. Hawkins, clerk of the Cobb jury.

The city ordinance barring jitneys from Atlanta and parallel streets here went into effect Monday night and today no jitneys operating to Atlanta were in evidence, the street cars taking care of all the Marietta-to-Atlanta traffic.

WAR ON VAGRANTS RESUMED BY CHIEF

The drive against idling and loitering was renewed Tuesday in the roundup of 21 negroes who are held at police station on a charge of vagrancy.

Renewal of the drive is at the instance of Acting Chief of Police E. L. Jett who declares "loafing is the preliminary step toward a life of crime."

The negroes arrested Tuesday were found in a group on the corner of Courtland and Decatur streets by Sergeant W. P. Reed.

TOLD TO HOLD FRUIT UNTIL FLOODS RECEDE

Tampa, Fla., January 27.—Florida citrus growers are warned against further shipments of fruit to the north until the floods in Georgia subside and transportation lines are opened again. George A. Scott, general sales maanger of the Citrus exchange, issued a statement here this morning declaring that further shipments now will be "disastrous and suicidal." The only lines handling eastern traffic, Mr. Scott says, are the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic and the Southern roads and these are taxed with passenger service.

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—(adv.)

Permanent roads are a good investment —not an expense

—and No Place to Go!

We find ourselves, almost without realizing it, a nation on wheels.

We drive or ride in 16,000,000 motor vehicles.

We pack the paved highways coming in and out of town. We over-run even so-called remote regions. And we are pounding to pieces all but permanent roads.

Next year 4,000,000 new cars will be on the road. Compared to this increase, the mileage of new permanent roads will be insignificant.

The answer is, build more, and where necessary, wider concrete roads—and start building them now.

Not in a long time have general conditions been so favorable for carrying on such public works as permanent highway building.

Your highway authorities are ready to carry on their share of this great public work. But they must have your support.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.

Washington, January 27.—(Special.) With John W. Davis back in this country again, democrats are beginning to turn their thoughts toward rehabilitation of the party preparatory to the congressional elections in 1926, and are expecting that their candidate in the recent election will assume the titular leadership of the democratic forces in the year future.

Democratic leaders here feel that Davis should assert his leadership and lend his counsel in reforming the party and that now is the time to get busy. There has been lots of talk, some of it regarded as distinctly harmful and rather destructive, up to this time. It is felt that it is time to bring the leading minds of the party together, and work out some program that will establish harmony and give the party a united front as far as possible.

Reorganization Meeting.

It may be now that the conference of democratic leaders suggested by Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, will take concrete shape, and that party chieftains will get together for a reorganization meeting, sometime in the near future.

In the immediate future a number of democratic leaders, including Roosevelt, will confer with Davis, and it is likely that some definite movement will grow out of this meeting.

An event that will have its reaction on future democratic plans is the convention of La Follette leaders early in February. Whatever the outcome of that conference it will have a bolstering effect upon democratic followers. If it decides upon formation of a new third party and outlines a permanent organization plan, it will stir up democrats to get busy in order that they may be better able to combat its influence than during the recent campaign. If the third party idea is abandoned, then this should work to give democrats great encouragement. There are rumors now that the socialists who amalgamated with the La Follette movement during the last campaign are going to break away again and resume their party individuality, which will cut away some of the movement's strength, particularly in such centers as New York.

It is no disputed fact that the democratic party is in a confusing muddle at this time. It has even lost many of its organization contacts.

Not Functioning Now.

The democratic national committee, the only permanent national party organization, is not functioning and has not functioned since the election. Members of the committee have come here from time to time, but they have found nothing here but two or three office rooms, with as many clerks.

Clem L. Shaver, still national chairman, has not been seen around "headquarters" for weeks. There is no publicity organization. The women's bureau of the committee is closed and Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, its head, has returned to her home in Missouri.

It has been suggested for some time that if Shaver retired, Representative Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, might be persuaded to return to the chairmanship, a post he held for nearly three years, retiring when Davis selected Shaver.

Davis, it is presumed, does not aspire to lead his party as its candidate in another election, and for that reason he would have additional strength and prestige if he undertakes to deal seriously with party problems.

OPERATIONS FAIL, ECLIPSE RESTORES SIGHT, IS CLAIM

Lodi, N. J., January 27.—As the result of looking directly at the eclipse of the sun last Saturday, Louis Pretola, 54, claims to have regained his eye sight after having been unable to see without glasses for seven years due to cataracts.

Pretola had undergone four unsuccessful operations for removal of the cataracts. After he had gazed at the sun without smoked glasses he suffered severe pains but within a few hours his sight began to return to normal and he discarded the strong glasses he had worn seven years.

PISTOL EXHIBITED IN DOCTOR TRIAL

Bessemer, Ala., January 27.—The state today in the trial of Dr. George T. Edwards, charged with slaying his wife on December 2, introduced the testimony of Samuel Tannenbaum, Birmingham pawnbroker, that a .44 calibre revolver found in the attic of the Edwards home was purchased by the physician two weeks before his wife was slain. Solicitor Ben Perry presented the evidence in an evident attempt to break down Dr. Edwards' story that his wife was slain by an assailant who entered the home through a window and that the physician himself was shot in the hand by the same intruder. Another pistol of .38 calibre, which Dr. Edwards says he used in firing three times at the intruder was offered as evidence in the court room.

The pawn broker testified that Edwards gave the name of "J. E. Williams" and paid $14 in purchasing the .44 calibre revolver. Referring to his records the pawnbroker said that the pistol had been pawned to him late in 1923 by J. A. Bradley, of Oneonta.

The state earlier in the day had introduced Bradley as a witness and established by his testimony that the pistol found in the Edwards home was the same one he had pawned.

Many Items Shown.

The pawnshop pistol with which the state contends Dr. Edwards shot himself in the hand after killing his wife, together with a blood-stained sheet and pillow case, Edwards' bath robe, a furnace shaker, screen doors and windows removed from the home, were exhibited to the jury over the protest of Attorney George Ross, for the defense.

W. A. Stephens, another state witness, and a civil engineer, submitted to the jury drawings of the Edwards home prepared at the request of Solicitor Perry. The sketch pointed out the blood stains and was intended to bolster up the state theory that the murder was an "inside job."

On cross-examination, Stephens admitted that investigation officers gave him "pointers as to how his sketch should be prepared." Judge Gwin admitted the drawing in evidence over defense objections.

Attorney Ross drew from W. R. Sims, special officer and state witness that he carried a jury list around with him, in an effort to find out which of the veniremen summoned for the trial would be "good state jurors." Sims denied that he had been active against the accused doctor.

Defense Admits Gun.

Sims admitted under examination by the defense that the "attic" pistol was discovered in Edwards' home by investigating officers after many persons had visited the house. The defense attorney indicated that he was laying plans to prove that "Edwards was the victim of a 'frame-up' by the officers."

R. T. Brown, a neighbor of the Edwardses, was the first witness introduced today by the state. He vividly portrayed events immediately following the slaying of Mrs. Edwards. He said that when he rushed to the Edwards home in response to Dr. Edwards' cries the first words of the physician were: "Mr. Brown, Mr. Brown, I believe somebody has killed my wife." He told of entering the home and finding Mrs. Edwards dead on the bed.

On cross-examination Brown said that a cap had been found between the Brown and Edwards home on the day of the tragedy and that he had burned it, police claiming that no importance was attached to the discovery. He testified that he and the officers noticed that the trademark had been removed from the inside of the cap.

ROCKEFELLER GIVES $675,000 TO BAPTISTS

Washington, January 27.—An outright gift of $225,000 and a conditional gift of $450,000 by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., toward meeting the budget requirements of the Northern Baptist church for the fiscal year ending April 30, was announced today at a meeting here of leaders of that denomination.

The gift of $450,000 is conditional upon the denomination completing by April 30 the raising of a $6,700,000 fund determined upon as necessary for missionary and other enterprises during the year. It was said that about $4,000,000 would be required to complete that amount.

FATHER OF LABOR HEAD TO BE BURIED THURSDAY

Coshocton, Ohio., January 27.—Funeral services for Hugh Green, father of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who died at his home heer today from heart trouble and gangrene poisoning, will be held Thursday afternoon in the first Baptist church.

Mr. Green was born in Frampton, Cottrel, England, February 14, 1836.

Mr. Green worked in the mines here until 15 years ago, when he retired.

All-Night Revels In Wisconsin Frat Houses Assailed

Madison, Wis., January 27.—All-night parties, from which "drunken and exhausted girls, wrapped in blankets," are carried out in the morning, furnished a text for an arraignment of Wisconsin university by Judge Ole Stolen, of the superior court.

Drinks are being served and "immoral conduct" is going on in fraternity houses, Judge Stolen told the Madison Men's club. He accused the undergraduates of worshipping at the feet of the "great god jazz" and of besmirching the name of the city by their immorality.

"The situation is mighty serious when taxis are called to men's rooming houses in our university district at 3 o'clock in the morning and drunken or exhausted girls, wrapped in blankets, are carried out and driven to their homes," he said.

"Cases of all-night parties are called repeatedly to our attention, although very little publicity is given to the actual case."

The judge said that he had had cases in the juvenile court in which girls who had been on these parties in fraternity houses had been given drinks and had been guilty of immoral conduct.

He charged that Madison was becoming "vice ridden."

"I cannot understand how business men who would not cash a check for the angel Gabriel unless it was countersigned by God will trust their own daughters with any acquaintance she may pick up," the judge said. "There is something radically wrong with the home."

University authorities refused to comment on Judge Stolen's speech.

His Son Killed By Paris Police, Daudet Charges

Paris, January 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—For more than a year, Leon Daudet, the royalist leader, has been building up the case against those he believes responsible for the death of his 14-year-old son, Philippe, and he presented it to the judiciary in concrete form last night, with formal charges against five men. The boy was found in a taxicab, severely wounded, in November, 1923, and succumbed several days late.

Daudet bases his complaint on the alleged finding that a revolver in the taxicab alongside the boy did not contain a cartridge shell and that there was no evidence of the shot being fired inside the cab. He claims that a shell was placed under the seat of the cab hours after Philippe's death.

It has been claimed by Daudet in his newspaper, L'Action Francaise, that M. Marlier, former director of the secret service department, and four other men named in the complaint—Police Commissary Colombo, Lannes, Delange and La Flaoutter—organized a police raid on the book store of M. La Flaoutter at a moment when the proprietor said Philippe was due to appear there.

M. Daudet charges that the police of the Surette Generale, in order to silence his (the senior Daudet's) opposition in the chamber of deputies, tried to get Philippe, who was known to be a victim of spells of aphasia, to proclaim himself an anarchist and renounce his father's royalist faith.

He claims that Philippe was cornered by a band of anarchists, who also acted as stool pigeons, and forced to write a letter announcing his conversion to anarchy. This, he says, gave the Surete Generale an opportunity to mobilize detectives for a raid on La Flaoutter's shop with instructions to capture a "dangerous anarchist who has designs on the lives of Poincare, Millerand and Daudet" and to "strike him down like a dog if he resists."

"The theory advanced by the royalist leader is that the policemen assigned to the raid were ignorant of Philippe's identity; that when they attempted to arrest the boy he made a quick move as though to reach for his hip pocket, and that one of the policemen, obeying instructions, shot him. Discovering his identity later, and wishing to avoid a scandal, the police, according to M. Daudet's charge, tried to pass him off as an anonymous suicide.

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT SLATED FOR SHAKE-UP

Washington, January 27.—Not only the attorney generalship, but several other key positions in the department of justice, are included in the turnover of official personnel in prospect for the next few weeks.

Augustus T. Seymour, of Ohio, is expected to give up his post as assistant to the attorney general about March 1, and return to the practice of law in Columbus.

There already are two vacancies in assistant attorney generalship, and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, in charge of prohibition cases, is believed likely to leave the department in the near future even should President Coolidge decide not to follow recommendations that she be named to a federal judgeship in California.

Attorney General Stone, whose nomination to the supreme court is pending in the senate, has decided to fill none of these places so that his successor, Charles B. Warren, of Michigan, will have a free hand in realigning the personnel of the department.

Mr. Seymour, the only department official who has the title of assistant to the attorney general, and whose duties have been of a general character as distinguished from the particular tasks assigned the several assistant attorneys general, was appointed to the department by Attorney General Daugherty in 1922. He has told his friends that because of private consideration he desires to go back to his home in Ohio.

There have been indications that two more of Mr. Daugherty's appointees in the department would not remain long at their present posts after the beginning of the new administration on March 4.

Solicitor General James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, has been under consideration for appointment to a place in the diplomatic service and he has been urged by some of his close friends to quit public life and devote himself again to the practice of law should no suitable vacancy for him develop in the diplomatic corps.

Warren F. Martin, also of Pennsylvania, who has served as secretary to Attorneys General Daugherty and Stone, with the title of special assistant to the attorney general, may also to be transferred to some other duty or retire from the department.

LOCKER CONTRACT AGAIN AWARDED

A contract for lockers for the new senior high school for girls was awarded to Foote & Davies for the second time Tuesday by the purchasing committee of the board of education. The first contract, after it had been awarded and the lockers installed, was declared illegal in Fulton superior court because John T. Hancock, president of the board, owned stock in the concern.

Mr. Hancock, it is explained, since has severed his connections with the firm and sold his stock, so it is not expected that any attempt will be made to block payments under the contract let Tuesday.

The bid of $5,348.60, submitted by Foote & Davies, was second low, a bid of $5,081.50, made by the Federal Steel Fixtures company, being the lowest. The same conditions prevailed when the first contract was let, as the successful bidders also submitted next to the low bid at that time, and named a figure which practically corresponds with the one submitted Tuesday.

The lowest bidder was not given the contract, members of the committee stated, because lockers formerly purchased from that company had proved unsatisfactory, whereas lockers purchased from Foote & Davies had given very good service. Members of the committee made an inspection tour of the schools Monday before acting on the contract.

BURNED TO DEATH IN MACON FIRE

Macon, Ga., January 27.—James Daley, who came here from Cambridge, Ill., 31 years ago as a meat cutter, was found burned to death in the plant of the Georgia Packing company, of which he was a part owner, tonight. The body was so badly charred that it was some time before identification was established.

JUDGE BYRON AMBLER STRICKEN AT VERO

Miami, Fla., January 27.—Judge Byron Ambler, of Washington, D. C., and Cleveland, Ohio, died suddenly Monday of apoplexy at Vero in the home of Judge William C. Boyle, whose guest he was. The body will be sent north Tuesday for burial. Judge Ambler was a prominent republican and was at one time civil governor of the Philippines. Immediately prior to his death he said he was feeling particularly well and happy.

DR. SOMMERVILLE DIES SUDDENLY IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Mo., January 27.—Dr. William G. Sommerville, of Memphis, Tenn., a neurologist, was found dead in a bathroom at a hotel here today. Heart disease was given as the cause of death.

Dr. Sommerville was about 55 years old.

GEORGIA EDITORS PLAN APRIL MEET

Members of the executive committee of the Georgia Press association met Tuesday in the office of H. M. Stanley, corresponding secretary, in the state capitol. The meeting was called to work out details of the midwinter meeting of the organization which is to be held in Savannah on April 25 and to be followed by a steamship trip to New York.

West Point was selected as the 1925 convention city, the annual meeting to be held there on September 21.

The meeting in Savannah falls on a Saturday, it was pointed out, thus allowing the editors to leave their homes on Friday night, reaching Savannah Saturday in time for the various entertainment features which have been arranged by the Savannah newspapers, attend the business session at 1 o'clock and in the evening sail for New York on board the City of Chattanooga.

The boat will reach New York Tuesday, April 28, at 6 a. m., and the party will immediately go to the Waldorf-Astoria, which will be headquarters. Luncheons, dinners, banquets, side trips and theater parties have been arranged in New York for the 200 members of the association who will make the trip.

All bona fide members of the association, all honorary members and auxiliary members will be invited and urged to make the New York trip. Passage on the boat is limited to two members from each newspaper and lists should be made up and sent to the corresponding secretary not later than April 10, it was stated. President C. D. Rountree, of Wrightsville, and Mr. Stanley have charge of the details of the trip.

Among the features which have been arranged in New York are a luncheon by the Mergenthaler Linotype company, a dinner by the Georgia society, a luncheon by the Hammermill Bond Paper company, a dinner by the American Press association, a breakfast on the S. S. Leviathan, a luncheon by the American Type Founders' company, a trip to Oyster Bay and the Tiffany home, a trip around the harbor in charge of R. F. Birkherd, president of the public relations committee of Associated Railways of America, and a visit to the offices of the New York Times.

Members of the executive committee present at the meeting on Tuesday, in addition to President Rountree and Secretary Stanley, included Ernest Camp, vice president, Monroe; Miss Emily Woodyear, vice president, Vienna; C. E. Penns, secretary, Butler; W. T. Shytel, Adel, and Trox Eankston, Covington.

AGED BANK MESSENGER RELIEVED OF $15,000

Collinsville, Ill., January 27.—William Mathies, 64-year-old messenger, was held up here this morning by several armed men who escaped with a mail pouch believed to contain $15,000 in cash.

Mathies was en route from the depot to the Collinsville State bank.

NORTHEAST HIT BY HEAVY SNOW, GALES ON COAST

New York, January 27.—The weather has gone on another rampage. While some sections of the country were reporting fast temperature drops and shifting winds, others were digging out from under the snow Tuesday night.

The storm took a front from New England to Wisconsin and even extended to Texas. Virginia and into the Carolinas. Vessels along the eastern seaboard departed through heavy gales. Coastwise shipping was warned at all points north of the Delaware breakwater.

New York was hard hit by a gale of snow and sleet, the worst blizzard of the winter. From noon, when thermometers registered 17 degrees, the mercury slipped downward steadily.

Subway and elevated traffic was impeded, motorists skidded perilously and ferryboats ran behind schedule. The force of the 40-mile northeast wind made walking next to impossible. Before evening the gale swung to the north but lost none of its velocity.

FRIENDS TO GIVE DINNER TO HONOR JOSEPH JOHNSON

New York, January 27.—Friends of Joseph Johnson, commissioner of public works in the Borough of Manhattan and former Atlanta newspaper man, have arranged a "good will" dinner in his honor at the Hotel Commodore on February 17. A dance will follow the dinner.

The honor has been arranged in recognition of Mr. Johnson's 20 years of public service. A former Atlanta newspaper man, he has been "Great Oak" of the Order of Acorns, founder of the Subway tavern, fire commissioner, chief of the transit bureau of the public service commission, director of publicity for the American Red Cross during the war, chairman of the state boxing commission and commissioner of public works.

He is one of the most popular men in New York, his friends coming from all walks of life here.

CITY PURCHASES 4 MOTOR TRUCKS

Further steps toward motorization of the city sanitary department were taken Tuesday with the purchase of four new trucks and issuance of requisitions for two Elgin motor pickup street sweepers. The contract for the trucks was awarded to the John M. Smith company.

The Reo trucks were selected when it was found that the Smith company's bid of $6,780 was the lowest of nine submitted. Each truck will be of one and one-half ton capacity, and two will have dump bodies, with the other two plain chasses. By purchasing all four trucks from the Reo concern, $550 was saved, as the bid on all four trucks was that much lower than total figures submitted on each individual machine.

The purchasing committee also authorized requisitions for the two Elgin sweepers, which will cost $6,758.87 each, or a total of $13,517.74. One of the machines already is in operation here, and the other is expected next week.

Forty-eight men were cut from the pay roll of the department last week, as Chief John Jentzen stated that the new machines will do the work of that number. The auto trucks also will permit dismissing a number of employees, although no action was taken by the sanitary committee, which also met Tuesday.

Bodies for the new trucks will be built in the sanitary shops, and probably will be completed by February 15, Chief Jentzen stated. Two of the trucks are to be used to follow the new street sweepers, while the others will be used for hauling garbage. In addition to lessening the number of men needed, the trucks will do away with a number of mules and carts.

The purchasing committee also awarded the contract for $1,320 worth of wiring at Grady hospital to the Russell Electric company. Only one other bid was submitted.

"Don't worry, my dear"
IT was an important social occasion the younger girl had been planning on for a long time.
And now, just a week or so before the big event, that old throat irritation came back again and threatened to ruin her party.
She was completely upset over it all.
Her older friend knew what to do, however. And everything turned out all right.

It isn't necessary to let sore throat throw you out of step with work or play.
Guard against this trouble by taking the simple precaution of using Listerine, the safe antiseptic, as a preventive for throat irritations and the more serious ills that so often follow.
Have Listerine handy always in your bathroom. It is the ideal, safe antiseptic. Its dozens of different uses are fully described in the circular that comes around each bottle.—Lambert Pharmacal Company, Saint Louis, U. S. A.

REFUGE, STRENGTH, HELP:—God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Psalm 46:1.

SOUTHERN PROSPERITY.

There is no better evidence, perhaps, of the growing prosperity of the south than the increasing federal income tax collections.

The present fiscal year, July 1, 1924, to June 30, 1925, shows for the first half—the period ending December 31—an increase over the same first half of 1923-24, and this despite the 25 per cent reduction voted in the revenue act of 1924.

For the entire country income tax receipts fell off $40,648,330 in the six months, compared with the same period of the preceding fiscal year, while a decline of $67,485,306.47 was noted in miscellaneous taxes, making a loss in all internal revenue receipts of $108,133,636.

The revenue bureau made public a day or two ago a tabulation of collections showing that for the first half of the fiscal year the states paid taxes to the federal government in the following order: New York, $308,087,640.24; Pennsylvania, $119,742,307.82; Illinois, $96,584,201.55; Michigan, $92,279,207.60; North Carolina, $79,112,496; Ohio, $70,775,313.

This was the same order held during the first half of the fiscal year 1924. There was a reduction in collections from all the foregoing states except North Carolina, which gave the government an increase of $664,133, due to the heavier miscellaneous tax collections.

New York led in miscellaneous taxes, with $92, 704,185, and North Carolina was second with $71,992,769. North Carolina stands high in the miscellaneous tax list because of the tobacco tax.

Some of the southern states paid income taxes for the six months' period of fiscal years 1924 and 1925 as follows: Alabama, $2,994,562 and $3,863,302; Florida, $2,965,683 and $3,830,430; Georgia, $5,790,111 and $5,927,131; Kentucky, $5,790,081 and $6,160,38?; Louisiana, $5,499,639 and $5,928,472; Mississippi, $1,464,548 and $1,680,837; Tennessee, $5,080,728 and $5,389,512, and Virginia, $7,135,409 and $7,147,925.

A few of the other states showed increases in income tax payments, but in nearly all miscellaneous revenues fell off decidedly.

While the good business conditions are credited chiefly for holding up collections under a reduced rate of taxation, treasury officials insist that decreasing the tax rate does not mean necessarily a smaller tax yield. They point to some of the recent collections to bear up their statements. Treasury experts maintain that lower rate always turns up a larger number of taxpayers, so the government does not always lose by a rate reduction.

These figures create an unfailing barometer. There is no question as to the business trend in this country. The south today, agriculturally, is in the saddle, and we will remain there if farmers will listen to reason and steer clear of the bear traps. It is rapidly getting in the saddle industrially also.

SEA BED TO SOIL.

Secretary Work, of the interior, announces that the fourth survey of a part of the former bed of the Salton sea has been completed. The others have been made within the decade. The Salton sea is in the Imperial valley of California, known to all travelers to the coast, and especially those from the south who go the southwestern route. The last survey covers 13,300 acres. It will shortly be blossoming with fruits and vegetables.

The Imperial valley is below sea level, being some 200 feet lower than the Gulf of California in Mexico. It was primarily a sandy desert and was originally surveyed in 1856. The Colorado river, which discharges into the head of the gulf, by reason of floods and the tearing down of the banks and canyons of its many tributaries at various times, has become overcharged with silt, which it has deposited in an immense bank or bar at the head of the gulf, practically shutting off its flow into the gulf.

The river, breaking back and flowing into the Imperial valley, formed a great lake, which was named the Salton sea. Later the river resumed its natural course, discharging into the gulf, and while the inflow into the valley ceased the sea remained.

Since that time the sea has been gradually drying up. The soil of the valley is of silt, very fertile, and is under an irrigation system, the canals being brought in from the Colorado river near the gulf.

The land is very desirable, so occupation follows the recession of the sea very closely. As the sea recedes the lines of the survey are pushed further into the former bed of the sea, and as soon as any material area is uncovered there is an insistent demand for its survey. The survey just accepted was of land situated in four townships.

CAPPER AND PISTOLS.

United States Senator Arhtur Capper, of Kansas, is not merely a leader in the farm-bloc, but one of the most outstanding members of the upper house of congress, taking conspicuous part in sound reforms proposed for the moral and educational uplift of the masses. In his home state he is one of the great publishers of the nation.

In the senate recently he introduced a bill barring pistols and pistol advertising from the United States mails. Another district bill pending is to prevent "pistol toting" in Washington. Strong support is being developed behind both of these measures.

In a signed editorial, syndicated and published throughout America Tuesday, Senator Capper said:

"Public-spirited citizens and civic leaders are keenly conscious of the homicide blot on the national escutcheon. They would wipe out that ugly, shameful stain. They, too, urge action. As an evidence of this proper concern, an aggressive campaign is now waged in the south under the leadership of The Atlanta Constitution. The effort deserves success. It would encourage other communities to take action toward disarming the gunman who mocks the penal law and threatens the security of the citizen."

It is an illustration of the widespread interest, not confined to Georgia, but national in its scope, in legislation, national and state, to outlaw the pistol.

Of this Senator Capper said:

"More father and son meetings in the woodshed might help, but government can not escape its responsibility. Government is under obligation to the citizen to protect his life and to assure him that he may go about his lawful pursuits without danger and free of apprehensions of sudden and violent death by assassination or murder.

"Quarantine regulations, enforced by government authority, are invoked in times of pestilence and virulent epidemic. Murder statistics force upon us the conclusion that here, too, is a case where 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.' It needs no expert survey to point out means contributory to prevention. Outlaw the 'gun-toter.' Put a stop to indiscriminate and unlicensed distribution of man-killing weapons."

Outlaw the pistol! That is the cry today not only from Tybee to Rabun, but from Boston harbor to the Golden Gate.

HEARTENING WORDS.

Raymond Clapper, Washington political commentator, in his article in Monday's Constitution, conveys the following very encouraging note:

"During the early days of his new term, President Coolidge will be guided by the thought that what the American people want most of all from Washington is to be let alone. This is the appraisal of sentiment made by most of the regular republican leaders at this time.

"They believe that the country is weary of politics and desires tranquility at home and peace abroad, a minimum of federal activity, ruthless economy so that taxes may be lowered, and an avoidance of government experiments."

If this is true, and every word and movement of the president indicates that such is his earnest hope and wish, the country will heartily support him in it, and will urge that the influences now at work to precipitate an extra session and "prolong the agony" at Washington may be routed.

Outside of the routine supply bills it is difficult to find anything that congress, during the short session, has accomplished. It has played politics with Muscles Shoals, revived the ghosts of 1920 in the senate over the Paris debt treaty, and aroused the ire of friendly nations by usual unrestrained oratory.

There is little more than thirty days of it remaining, and it is the sincere wish of everybody—except a congressional group—that we may have a rest from congress and a rest from politics during the remainder of 1925.

His First Book.

The Indianapolis News says that the following anecdote is told of Emerson Hough, now dead, in the Editor Magazine: "My first book, 'The Singing Mouse,' was published by my advancing the money for its printing. I then peddled it myself from door to door. My second book was sent to six publishers at once and they all accepted it."

"What did you do then?" someone asked Hough.

"I took the one offering the most money, in this case $2,000."

'What did you do about the others who accepted the book?'

The Candy Candidate Wins.

"Times do change," says The Tifton Gazette, "and customs with them. The successful candidates for office in Ware county have rendered their verdict and it is that the campaign cigar has gone and that the campaign of bonbon has taken its place. One successful vote getter has expressed the opinion that a 5-pound box of chocolates is worth more in the way of vote winning than a dozen boxes of cigars. Who would ever have thought that the chocolate bon-bon would replace the cheroot as a vote enticer?"

The Jackson Progress-Argus starts the New Year with this—

"You cannot do a better piece of work for yourself and the community in which you live than to support home institutions and patronize local business men. It is good business for you and it's good business for the community."

Flowers and Home.

Says The Cobb County Times—

"Even the tiniest home, though it has been built with no eye for beauty, even though its walls have been washed bleak by rain and show traces of advancing years, there is nothing that will add more to the beauty of such a home than flowers and shrubbery planted in orderly array. The walls of the home lose their dullness; the scars of time are erased and there is always a bright picture presented that invites the passerby and assures him that in this house is to be found genuine hospitality and friendliness."

"Atlanta wants five hundred conventions—count them; five hundred—in 1925. And the chances are it will come pretty near getting them. But Albany will have a few, also, and hereafter will have more. For, beginning next fall, Albany will be an admirably equipped convention city."

Today's Talk

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

QUIET.

Noise is a great destroyer. There is no harmony in it. And without harmony there is always confusion.

Every once in a while I go into a home where there is such a beautiful atmosphere of quiet and peace. Even the natural noise of children fits in.

The loud talker is never the effective talker. The most powerful engines are comparatively noiseless. I have stood and watched the great engines of ocean liners and other large constructions. What marvelous power behind their movement!

The only noisy machines I enjoy are the great printing presses. In their noise is real music. And besides I think of their powerful opportunity for good and inspiration.

There is to the forest the most soothing quiet of any I know. The soft strains of song from the birds and the wash of the wind's sweep through the trees is such a comfort. For tired nerves and an over-worried mind there is nothing like the out-of-doors in a wooded place or beside "the still waters."

Oliver Wendell Holmes once said that his idea of happiness was "four feet on the fender." There is a note of quiet and sweetness about the almost silent flames or a dying bed of coals that has no other comparison. I would place an open fire place in a home next in importance to the kitchen stove.

Offices should be kept quiet. If a thinker works better under quiet circumstances then a worker surely can.

Quiet always save wear and tear. Noise means that something is being wasted.

Some day there will be a law against the unnecessary use of the auto horn and cities will come to realize that the less noise the more contented and happy are their citizens. And you can't make a citizen too happy.

A quiet voice is one of the treasures from heaven!

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Catechism Of Hate.

"Thou shalt hate France eternally." With these words opens a new catechism of hate circulated among the children of the Rhineland by German nationalists. After four or five similar exhortations the document concludes: "Thou shalt nurture in thy soul the sentiment and wish for a bloody revenge and wait with undying faith the great day that will bring thee peace and revenge." Such declarations show that certain elements in Germany have been harmed as much by defeat as they were harmed by victory in 1871. There always returns this brutalization of thought and unfortunately for the reich it always emanates from the same militaristic corner. A nationalist paper praising the sentiments expressed in the catechism remarks: "It is time we returned to the vigorous faith of our fathers, to the mailed fist of our greatest men, to the philosophy of Nietsche." If they must, indeed, return to that faith and philosophy, they ought to start with the beginning and return first of all to Nietsche's preface to his "Nachlass," where he writes: "It a degradation of mankind to encourage national hatred, to admire it or to extoll it." If Germany feels she has been wronged, the best minds of the nation, who are not always found among the old army officers, should approach the world in a spirit of sincerity and good-will. Faith in humanity tells us that such an appeal will carry more power than tanks and machine guns and threats and the same faith secures us that in the end there will be a conquest of reason and a triumph of justice.

Art in Russia.

Unexpected good luck has come to the curator of the great Rumaniantzeff museum in Moscow. He went to Germany not long ago to be present at an auction sale of paintings belonging to the collection of the Grand Duke of Oldenburg. Among other things he bought a painting, said to be executed by one of Rembrandt's pupils. After he had brought the picture home, experts declared it to be a genuine execution by the great Dutch master himself. Confirmation of this theory came later when a famous Rembrandt connoisseur established the fact beyond doubt. Instead of selling their art treasures as had been reported, the Russians seem actually to be collecting and adding to their museums, which rank among the greatest treasure houses in Europe. Investigators have reported that the most scrupulous care is taken of all objects of art in the land of Muscovy. This is mainly due to the almost sacred regard in which Anatole Lunacharsky holds the material entrusted to his care. When in the heat of the first day of the revolution, the mobs wanted to pull down the gorgeous statues in the squares of great Russian cities, Lunacharsky's efforts with the iconoclasts prevailed to spare them for future generations. It is reported that he never slept and was so agitated that later he fell ill during the transfer of the contents of the Hermitage museum at Petrograd at the approach of the Germans in 1918. He did not rest until he had personally made certain that not a canvas had been damaged and not a vase broken.

Rising Crescent.

All Berlin is wondering at the feverish haste exhibited in the building of two new Mohammedan places of worship in the suburbs. It appears that two rival Musselman sects are rushing construction of their mosque in order to beat the other fellows in having the honor to send out the first call to prayer from the minarets in the German capital. One of the sects is known as Ahmadias, who have their origin in India, while the others have their spiritual antecedence in Constantinople. To the first named belong many native Germans. Mosques are rising all over Europe. Paris has recently opened its second for worship. There is a new one in Vienna and plans are under way for a magnificent Mohammedan temple in Amsterdam for the Javanese colonials, who happen to be studying or touring in the motherland. But the most extraordinary success of Islam is visible in Africa. There during the last ten years over a million converts have been made to the tenets of the prophet. Europe once stopped the Mohammedan invasion at the walls of Vienna and also at Poitiers in France, when Charles Martel drove back the Moors. What the fierce and fanatic mullahs and Kurds could not accomplish with the curved saber seems to be in a fair way of success by peaceful preaching and propaganda.

Origin of the Species.

President Ebert of Germany was recently plaintiff in a libel suit against a Westphalian editor, who had written that Ebert had taken part in a munition strike during the war and so had helped the allied enemy to defeat the reich. The president was acquitted of the unpatriotic charge by the court, but the presiding judge in handing down his decision made the remark that there should be no place in the government of a great country for a harnessmaker's apprentice and that General Ludendorff should be president at least until general stability had come about. The learned judge has been so used to see hereditary Hohenzollerns at the helm of affairs that he cannot conceive of a democracy where the people select a man from among themselves to govern. There should be no prejudice against Ebert because he was once a harnessmaker. Statesmanship and wisdom in government administration is no monopoly of blue-bloods. Abraham Lincoln was a rail-splitter in his younger days; Diocletian, afterwards elected emperor of the Roman world, was the son of slave parents, and Calvin Coolidge once took delight in making hay on his father's farm.

Bayard Taylor's Poem "America to Iceland"

Editor Constitution: May I call your attention to an epoch-making event in the career of Bayard Taylor (the centenary of whose birth is being widely celebrated), which I do not find in the many reviews which appeared about him.

In 1874 Bayard Taylor was sent by Whitelaw Reid, then editor of the New York Tribune, to write a detailed account of the millenial celebrations of the first settlement of Iceland (874).

All Americans owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. Reid for his foresight in recognizing the deep national significance of this Icelandic millenial celebration.

In Iceland, "in all haste and in the midst of distracting talk," Bayard Taylor wrote a noble ode entitled "America to Iceland," which played an important part in the ceremonies and which was recently reprinted as a part of an informing and valuable article entitled "'Skald', Taylor's Visit to Iceland," by Adolph Benson, which appeared in the "American Scandinavian Review."

As a tribute to the Icelandic republic, which gave America her discoverer, Leif Ericson (in the year 1000), and to the consequent cementing of the eternal relationship between the American and Icelandic republics—and as an added tribute to Bayard Taylor himself—may I ask that you print the poem, "America to Iceland," which I inclose:

AMERICA TO ICELAND.

We come, the children of thy Vinland,
The youngest of the world's high peers,
O land of steel, and song, and saga,
To greet thy glorious thousand years!

Across that sea the son of Eric
Dared with his venturous dragon's prow;
From shores where Thorfinn set thy banner,
Their latest children seek thee now.

Hail, mother-land of skalds and heroes,
By love of freedom hither hurled,
Fire in their hearts, as in thy mountains,
And strength like thine to shake the world.

When war and ravage wrecked the nations,
The bird of song made thee her home;
The ancient gods, the ancient glory,
Still dwelt within thy shores of foam.

Here, as a fount may keep its virtue,
While all the rivers turbid run,
The manly growth of deed and daring
Was thine, beneath a scantier sun.

Set far apart, neglected, exiled,
Thy children wrote her runes of pride,
With power that brings, in this thy triumph,
The conquering nations to thy side.

What though thy native harps be silent,
The chord they struck shall ours prolong;
We claim thee kindred, call thee mother,
O land of saga, steel and song.

Decatur Citizen Says Service Not Adequate

Editor Constitution: When you delegate to any industrial or corporation a monopoly on any one commodity you are doing the general public an injustice. There is no use trying to gratify the avarice and greed of human nature, for it cannot be done. The adjustment of the present controversy in the matter of transportation you should consider the public welfare of the masses and not the classes. Should you finally decide upon a monopoly you should exact public utility and ample accommodation of that monopoly or corporation.

I am a regular patron of the street cars on the Decatur line daily, except Sunday. I don't get a seat more than once a week. I am 67 years old and live at 21 Ferguson street, just off DeKalb avenue. I have frequently noticed men of my age who live in Decatur standing. Our services, for several years, have not been in keeping with the needs of the general public, and when you give a monopoly the situation will grow worse and worse.

GEORGE M. BRAND.

Says the Bible Can Solve All Our Problems

Editor Constitution: The Constitution is to be commended for her stand on law and order. The Augusta Chronicle, Savannah Morning News, Macon Telegraph, Columbus Enquirer-Sun and other good Georgia papers are doing the same thing. The press can do wonders in shaping public sentiment.

Where are we headed?

It was once thought that the negro excelled in criminality but some think now that the white man has gone the negro one better. At any rate they are both too bad and it seems to me to be "tit for tat." All have sinned and come short and neither has a right to point the finger at the other. The leaders of both races must get busy.

Whence this crime wave and what is the cause? I agree with the scholarly Dr. Ashby Jones that too much emphasis is placed on the war as the cause. Some were mean and devilish before the war came. If things had been right the war would not have come.

I do not like to think of officers as corrupt. I have a high regard for civil authorities. I believe in my Bible, 'honor the king.' But our laws are not enforced and many criminals carry on their trade without interference. Incompetence is a mild term when the facts are considered.

The negro is morally sure of being punished for his crimes but not so with the white man. There are to many technicalities, loop-holes, shrewd lawyers, family connections and political pulls in his favor and those serve as an incentive rather than a deterrant to him. Times are going to get better when all criminals get justice.

We are infested with bands of loafers, plungers, sports, gamblers, fakers and deadbeats. We want big pay for little done. We would rather have something for nothing and so "hands up," "your money or your life." God save us.

We need some old-time preachers, some old-time preaching and some old-time religion. I have seen some of these "joe-ree" preachers preach an hour without hurting the devil's feelings or causing the Holy Spirit to smile. Their sermons mean nothing but to show how wise they are and they are more otherwise than wise. How can you win a victory without harm to your enemy? We must hit the devil and hit sin and hit them hard. Compromising is surrender.

The remedy for all these evils in the Bible. Legislation cannot make people good. The Bible can if they will obey its teachings. Christ in the human heart is the need of the hour. He is needed in the home, school and church. I am praying.

STORK BRINGS TWINS TO MRS. W. J. NICHOLLS

New York, January 27.—Twins, a boy and a girl, were born to Mrs. Winfield Jesse Nicholls, younger daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, at a private hospital here last Saturday morning, it was learned today.

Mrs. Nicholls is the daughter of Mrs. Vanderbilt by her marriage with Lewis Morris Rutherfurd. She was married to Mr. Nicholls last year following her divorce from Cyril Hatch. Her only sister is now the wife of Sir Paul Dukes, Mr. Nicholls is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Nicholls, of California.

JACKSONVILLE TAILOR KILLS SELF WITH GAS

Jacksonville, Fla., January 25.—Max Brown, aged 48, proprietor of a local tailoring establishment, committed suicide last night in his establishment by inhaling gas. The body was found this morning. Police said Brown was despondent over financial troubles.

Brown was born in Riga, Russia. He came to New York city with his parents when a boy. He came to Jacksonville 15 years ago and was well known here. He is survived by his wife and two children.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

THIS IS THE WAY THEY GO.

Dear Doctor:

I am 52 years of age, weigh 188 pounds, and am five feet six inches tall.

I have had good health all my life, and am now physically sound so far as I know. I was examined lately by a physician who found my heart, my lungs, liver and kidneys normal and no sign of any trouble anywhere.

I take no medicines on my own.

Last winter I had considerable trouble with gas in the stomach and at times a vertigo, and perhaps nausea and vomiting, after which I would get better. These spells passed away after a little dieting, which also reduced my weight 10 pounds.

The last two years I have had very little exercise, though formerly I was very active and muscular. I used to play on college athletic teams 20 years ago. I can still play baseball.

My hair, teeth and thoughts are all sound and vigorous as ever. I have never had syphilis or other disease. I feel younger than my years.

But my hands and feet are much colder than they used to be and they are harder to get warm and keep warm.

And in the last year my functional vigor has declined. I am not the man I was a few years ago.

I would be glad to hear from you, and please send your bill, or if you are not able to prescribe please refer me to some good physician whom I can consult:—A. A. L.

Dear Mr. L.: I don't know just why I didn't drop you letter into the automatic chucker, but something in it—not the invitation to send you my bill—something restrained my arm. Maybe that is because I am threatened with chucker's palsy.

The vertigo or dizziness you mention we will pass over in silence. You live not far from the border and there is nothing in the protocol to show that you are a tectotaler. In any case, let us call that exhibit A, and file it with the court.

Now—to throw a proper scare into you—one of the common early or premonitory complaints in cardio-vascular degeneration is a decline in functional vigor, which is all right and natural enough, for it stands to reason that a man who has avowedly seated himself on the toboggan for the long easy slide down to oblivion ought not to reproduce his present self. In spite of some ingenious theories to the contrary, and lists of celebrities as examples, the choice specimens of the human race are those born of young parents or at least parents still in the full vigor of life.

Your heart artery system was probably built for a 150-pound man. While it served such a man it served well. But for several years now it has been trying to serve a 180 pound man. It may in a way, though not for so long.

The physician who examined you found nothing wrong. Was he perhaps an insurance examiner, and if so did you not undergo the examination with the hope of passing? Or if he was a private practitioner, did he examine you for health or for the objective signs of disease? It makes considerable difference. Disease in the potential stage, just around the corner, presents no definite signs, and unless the physician applies functional tests he cannot see it approaching. Did the doctor make a functional test of your circulation?

Here is my prescription:

"He who would eat much must eat little." (Cornaro.)

"Masticate every morsel till no taste is left in it." (Fletcher.)

"Take two M. O. O. T. H. three times a day, or the equivalent in other forms of exercise." (Brady.)

CONGRESS DIRECTS FREIGHT RATE CUT

Washington, January 27.—The senate today approved a conference report on the Smith-Hoch resolution directing the interstate commerce commission to conduct an inquiry into freight rates with a view to their readjustment.

Passed last session, the resolution had been amended by the house to eliminate certain restrictions. The house action was agreed to today.

The resolution sets forth that "in view of the existing depression in agriculture, the commission is hereby directed to effect with the least practicable delay such lawful changes in the rate structure of the court as will promote the freedom of movement by common carriers of the products of agriculture affected by that depression, including live stock, at the lowest possible lawful rates compatible with the maintenance of adequate transportation service."

The senate's action in agreeing to the report completes congressional action on the measure, the house having agreed to it during the last session. It now goes to the white house. Representative Hoch, republican, Kansas, and Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, introduced the measure.

RAILROAD HAUL BILL VIGOROUSLY ATTACKED

Washington, January 27.—Opponents of the Gooding long and short haul bill opened a vigorous attack against the measure before the house commerce committee today, representatives of shippers leading off with a statement of their views. Four days have been allotted to foes of the proposal to present arguments and reply to proponents who were heard last week.

J. P. Haynes, of Chicago, representing the National Industrial Traffic league, declared the fourth section of the interstate commerce act, known as the long and short haul clause, is adequate to protect the interests of every party connected with transportation. The Gooding bill deals with this section and would do away with the power of the interstate commerce commission to suspend the stipulations that railroads are not to charge less for a long than for a short haul over the same route.

COMMON WHITE STRING TO REPLACE RED TAPE

Washington, January 27.—Red tape of the literal variety is going to be supplanted by white string in most of the government departments as one of the economy measures undertaken through standardization of government supplies. In making this announcement Brigadier General Lord, director of the budget explained, that red tape not only costs more than string for wrapping purposes, but, suggestively, might have had a bad psychological effect on procedure in some of the government offices.

"I hope," the general added, "that this may be significant of elimination from the federal service of all that red tape signifies."

BITS OF SOUTHERN LIFE

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

Notes From a Train Window, January 27.—Memphis at night seems to be one of the sprightliest cities in the south. Stretches of Arkansas is as most of us picture it—drab. A. Washer conducts a laundry in a little Illinois town.

I wonder who scouts around for deserted barns upon which to paint chewing tobacco signs. Pathetic old age—the lonely fellows who hold up "Stop" signs at obscure railroad crossings. The levee and side wheel steamers at St. Louis. And the hubbub of life at the union station.

Perhaps they call it the "effete east" because they have manicure maids on trains east of the Mississippi. An Indiana farm house in the clearing. "Candle lights gleaming through the sycamores"—just like the song. Why do they call it "Terry Hut?"

You know Dayton, O., by the clang of the grade crossing bells. Has any one ever opened a train window with a single effort? There is an intangible dignity about Columbus, O. *bj ! zznuy! (All of which means the typewriter slid off into my lap.)

Pittsburg at night resembles a python with eyes of burnished yellow. With a lacy background of dancing flames—as bright as peacocks. Pittsburg oozes industrial strength more than any city in the world. It reeks of grime and sweat yet is beautiful.

The capitol at Harrisburg—austere and aloof. A thin slice of moon. And an overturned sled on a country road. Rabbit tracks down to a tiny stream. Birch trees laden with frozen crystals. Puffs of train smoke cascading over fields of corn stubbles.

The kid-glove purileus of Philadelphia. Country estates given over to a scherzo of high flown names, fancy butlers, porte cocheres and brickwalled gardens. Trenton, Newark—and New York.

I have in the past three weeks traversed the following states: New Jersey, New York, District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Georgia and Pennsylvania. Each gives you a different impression. Outwardly Pennsylvania is the showiest. The composite impression is of the immensity of America as compared to European countries. Somehow I feel the deepest and most sincere pride in our country and takes root in the middle west.

About the most exciting event on this trip happened on a train. Upon returning from the diner the stateroom door was found locked. The conductor and porter were firm in their statement it could only be locked from within. Someone was inside. The door was pounded and the buzzer sounded. No answer. After a wait of 15 minutes it was decided to jimmy the door. The porter whispered a blood-curdling suggestion. Some passenger had gone in there and committed suicide. He even thought he heard the report of a pistol shot shortly before. The door refused jimmying. The lock was unscrewed and a breathless crowd that had gathered from other cars awaited the verdict. The conductor went in and found everything normal. The only explanation is that a lurch of the train threw the inside catch. Great mystery novels have been fashioned of thinner material.

It is because the mightiest city, New York, belongs to the world that we should all be interested in it. It has been made by people from your town and mine. I always approach it with the same curious feeling of wonder. Just now we are thundering under the river and experiencing that strange stoppage in the ears. The razzle dazzle of a life left off three weeks ago is renewed. I wonder if my little dog will be down to the station to greet me.

GAINESVILLE MAY GET GIANT COTTON MILL

Gainesville, Ga., January 27.—(Special.)—Gainesville is feverishly waiting the final decision of the Appleton Cotton mills, an eastern concern, that has been negotiating some time with Gainesville citizens, with a view of locating a $10,000,000 cotton factory near here.

Colonel H. H. Dean and W. A. Carlisle have returned from New York, where they have been in conference with the Appleton people, and they report that if minor difficulties can be ironed out here, mostly dealing with railroad facilities, that Gainesville will likely get the factory.

If the Appleton people come to Gainesville, it will bring to this section the largest single unit yet established in Georgia since the bringing of so many mills from the east to the south, and there is much interest in Gainesville in the new plant locating here.

Brooding Veteran Tries To End Life With Small Rifle

Brooding over estrangement from his wife and two little girls—Mary 3, and Ann, 2—whom he had not seen since last August, and fighting hallucinations which had been chronic with him since he was shell-shocked in the World war and returned to America a disabled veteran, Henry H. Rainford, 22, of 526 Washington street, a boarding house, shot himself with a small calibre rifle late Tuesday night.

The bullet entered his head just back of the right ear, but glanced off and caused only a scalp wound. He was given medical attention at Grady hospital and later taken to his home.

The injured man said he did not remember anything about the shooting, but that he had been worried about Mary, his little daughter, because yesterday was her birthday and he had forgotten to send her a present.

BANDIT PAY POOR FOR THREE 'JOBS' ON TUESDAY NIGHT

Snatch thieves, burglars and bandits Tuesday night played a losing game when their loot in three jobs faded to less than $20 in cash and signed checks, a pistol and a few clothes.

Mrs. R. T. Lyons, of 344 Formwalt street, reported to police that she was walking near her home when an unidentified negro snatched her purse and ran. She said it contained a signed check for $10 and about 40 cents in change.

The home of Mrs. W. R. Camp, of 14 Boulevard place, was entered while members of the family were away and robbers escaped with a pistol and a quantity of clothing, Mrs. Camp told Call Officers Chester and Warren.

Mrs. Klamy, of 30 Leonard street, told officers that she was walking near her home when two masked negro bandits snatched her purse containing $8.

GEORGIA FLOODS SHAKE NEW YORK FIRE DEPARTMENT

New York, January 27.—(Special.) Thomas J. Drennan, belated by Georgia floods, returned to New York from Miami today and got back his job as fire commissioner. Fifteen firemen had long expected promotions, it was explained, and all officials agreed they were entitled to their higher posts and pay. Commissioner Drennan had expected to be back in New York in time to attend to the matter, then came the heavy rains and track washouts in southern Georgia, which marooned him. The firemen and their families became anxious lest they lost their promotions and sent friends to the mayor to act in their behalf. The law required that the commissioner in person approve the promotions not later than Monday midnight. The mayor solved the situation by removing Mr. Drennan from office and appointing a new fire commissioner in in the person of Joseph Hannon, first deputy commissioner, who proceeded with the approvals which the commissioner could not give in his absence. Mr. Hannon then indicated to the mayor his readiness to resign.

Mr. Drennan arrived in New York at 11 o'clock this morning. He called upon the mayor immediately, as a private citizen. He talked to the mayor a few minutes and left smiling, no longer a private citizen but once more the fire commissioner of New York city.

Movies and Follies Await Pretty Miss Of Atlanta Fame

The name of Catherine Jones, pretty 16-year-old Atlanta dancer, soon may be cast in the lights of Broadway.

Tuesday it was announced that she would leave next week for New York where, under the personal sponsorship of Jesse L. Lasky, famous motion picture producer, she will enter the movies and probably the next production of Ziegfeld's Follies.

This week Miss Jones is dancing in the musical comedy, "Very Good Eddie," showing at the Lyric theater.

Following the close of the play Saturday night, or a short time afterwards, she will leave her numerous Atlanta triumphs behind and make the journey to New York where she will begin work immediately in the Paramount studios.

Miss Jones received her offer from Mr. Lasky after he had seen her in the Spanish jazz number she danced at the closing banquet of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation convention last Friday night. Immediately after the dance Mr. Lasky made his offer.

For three years Miss Jones has been one of Atlanta's most popular dancers, having appeared in practically every theater in the city and at most of the larger banquets. During 1924 she spent several months in Washington, D. C., where she won considerable recognition as an exponent of things terpsichorean.

After dancing in Baltimore and other points around Washington, she returned to Atlanta, where she again resumed her dancing and added newer laurels.

Mr. Lasky stated that Miss Jones seemed to be an ideal screen type of beauty and that her grace in dancing convinced him that she was indeed a "find."

F. W. DODGE FIRM REMOVES OFFICES TO WITT BUILDING

The F. W. Dodge Corporation of New York, whose Atlanta offices were established here two years ago, have just leased more commodious and convenient quarters in the Witt building, corner of Peachtree and Harris streets, where they will have increased facilities for handling their rapidly expanding business.

Truman S. Morgan, president of the corporation, has been spending a week in Atlanta and is much gratified with the construction developments in the southern district since their offices were opened here. Henri David, sales manager, also is here assisting the local manager, D. T. Addington, in making the transfer to the new offices. W. F. Gunson has charge of the corps of reporters and clerical organization which gathers and distributes construction information sent out daily by the Dodge corporation.

ALLEGED LEADERS OF HOLD-UP GANG FOUND WOUNDED

In the arrest Tuesday night of two negroes giving the names of Will Clark and Ernest Edwards authorities believe they have in custody two leaders in a gang of hold-up men who have been keeping police and citizens of Atlanta busy during the last three months.

Both negroes were heavily armed. They were lying in the middle of the street somewhere on Fourth street when arrested. Both were shot, but they were flesh wounds. Neither would tell how they received their wounds.

The negroes were taken to Grady hospital's colored ward, where they were treated. Later Clark escaped, but was rearrested and then both negroes were placed under heavy guard, as they are regarded as desperate.

Police and detectives now are trying to fasten some of the recent hold-ups on the pair.

NABBED FOR ATTEMPT TO GIVE AWAY LIQUOR

Elmira, N. Y., January 27.—A. Stanley Copeland, of Buffalo, self-styled leader of the "Joy Christians," was arrested here last night when he attempted to give away liquor from the steps of the federal building.

About 300 persons had assembled at Copeland's invitation to hear him speak and witness the distribution of liquor which he was known to have attempted in other cities. When the speaker pulled a bottle from his pocket and one of his audience stepped forward to get the first drink, the police interposed.

Copeland was arraigned and held for the federal grand jury. Bail was supplied by several local citizens.

Cobb Grand Jurors Praise Constitution's Fight To Ban Sale of Pistols in Georgia

Legislators and Club Women in Many Sections Commend Crusade to Outlaw Itinerant Pistol

Action by the Cobb county grand jury in session at Marietta, which included in its recommendations unequivocal approval of The Atlanta Constitution's fight on the pistol and urged the state legislature to immediately outlaw concealed weapons, the announced intention of J. O. Smith, of Cairo, Ga., state legislator from Grady county, that he would start a fight in the state legislature against pistols and would support any measure to rid the state of concealed weapons, together with a fresh deluge of letters of praise for The Constitution's campaign against the sale and manufacture of weapons of any kind, marked progress in the increasingly spirited crusade Tuesday.

The Cobb county grand jury was most pointed in its recommendations, demanding that legislation be enacted to make pistol-toting impossible. The recommendation follows:

"We are in perfect sympathy with the relentless war started by The Atlanta Constitution on the illegal pistol, and its death-dealing ravages, committed by the criminally inclined. We commend judges of the courts, civic organizations, pawn-brokers and all others for their opposition to the pistol. We recommend that the Georgia state legislature pass such laws as are necessary to stop all sales of these firearms."

The foregoing presentments were signed by J. L. Gantt, foreman, and H. G. Hawkins, clerk, respectively, of the Cobb county grand jury.

Elberton Joins Fight.

At a jammed mass meeting, the Elberton Civic league strongly indorsed the movement started by The Constitution for the abolishment of "gun-toting" in Georgia. Present at the Elberton meeting were the newly-installed mayor, T. T. Thornton, and Chief of Police W. H. Irvin, who also has just been reappointed. These two officials are in full accord with the anti-homicide movement and the chief of police expressed the hope that the next legislature would ban the sale of firearms in the state.

R. C. Miller writes to The Constitution a 2,000-word eulogy for its "fearless and determined stand against the murderous pistol." He says it is "obvious that the legislature will pass a bill outlawing the concealed weapons of all kinds and descriptions."

Mrs. G. L. McNeil, chairman of the Fairburn Methodist Missionary society's social service, declares that that organiaztion has passed resolutions commending The Constitution for its fight on the pistol.

Women Praise Crusade.

"Every patriotic citizen should give encouragement and help until the desired results are obtained," writes in Mrs. McNeil.

Charles E. Holden and Walter Hum-itt, both of Tallulah Falls, write in to praise The Constitution's fight on pistols and see victory through legislation outlawing the weapons.

J. O. Smith, of Cairo, Ga., state legislator from Grady county, declares the itinerant pistol should have been outlawed long ago. He pledges his support to any bill that may be introduced in the state legislature this year to outlaw the pistol forever.

CIVIC LEAGUE PRAISES CRUSADE.

Adoption of resolutions condemning the open sale of pistols and indorsement of The Constitution's stand in the anti-pistol campaign featured the regular monthly meeting Monday night of the North Boulevard Park Civic league.

The motion was presented by E. Stevens, one of the prominent residents of that section. The resolutions were unanimously passed.

H. S. Parks, president of the league, presided at the meeting.

STATE'S ATTORNEY GOES TO SAVANNAH TO HANDLE CASES

T. R. Gress, assistant attorney general for the state, left Atlanta Tuesday night for Savannah, where he will represent the state in hearings before the superior court of Chatham county, docketed for Wednesday.

Two hearings involve cases brought by corporations seeking to escape payment of certain special state taxes on the claim that the taxes involved are unconstitutional and cannot legally be collected.

Mr. Gress stated that he could not say how long the court would hold him in Savannah but that if his stay exceeded three days there was a probability of an oyster famine in south Georgia. Mr. Gress is exceedingly fond of the juicy bivalves and believes Georgia oysters lead the world in excellence of flavor.

NEW YORK CRITICS PRAISE DANCING OF RUTH ST. DENIS

A "touch of ineffable sadness; music and the dance fused into one exquisite poem" was the description of a New York critic recently of Ruth St Denis' dancing to the music of the Liszt "Liebestraum," while her interpretation of a Brahms waltz was scribed as the "incarnation of p beauty." Miss St. Denis is to danc both of these numbers at the auditori um tomorrow night, when the Deni shawn dancers will make their second visit to Atlanta.

Miss St. Denis and Ted Shawn, her associate, will share principal honors of the program, but Miss Doris Humphrey and several others will have prominent parts. The company has been increased in number since its last visit, and an entirely new program will be given.

The conventional posing of the Russian dancers is entirely lacking, it is said, for the Denishawn dancers use their personalities, putting their souls as well as their bodies into the interpretation of the music. Miss St. Denis is said to have surrounded herself with beautiful young girls, who are skilled dancers.

The attraction will be the fourth of the artists series, presented by Russell Bridges, and already the advance sale at the Phillips & Crew store guarantees a large audience. The program will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

POULTRY EMBARGO HURTS SHIPPERS

Following complaints filed by L. B. Robeson, of Marietta, and others, to the effect that the interstate embargo against shipments of poultry, because of the presence in this country of the European fowl pest, had worked serious financial hardship upon the poultrymen of the state, Peter H. Bahnsen, Georgia state veterinarian, Thursday addressed a letter to Mr. Robeson, explaining steps he had taken to remedy this condition.

Mr. Bahnsen points out that after he had been to Washington in conference with the chief of the federal bureau of animal industry, he had urged live stock sanitary officials in the southeastern states to modify or annul their quarantine restrictions against each other.

This, he said, he felt could be safely done inasmuch as there has been no suggestion of any appearance of the fowl pest in the southeast. However, he said, other states had proved not over-hasty in accepting the suggestion and only two, Florida and Alabama, had consented to modify their embargoes against Georgia poultry. Georgia poultry, however, may be shipped into these two states upon affidavits of the consignor, he said.

Mr. Bahnsen stated that he would continue his efforts for the modification of quarantine restrictions in the southeastern states, and addded:

"It is not amiss, however, at this time to note that New York, already heavily infested with European fowl pest, and probably better informed on the subject than any other agency—if they base their quarantine on market receipts, which they probably do—is, under date of January 26, 1925, extending its quarantine restrictions so as to include the state of Wisconsin, making a total of 13 states against which New York is quarantined.

"I believe it would be a greater calamity if, through carelessness or indifference, we should import a plague as disastrous to the poultry industry as European fowl pest, or other similar infectious or contagious diseases.

"While I recognize the inconvenience of embargoes and quarantine restrictions, I do not know of any place where the old axiom, 'an ounce of prevention is worth a ton of cure,' is more applicable than in the control of infectious and contagious diseases."

KIWANIS MAKES PLEDGE OF $10,000 TO OPERA FUND

Marking the largest single subscription to date to the fund to guarantee the annual engagement of the Metropolitan Opera company during the week of April 20, the Atlanta Kiwanis club on Tuesday agreed to underwrite $10,000 of the $125,000 total required.

Colonel William Lawson Peel, president of the Atlanta Musical Festival association, which handles the annual season of grand opera locally, suggested the adoption of this plan to the club. Colonel Peel is a member of the Rotary club. The resolution was introduced by Robert H. Jones, Jr., president of the club.

It was announced that Colonel Peel had agreed that if there is a deficit in the grand opera finances this year that the Rotary club will not be called on for more than 10 per cent of their guarantee, he undertaking to meet any further calls out of his own pocket. Rotary club members, it was stated, would now be placed on the same footing as other grand opera guarantors in regard to the privilege of first choice of seat reservations for the opera season.

PROPOSE OPENING OF 2 NATIONAL PARKS IN DIXIE

Washington, January 27.—Establishment of a national park in the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia and another in the Smoky mountains in Tennessee and North Carolina was proposed in a bill introduced jointly today by Senators Swanson, of Virginia, and McKellar, of Tennessee, democrats.

The bill provides the Blue Ridge Mountain park shall be known as Shenandoah National park and shall be situated east of the south fork of the Shenandoah river and between Front Royal on the north and Waynesboro on the south.

The Smoky Mountain National park would be located in such lands as selected by the secretary of the interior, situated in Johnson, Carter, Unicoi, Washington, Greene, Cooke, Sevier, Blount, Monroe and Polk counties in Tennessee and in Cherokee, Graham, Swain, Haywood, Madison, Yancey, Mitchell, Wautauga and Ashe counties in North Carolina.

Representative Temple, republican, Pennsylvania, introduced a bill in the house today to authorize a survey by the secretary of the interior of the southern Appalachian mountains for a proposed national park and of the Smoky mountains in Tennessee for another, with expenditure of $15,000.

The secretary would be authorized to appoint a committee of five, four of them national park experts to serve without compensation to conduct the survey. This bill, Mr. Temple explained, widens the previous bill to cover the whole report that an unofficial committee made recently, at the invitation of Secretary Work.

SPARTA ORGANIZES MERCER ASSOCIATION

Sparta, Ga., January 27.—(Special.)—Dr. Rufus W. Weaver, president of Mercer university, and Coach Mosely, director of Mercer freshman athletics, were principal speakers on a greater and better Mercer at a banquet by graduates and undergraduates of Mercer residing in Hancock county here Monday evening.

John C. Lewis was toastmaster.

Dr. E. J. Forrester, pastor of the Sparta Baptist church, and a former member of the Mercer faculty, was also an outstanding speaker.

Every guest at the banquet also spoke on Mercer and relative subjects.

Following the banquet a county Mercer alumni organization was effected with A. K. Chamlee, president, and Professor W. R. Lanier, secretary and treasurer.

Thomas F. Fleming and John C. Lewis were named to draft suitable constitution and by-laws for the organization.

CARLOS CONANT DIES IN FALL FROM ROOF

Boston, January 27.—While suffering from a nervous malady, Carlos Everett Conant, 55, educator and authority on romance languages, stepped from the edge of the roof of a Back Bay apartment house today and was killed.

He was professor of modern languages at the University of Chattanooga some years ago.

He was the tenth lineal descendant of Roger Conant, who settled at Salem in the early part of the seventeenth century. He was a native of Cabot, Vermont.

Huge Loving Cup Starts on Round To Kiwanis Clubs

Presentation of a handsome loving cup to the Atlanta Kiwanis club by W. W. Munday, of Cedartown, district governor of the organization, was a feature of the regular weekly luncheon of the club Tuesday at 12:30 o'clock, held in the main dining room of the Ansley hotel.

The cup presented at the meeting will pass from one club to another each week until it has been possessed by more than 40 clubs of the order in Georgia. It is then to be sent to the annual district convention which is to be held in Albany in October and awarded permanently to the club having the largest percentage of attendance at the convention, calculated on a mileage basis. The cup will be passed from club to club by personal representation.

Henry Heinz, international treasurer and a member of the Atlanta club, is the donor of the cup to Kiwanis. The cup was presented to Mr. Munday, of the Cedartown club, last Friday by Harry T. Adams, a member of the Atlanta club, in behalf of Mr. Heinz. The cup will be engraved with the name of each club which has had it in its possession. At the end of the year it will bear all district club names.

The Atlanta club was selected by the Cedartown club as the next in line to receive the cup, so acting in behalf of his home organization Mr. Munday made the presentation speech.

Harry Adams, chairman of the international committee of the Atlanta organization had charge of the program at Tuesday's meeting.

John Westmoreland introduced Mr. Munday, the principal speaker, who delivered a short address. He stated that since the world was in such a deplorable condition since the world war, the Kiwanis spirit should be manifested and the organization should aid in helping humanity by giving all service possible. A tribute to the late President Harding also was a feature of his address.

Mr. Munday, while on the subject of "Condition of the World and Education," stated that the national oratory contest, which is being fostered in the south by The Constitution, was a splendid movement and he heartily indorsed it. He also included in his address agricultural and good roads movements, highly indorsing them.

President Robert H. Jones, of the Atlanta club, accepted the cup and made a brief address.

START SEAT SALE FOR McCORMACK CONCERT FRIDAY

John McCormack is expected to receive a warm demonstration on his return to Atlanta February 3 after an absence of several years. McCormack, it is claimed, is the most sought-after singer on the concert stage, and the Atlanta Music club, under whose auspices he appears, is meeting with warm approval on its choice of this, the third attraction in the civic concert series.

In order to obviate if possible the usual standing in line, the Music club management will put tickets on sale Friday at the Cable Piano company. Box seats will be $3.00; best arena and dress circle seats, $2.50; others, $2.00; balcony, $1.50 and $1.25. No war tax.

Rev. and Mrs. Williams To Make Addresses At Wesley on Sunday

While Rev. Marvin Williams is speaking in the main auditorium at Wesley Memorial church at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night Mrs. Williams will address women and girls in the Epworth League room. Mr. Williams' message will be to men only, and on "The Gospel Applied to Themes of Immediate Interest to Red-Blooded Atlantans." Mrs. Williams' address to the women and girls will be on "The Flapper's Future." Mrs. A. C. Boatman will direct a musical program, which will be rendered by a women's chorus.

Many other interesting features of these services will be announced later, Rev. Wiliams said.

JAMES B. TEASLEY DIES AT HARTWELL HOME

Hartwell, Ga., January 27.—(Special.)—James Benson Teasley, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Loyd Teasley, passed away at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning at the home of his parents on Benson street, after an illness of several months.

He was a pet of Hartwell people.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by three sisters, Miss Elizabeth Teasley, of Brenau College, and Misses Alice and Grace Teasley.

The sad death occurred on the thirty-third anniversary of the death of his maternal great-grandfather, Honorable John B. Benson, Hartwell's pioneer merchant and editor.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon.

Atlanta Without Water As Workers Repair Main

With water service restored in all parts of the city and practically all damage to the street car tracks repaired, all of the havoc wrought by bursting of a 36-inch water main at Marietta and Corput streets Tuesday morning, with the exception of several thousand dollars damage to streets and sidewalks, was repaired early Tuesday night.

The entire city of Atlanta was without water for almost two hours after bursting of the main, but service was restored to all except a small area by 11 o'clock Tuesday morning by cutting in new pipe lines and turning the water into a new 48-inch main, which recently was laid parallel to the old main on Marietta street.

Service in the last district was restored during the forenoon, and by 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night all damage to pipes had been repaired, according to W. Zode Smith, general manager of city waterworks.

Some street car tracks through the district, torn up by the rushing torrent, have not been laid, but officials of the Georgia Railway and Power company have announced that there will be no break in service, and that passengers will be transferred to cars waiting on the other side of the break until damages can be repaired. No attempt, however, will be made to operate over any of the tracks which were flooded until every foot of trackage has been tested thoroughly to eliminate any danger of cave-ins.

As a direct result of the break and its effect in leaving the entire city without water for so long a period, Mayor Walter A. Sims stated Tuesday morning that he plans to urge the bond commission to act immediately in constructing new water mains which would handle any emergency which might arise in connection with the city's water system.

Both the mayor and Chief W. B. Cody, of the Atlanta fire department, emphasized the danger from fires in which the city was placed during the time it was without a water supply. Chief Cody declared that the situation was further proof of the fact that the city needs a high-pressure water system for fire fighting use exclusively.

New Mains Needed.

The mayor pointed out that there is $900,000 unexpended from the issue of water bonds sold in 1921, and declared that there is no better use for the money than installation of new mains, which would enable the city to switch mains in a few minutes in case of any emergency.

Mr. Smith said Tuesday afternoon that the cause of the break had not been determined definitely, but that it probably resulted from too great a pressure on the pipes, which were laid several years ago.

A few minutes after the water began to spout from the pipe in the great streams Mr. Smith, heading a corps of assistants, rushed to the scene and work was started at once to check the flow of water and repair the main. All of the city's water supply was cut off as soon as the department learned of the break and could not be turned on again until the water had been turned into the other main, as the bursted pipe served as one of the principal feeders from the Hemphill pumping station to the downtown district.

Car Barn Isolated.

Car service on Marietta street was suspended for a short time, but cars to Marietta were routed over the River line, while arrangements were made to transfer other passengers. The Ashby street car barn also was isolated for a short time by the deluge, in which, power company engineers estimate almost 1,000,000 gallons of water were released.

While sidewalks were swept away, streets damaged, tracks undermined, and the streets flooded for a considerable distance, no one was injured seriously, as far as could be learned Tuesday night, although several persons suffered minor cuts and bruises when they were unable to escape the path of the onrushing flood, and were knocked to the ground.

Southern Road Sets New Speed Record On Trip to New York

Record run of a special train from Atlanta to New York was reported Tuesday by Assistant General Passenger Agent J. C. Beam, of the Southern Railway, the special having been run [illegible] accommodation of Julius Fleischmann, former mayor of Cincinnati and millionaire yeast manufacturer, now living in New York.

While on a holiday trip in Florida, Mr. Fleischmann was called back to New York on urgent business and, being delayed on account of flood conditions in south Georgia, reached Atlanta Monday morning, too late to make connection with the Southern's "Piedmont Limited" for New York.

He asked to be run special to New York, and a train made up of his private car, "Middleneck," and a buffer car was run out of Atlanta at 10:15 Monday morning, moving over the Southern to Washington and the Pennsylvania to New York, the latter city being reached at 8:28 o'clock, eastern time, Tuesday morning, making the run from Atlanta to New York in 21 hours and 13 minutes. Upon completion of the trip Mr. Fleischmann stated to railroad officials that he had never had a finer or nicer journey.

PROTECTION OF LIVES DEMANDED OF CHINA

Peking, January 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Representatives of the powers today presented a note to the foreign office emphasizing the Chinese government's responsibility for the protection of lives and property during the renewed fighting in the vicinity of Shanghai, which, the communication stated, "has already proved a real curse for both the foreign and Chinese populations in this country."

The note urgently requests the government to telegraph orders to the conflicting forces of Chi Hsich Yuan and Lu Yung Hsiang that under no circumstances are the troops to be allowed within the neighborhood of foreign habitations.

In conclusion the notes express the hope that an early assurance to this effect will be received.

Problem of Relationship Between U. S. and League Renewed by Opium Question

Experts Believe Placing of America on Narcotic Council May Help International Situation.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Geneva, January 27.—The entire problem of adjusting official American relations with the league of nations has been opened anew in league circles by the decision of the leaders of the international opium conference today to make the league council, together with the United States, the official body which will appoint a central board of control to supervise international traffic in narcotic drugs.

In the text of the anti-narcotic convention, the appointing body will be designated as the United States and countries having seats in the council of the league.

The significance of today's action is that it has suggested to the officials generally a possible means of solving the problem of how to arrange and organize American relations with the league, which seems to be steadily increasing. This suggested solution even goes so far as to advocate the appointment of a permanent representative of the American government to the league who would follow systematically those league activities in which the United States was interested and sit with the council and assembly when these matters, previously handled by commissions, were being further studied and perhaps amended by those two bodies.

Means U. S. Association.

In the opinion of league officials this would virtually mean that the United States will become a kind of associate member of the league, with the understanding that it undertake no obligations under the covenant and would take no responsibility or pursue activity in international political problems handled by the league.

Today's discussion concerning the opium board is also cited as of possible value in finding ways and means for American cooperation in the election of the judges of the world court of justice, in case the United States later decides to adhere to the court. The judges are chosen by the council and the assembly voting separately, and to avoid suspicion that America's presence would commit the United States to league obligations it is proposed the Washington government should meet with the other countries as such and as an electoral body, instead of meeting with them as council and assembly.

The wisdom of the United States in adopting some difinite and organized procedure in league relations also will arise, according to league officials, in connection with the question of international traffic in arms. The United States has accepted an invitation to participate in the May conference for the elaboration of a convention for the control of traffic in arms and a feature of this convention, like that on opium, will be the creation of a central board of control.

Takes Prominent Part.

Representative Stephen G. Porter, head of the American delegation, took a prominent part in today's decision to make the council nations and the United States the body which will appoint the narcotic board, and he is said to be interested as to whether a similar procedure could not be adopted for the world court election, in the event of American adherence.

League officials seem convinced that the United States will take no immediate steps for full membership in the league, and apparently are giving considerable attention to the problem of regulating American relations in a manner that would stand the best chance of proving acceptable to the American government and people and to the members of the league.

They said they are inclined to the view that associate membership frankly limited to specific matters, without commitments of any kind, would be the most feasible solution. They declare that they disapprove of treating the league as a separate entity, and believe that associate membership should be accompanied by the payment of pro rata of the cost of the activities in which the associate member participated.

Delhi, British India, January 27.—(By the Associated Press).—In the legislative assembly today Sir Basil Blackett, finance member of the executive council of the governor-general, was considerably heckled on the subject of the Indian government's opium policy.

Sir Basil denied the replacement of John Campbell by another delegate at Geneva was due to dissatisfaction over the manner in which Mr. Campbell discharged his duties. He added that the American delegation to the Geneva conference in raising the question of restrictions on the production of opium went beyond the instructions of the council of the league of nations, which desired the conference to consider restriction and limitation of exports.

The Indian government, Sir Basil declared, could not allow any interference with its internal policies with regard to opium consumption. A native member supported the American viewpoint, which he claimed also was supported by Indian public opinion. Many other Indian members expressed dissatisfaction over the government's policy.

Sir Basil, however, maintained that this policy was not dictated by financial considerations and said that the total restriction of production would be too drastic for the religious and social customs of the Indian people.

ADVENTIST CHURCH MEMBERS PRESENT CLEVER DIALOGUE

An interesting service was held Sunday night at the First Seventh-Day Adventist church, when the regular preaching hour was occupied by presentation of a dialogue showing what should be done and is being done by Christian workers in their own neighborhoods. That practical Christianity consists of doing good was emphasized by the program.

Pastor A. B. Russell, who took charge of the church last fall, has been emphasizing the importance of each lay member having an active part in Christian endeavor. "It must be remembered that the first and paramount desire of a real Christian is to carry the gospel to those around him," said Mr. Russell in the course of his remarks at the opening of the service.

A scene represented a home in Atlanta, which was visited by a Christian friend, who, finding a child sick, helped the mother in relieving the child, and encouraging the study of the Bible. The mother, ordinarily not religiously inclined, listened to the Word of God as it was presented by the friends in a tactful way.

FEDERAL CHILD LABOR MEASURE DEFEATED

labor amendment to the federal constitution was adopted by the senate of the state legislature here today 27 to 15. Later a bill to refer a proposed labor amendment to the people of Washington in the general election next year passed the senate 33 to 9.

GEORGIA LEGISLATURE DEFEATED AMENDMENT.

The Georgia legislature voted overwhelmingly against ratification of the federal child labor amendment at its session in 1924. The vote against the amendment was unanimous in the senate and in the house only three members voted for it.

Opposition to the amendment was based on many arguments, among others being that of state's rights. Members of the assembly stated that, while the state laws on child labor could probably be improved—and undoubtedly should be amended—this was a matter for state regulation and not for government control.

It was also held that the powers granted to congress under the amendment were too broad, and it was pointed out that under the wording of the amendment as submitted, congress had the power to absolutely prohibit all work of any description for any person under 18 years of age.

There has been wide opposition to the amendment generally throughout Georgia and it has been the frequently expressed opinion of state officials that if it passed it would merely provide an excuse for adding to the federal payrolls of a host of professional reformers and investigators who would never rest content until they had made every minor a ward of the government, under a government control so rigid that they would practically be "sovietized."

Since the defeat of the amendment in the Georgia assembly, proponents of the measure in other parts of the country seem to have centered their attacks on Georgia and many and varied charges regarding child labor conditions in this state have been made, practically all of which were ridiculously incorrect.

CONSCIOUS-STRICKEN YOUTH SURRENDERS

a deacon in the Capitol View Presbyterian church."

R. D. Warren, close personal friend of Morris, and George M. Woods, friend of Morris and Mr. Dolvin, stated that they had known Morris for years, and that they had never known him to be in trouble before.

Neighbors Grieved.

"I feel that my best friend, Carl Dolvin, has been slain, and that my next best friend has been the agent used by fate to snatch him away from me," Mr. Woods said. "Carl was secretary of Capitol View Masonic lodge, and I am treasurer. I loved him like a brother."

Trial of the youths will take place at 2:30 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon, it was announced Tuesday night by police officials.

Acting Chief of Police E. L. Jett stated that his investigations of the accident positively established the fact that there was no liquor in he car.

Admits Driving Car.

Morris admitted that he was driving the car.

A. M. MORRIS.

According to witnesses the machine which struck down Mr. Dolvin was traveling at a rate of about 35 miles an hour. Mr. Dolvin had just left his car and was going into his home at 173 Dill avenue when struck. He had just waved at his wife, who came to meet him. His body was hurled about 40 feet, and his skull was fractured.

Car Did Not Stop.

The car did not stop but careened after hitting the victim, but was righted and sped on, gaining in speed, witnesses said. City Detective Harrison gave chase but the car had too big a lead.

Mrs. Dolvin and friends to whom Mr. Dolvin had waved a greeting before being hit, looked on, awe-stricken, while E. L. Adams, of 250 Sylvan road, placed the injured man in his car and rushed him to Grady hospital, where he died soon after being placed on the operating table.

Funeral services for Mr. Dolvin will be held from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. A. C. Hendley will officiate. Interment will be at West View cemetery.

City Mourns Loss.

Mayor Walter A. Sims ordered flags on the city hall and at Five Points to be placed at half-mast in honor of the dead official, and issued orders for the closing of the city hall during the time of the funeral.

"Mr. Dolvin's death is a horrible shock to me," Mr. Sims said. "He was a splendid man and a good official. Atlanta will keenly feel his loss."

Mr. Dolvin was a Mason and an Elk, and was connected prominently with civic and political life of Atlanta. In 1916-17 he represented the 10th ward in the Atlanta city council, and in 1920 was defeated for alderman by I. N. Ragsdale, whose place he took last September when Mr. Ragsdale resigned. In the September election he defeated C. M. Ford, who has been mentioned as his successor.

DRUID HILLS CLUB ELECTS OFFICIALS

Reelection of the whole officer personnel, naming of five new directors and reports of progress of construction work on the new clubhouse featured the annual election Tuesday night of the Druid Hills Golf club.

The clubhouse, which was destroyed by fire several months ago, is being replaced by a new and modern structure which will cost approximately $135,000. The kitchen and locker rooms will be completed by March 15, and the whole building will be turned over by May 15, it was announced.

New directors named for a two-year term are Sam T. Maddox, L. L. Shivers, W. T. Colquitt, A. C. Newell and C. J. Holditch.

Hold-over directors are J. R. Porter, Jackson P. Dick, F. B. Fisher, G. F. Willis and W. A. Fuller.

BURNING EMBERS AWAKEN FAMILY TO ESCAPE BLAZE

Members of the family of W. A. Carroll, 67 Lowry street, were awakened shortly before midnight Tuesday to find their home in flames. Directly over the sleeping Carrolls the roof of the house was a mass of flames.

Mr. Carroll seized several quilts from the beds and succeeded in carrying all the members of his family to safety on the streets. He had to make several trips. The family stood shivering, clad only in their night clothes, until neighbors came to their aid.

The Carroll home was badly damaged by the fire before the flames were extinguished. It is believed that the blaze originated in a kitchen stove flue.

Ethel Leginska Disappears

:: PRESS AGENT AND FOUL PLAY ARE BLAMED ::

Leaving Audience Waiting

New York, January 27.—With nearly thirty hours elapsed since Ethel Leginska, renowned English pianist, mysteriously disappeared after starting to Carnegie hall to fill an operatic contract, her friends and the music world as a body are seriously alarmed.

Theories concerning the disappearance range from that of suicide to brazen publicity. But if Leginska did vanish for publicity purposes she did so without the consent of her management.

According to Mrs. Charles Roshore, the last person known to have seen Miss Leginska, the pianist after talking with her secretary, Miss Lucile Oliver, started to run down the street. Miss Oliver had been sent to hail the taxi-cab which was to take them to the hall for the concert.

"She flew! declared Mrs. Roshore. "Flew just like an angel."

Miss Oliver said her employer was much overworked and very nervous. "But yet she was not unhappy," she said. "She loved work and studied incessantly.

"She worked on her compositions and her songs and opera. I don't believe she could have gone away deliberately."

Miss Leginska disappointed 2,000 persons in Carnegie hall, whose indignation after an hour of waiting rapidly gave way to alarm. Three years ago in London she disappeared in similar fashion after her concert had been advertised. No explanation ever was given.

It is generally admitted, though, that she is not phlegmatic. The manager of her concert said Tuesday night he could not believe she was seeking publicity because such publicity was harmful. He said Miss Leginska was starting a tour of the south and midwest February 8, and that now he expected cancellations "all along the line."

During a long day of questioning and interviews, detectives found no one beside Mrs. Roshore who had seen the pianist, although she was dressed in the usual black dress she wears at concerts and did not have on a hat.

Various reports came to police headquarters and detectives were kept scurrying for clues. The pianist was reported at the apartment of Mme. Taglione, the mother of one of her pupils, but a search of the apartment was fruitless.

Germany Denies Violation Of Clause on Disarmament

Paris, January 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Germany's reply to the recent note of the allied ambassadors which was handed to Lord D'Abernon, the British ambassador, by Foreign Minister Stresemann, in Berlin, today, again protests against the refusal of the allies to give immediately a bill of particulars on Germany's alleged violations of the disarmament clauses in the treaty of Versailles. It reasserts that Germany has really disarmed and is fully entitled to the evacuation of the Cologne area.

The Berlin communication reviews the note of the council of ambassadors which was handed to Chancellor Luther yesterday and which declines to examine the question of the non-evacuation with Germany or to go into further details regarding the reasons for maintaining the allied forces in the Cologne zone. The German note then says the allies have given "merely a formel reply which in no sense advances an affair of such grave significance to Germany and European reconciliation."

The Stresemann communication continues:

"The allied governments continue to keep the German government, as well as public opinion in ignorance of the material facts on which they seek to base the decisions they took several weeks ago. The German people again find themselves accused of not having executed the treaty without being given the possibility of defending themselves against these accusations. The allied governments draw from a unilateral judgment of facts the gravest consequences, and in their last note refuse in the most formal manner even to examine the affair jointly with the German government."

The note adds that Germany cannot understand why she is reproached with misunderstanding articles 428 and 429 of the Versailles treaty. In this connection it states:

"She has not contested and does not contest that these articles make the evacuation of the northern zone of the Rhineland on January 10, 1925, depend upon certain conditions. Her affirmation bears only on the point that these preliminary conditions have been executed. The fact of Germany's disarmament is too evident for the allied governments to justify non-fulfillment (of the evacuation clauses) by the present state of German disarmament."

The communication points out that the allies seem to consider that progressive evacuation under article 429 "represented a favorable advantage to Germany that depends upon their decision." That would be in evident contradiction to the text of the treaty, it is argued, which does not permit a doubt that the provisions of article 429 constitute a right "as imperative as that of article 428."

In conclusion the note states: "General interest in fruitful political collaboration does not permit an indefinite continuance of the present situation which leaves in uncertainty the fate of a great German territory and its population. The German government, therefore, assumes that the allied governments will, with the briefest delay communicate the promised specifications, thereby establishing a condition necessary for an agreement designed to dispel the controversy that has arisen."

FARMERS' CONFERENCE ADOPTS FARM PROGRAM

Athens, Ga., January 27.—(Special.)—A farm program for Georgia for 1925 was adopted here today by a committee composed of farmers, bankers and business men from various sections of Georgia, which was presided over by C. L. Williamson, of Atlanta, secretary of Credit Men's association, as chairman.

The program adopted by the committee and submitted to the farm conference in session here follows:

"The dependence of our state upon its agricultural interests demands that our farmers, in cooperation with the business men of the state, should adopt and carry out a permanent farm program in order that farming in Georgia may be a more profitable business. As a means to this end, we adopt the following farm program in an earnest effort to help the agricultural and business interests of the state.

"1. Crops in Georgia must be diversified. There must be raised upon farms sufficient food crops to make each farm self-sustaining. There should be upon each farm live stock and poultry and in each community proper dairying facilities. Through this live stock and dairying farmers will realize cash returns sufficient for their needs until returns from their staple crops are received.

Must Be Financed.

"2. Farmers of the state must be financed in making their crops and in operating their farms. This financing should be at a reasonable rate of interest and upon terms favorable to our farming interests. There should be established agricultural credit corporations wherever necessary in the state, to cooperate with the local banks of the community in adequately and easily financing our farming operations.

"3. The principle of coperative marketing should be applied generally in the marketing of farm products. This system of cooperative marketing should be applied not only to our staple crops such as cotton, peanuts and tobacco, but should be equally applied to other field and orchard crops which can be properly raised under a diversified program. The principle of cooperative marketing as applied to farm products in Georgia is unqualifiedly indorsed.

"4. Inasmuch as any development program is predicted on adequate leadership, we desire to indorse those types of higher education necessary to develop a sufficient number of Georgia's rural boys and girls to make the agriculture of the state efficient and self-sustaining.

"5. There should be county units or county organizations formed in each county for the purpose of helping the farmer to promote a diversified agriculture, to properly educate their children, to better their methods of production and in general to bring about community welfare."

Conwell Speaks.

Organization has reduced the storage price on cotton from $1 to 25 cents a bale, J. E. Conwell, president of the Georgia Cotton Growers' Cooperative association, asserted here today at the conference. Conwell and J. J. Brown, state commissioner of agriculture, were the principal speakers at the morning session.

Commissioner Brown stated that he believed the farmers of Georgia will be able to obtain all the financial help necessary to put across the farm program which the conference is considering. He spoke enthusiastically of the proposed program.

Conwell outlined the work of the Cooperative association, declaring that the association now borrows money at 4 1-2 per cent instead of 6 and has obtained reduction of 22 per cent on insurance of cotton in storage.

Dr. T. J. McArthur, of Cordele, lieutenant governor of the Kiwanis clubs of Georgia, spoke on the farm program of that organization for 1925.

Robert Slocum, of the United States department of agriculture, spoke on poultry production and marketing.

M. C. Gay gave the results of the Macon survey.

At the afternoon session Professor Willis A. Sutton spoke and at the night session C. D. Gibson and Mrs. Ira Farmer, of Thomson, were the main speakers.

UPSHAW DEMANDS ACTION BY HOUSE ON SHOALS BILL

Washington, January 27.—(Special.)—In urging that the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill be sent to conference instead of back to a committee for consideration, Representative Upshaw, of Georgia, declared in a speech in the house Tuesday that congress had "played" with Muscle Shoals legislation long enough, and that he was opposed to operation of the project by private enterprise.

"The people are tired of a legislative attitude of hesitation, vacillation and equivocation," Upshaw said.

He said that the action by the conference was not final and that if the conferees did not report back "a bill that dedicates Muscle Shoals to the high purposes of national defense and the manufacture of cheaper fertilizers for the farmers as well as the development of water power, I expect to vote against it."

"Some gentlemen who have opposed this bill seem unduly alarmed concerning the development of our national resources by great power companies. Gentlemen, let's be practical about this matter. I have never seen any baleful results from the development of water power by private enterprise. Goodness knows I would rather see our great natural resources developed by private enterprise than not developed at all.

"Through all the centuries the water power in our Georgia mountains had gone to waste, and it would be wasting still if a great power company had not taken hold with its wealth, its vision and vigor, and now behold! our whole section is commercially athrob and athrill as a result of this superb business enterprise."

and democratic members of the committee.

The senate conferees would serve with Chairman McKenzie, Representatives Morin, Pennsylvania, and Quin, Mississippi, ranking republican and democratic members of the house military committe.

Senator Morris tonight declined to discuss his attitude on the conferee situation, but indicated that he would object to the departure from the usual practice. Senator McNary said he "would be glad to be relieved from the conference."

Senator Smith asserted that if he were named as a conferee he would stand up for the senate bill regardless of his personal feelings.

During the two-hour debate over adoption of the rule in the house, party lines were disregarded, the history of Muscle Shoals was reviewed in detail and the Underwood bill was attacked and defended with feeling. During the early stages of the debate, it was demonstrated clearly that the sentiment of the house favored sending the measure to conference.

Rising Vote Ordered.

The speaker attempted to get the rule adopted by an oral vote, but on objection by Representative Blanton, democrat, Texas, a standing vote was ordered. This result was announced as 181 to 41. Not satisfied with this the Texas representative requested a roll call, but he was unable to get the necessary number of seconds and the roll was not called.

Speeches favoring the rule to send the bill to conference were made by Chairman Snell, of the rules committee; Representative Garrett, the democratic leader; Representative Almon, democrat, who represents the Muscle Shoals district; Byrns, democrat, Tennessee; Hill, republican, Maryland; Garrett, democrat, Texas; Upshaw, democrat, Georgia; Hill and Allgood, democrats, Alabama.

Suit Owners Shiver in Cold

:: SHOES AND SUITS PREY OF SMALL BLAZE ::

As Flames Destroy Clothing

BY KENNETH L. EAGON.

Where they pressed 'em while they waited, they waited Tuesday night, shivering, but not in barrels.

Another old song came back, viz.: "When My Shoes Wear Out, I'll Be On My Feet Again."

Today, somewhere in Atlanta, moreover and however, comma, it may be cold, it may be warm, it may snow or it may rain, and the sun may shine. But it will only be a vacant Wednesday for a group of pantless, vestless and coatless unfortunates.

The harrowing details:

The "Press 'Em While You Wait" and "New Soles in Ten Minutes or Your Shoes Back" establishment at 16 Decatur street was besieged by fire. Spontaneous combustion, they say. Firemen broke open the shop, for no one could find the owner or spell his name.

Many suits were pressed while they waited. Many shoes were run down forever.

Six firemen, in endeavoring to break into the shop without tearing out the front of the building, pulled down the mournful sign: ". . . . "While You Wait."

It crashed over their heads and reminded them that if they didn't lean on the gas, there would be a lot of hombre looking for bargains in hand-me-downs today.

Most of the crowd enjoyed it.

AGED MAN HELD IN WOMAN'S DEATH

G. E. Orgain, 60-year-old blacksmith, was indicted Tuesday by Fulton county grand jury for the murder of Mrs. Berta Mae Johnson, whom he is charged with shooting to death on Central avenue on the night of January 19. It was announced in the solicitor general's office that date for trial would be set within two weeks.

Immediately after Mrs. Johnson's death Monday night at Grady hospital, a statement by her in which she accused Orgain of the shooting and other evidence gathered by detectives were turned over to Solicitor General John A. Boykin. The indictment followed Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Johnson was walking along Central avenue with her 8-year-old daughter, Lucy, when a mysterious form stepped from the dark and fired two shots into her body. Conscious of her serious condition, Mrs. Johnson told police that she recognized Orgain as the man who fired the shots, saying that he had sought her attentions and had been rebuffed. Jealousy, she charged, prompted the alleged act. His arrest followed shortly after and he has since been held in jail, without privilege of bond.

Orgain has persistently denied any knowledge of the shooting, claiming that he was nowhere in the neighborhood at the time of the shooting.

POTATOES URGED TO REPLACE GRAPES BY GERMAN DRYS

Berlin, January 27.—To make several potatoes or heads of grain grow where only grapes grew before is the ambition of the German Anti-Alcohol league. The league has demanded the transformation of the vineyards as a step toward prohibition, leaving only a few to provide for unfermented grape juice.

PAXON REELECTED TO HEAD BUREAU

The executive committee for the ensuing year was elected as follows: F. J. Paxon, chairman; Ivan E. Allen, James F. DeJarnette, Virlyn B. Moore, J. L. McLendon, W. T. Perkerson, W. C. Royer and W. O. Stamps.

Staff Is Reelected.

The convention bureau staff was reelected and is composed of Fred Houser, secretary; Frank O. Foster, secretary in charge of the recently created "tourist department," and Miss Leona Westbrook, manager of the publicity department.

In making his annual report Mr. Paxon pointed out that since the organization of the convention bureau in 1913, 2,754 conventions have been entertained in this city, 298 of these occurring in 1924. The total attendance is conservatively estimated at 67,208, he said.

Mayor Sims in his address outlined the remarkable growth of Atlanta, declaring that the "city today stands builded on a firm foundation of cooperation—the Atlanta spirit."

"Cooperation is the thing that has made all of civilization," he said. "America itself resulted from the cooperation back in '76 of a handful of men who for the sake of freedom banded together and laid the foundation for the great nation we have to today.

"It was that spirit that caused the Atlanta of a half-century ago to grow into the great city we have today. The indomitable spirit of cooperation is imbedded deep in the hearts of every true Atlantan, and it is that spirit upon which we must depend through all time."

Good Roads Urged.

Mr. Neel, of the state highway department, declared in his address that it was time "for the people of Georgia to realize that dirt roads are a thing of the past." He declared that before Atlanta and Georgia become the city and state they deserve to be, their people must aspire to something higher than dirt roads.

A system of paved roads, covering 6,000 miles, has been designed by the highways department, Mr. Neel said. The roads in this system will reach every important town in the entire state and will come within ten miles of every home, he said. The project could be realized in seven years' time at a cost of $84,000,000, Mr. Neel said, whereas, if the present methods are continued, the state will be forced to make continuous repairs on the estimated 90,000 miles of roads in the state at endless cost.

Invocation at the meeting was made by Dr. Carter Helm Jones, pastor of the Second Baptist church. Two beautiful solos were rendered by Miss Nora Allen, talented Atlanta soprano.

At the conclusion of the address Mr. Allen, presiding, introduced to the assembly W. V. Zimmer, president of the Atlanta Hotel Men's association, and T. L. Stokes, president of the Retail Merchants' association.

SLASH IN SECOND-CLASS MAIL RATES

tee which conducted hearings on the bill, Senator George declared 600,000,000 pieces had been driven from the second-class service by advances already made in the rates. These would return, he argued, if the rates were reduced.

Rates Suggested By George.

The rates suggested by Senator George were 1 1-2 cents a pound for the first two zones; two cents for the third zone; three cents for the fourth zone; 3 1-2 cents for the fifth zone; four cents for the sixth zone; five cents for the seventh zone, and 5 1-2 cents for the eighth zone, all applicable to advertising sections of publications.

The bill proposes rates of three cents for the first three zones, six cents for the next three zones, and eight cents for the last two, and these are less than recommended by the postoffice department.

Party lines were broken in the vote on the preferential rate amendment. Senator Simmons, democrat, North Carolina, led the fight for the proposal, which was vigorously opposed by Senator Moses, who argued that the preferential rate was unfair to general publications. Senator Simmons insisted it was a well-established principle of congress to allow preference for educational, religious, scientific and similar organizations.

Veterans Lend Helping Hand to Young Bucky

This is the eighteenth installment of the autobiography of Stanley Harris, youngest major league baseball manager in the history of the game, and the victorious strategist and one of the outstanding players in the 1924 world series, in which his Washington club won the pennant for the first time. The rise of Harris from colliery boy to big league manager in eight years is one of the most remarkable life stories America has ever produced.

Manager World Champion Washington Senators.

I didn't finish the 1918 season in the International league. The crowds were small and the clubs were hard-pressed to make ends meet. After playing in more than 80 games I was signed by Sam Frock, of the Baltimore Dry Docks club. He gathered a squad of major and minor leaguers and developed a fast team. He hired me on the chance that I might make a utility infielder.

My showing with Buffalo hadn't been impressive. I hit .241 in 85 games. I had put on some weight and tipped the scales at about 130 pounds. Still I had trouble doing more than poking the ball out of the infield. I gathered only 18 extra base hits. These included eleven two-baggers and seven triples. I didn't have a homer to my credit.

I did fairly well in the field but my average was nothing to boast about. I was in 66 games as a second baseman. I played 20 games at shortstop My average at second base was .944. At shortstop my average was only .906. There were plenty of infielders who could play rings around me.

Dazzy With Rochester.

Several pitchers who later came up to the big leagues were in the International that season. Dazzy Vance was with Rochester for a short time. He won three games and lost five, not showing the form which brought him to the top. But even then he had a world of speed. He struck out better than an average of four men a game during his short season.

Ed Rommell, later a star with the Athletics, showed he was a promising prospect by winning 12 games and losing 15. Waite Hoyt was with Newark. He had been turned down by the Giants. He won two games and lost three. He struck out 25 batters.

Hoyt and I became good friends. He impressed me as a coming pitcher. When I signed up, Frock told me he was in the market for pitchers and asked me to recommend one. I urged him to get Hoyt. He did so, but Waite didn't perform in many games. The next season found him in the American league, where he has made a notable record.

Veterans Show Me How.

The Dry Docks club was a fast one. Joe Judge, of Washington, was on first. I played second. Willie Wortman was our shortstop and Fritz Maisel held down third. Frank Schulte, the old-time home-run king, Johnny Bates and Bobby Roth made up the outfield. Edie Ainsmith, who earned fame as Walter Johnson's catcher, was the mainstay behind the plate. The pitchers included Scott Perry, Ed Rommell, Daye Danforth and Allen Russell. We didn't lose a game that fall.

I learned more in a few weeks in such company than in all my previous baseball career. The veterans went out of their way to help me. It didn't seem as if they could do enough to round out my education. Ainsmith taught me how to cover second in taking a throw from the catcher on an attempted steal. He coached me in making the play at the plate on a double steal. Maisel and Judge worked with me on the pivot for a double play. Schulte gave me lots of pointers on how to improve my batting.

Under such tuition I really improved. I played at a faster pace than ever before. I felt as if I had to hold my end up with the finished product of professional baseball. I was like the boy who is thrown into the water and knows he has to swim or sink. I was fortunate enough, thanks to the advice and help of the seasoned players, to swim. Soon I fitted into an excellent infield machine.

The Name Stuck.

"You got a nickname, Harris?" Schulte asked me one day.

"They call me Bucky," I answered.

"How come?" he drawled.

"Garry Schmelk made it stick on me when I was playing basketball. I had a couple of players on my back in a rough game. When I shook them off and shot a basket he said I bucked like a tough bronco. I was called Bucky as a kid but the name was being forgotten until Garry came along."

"Keep right on bucking," the veteran advised. "You've got to fight for about everything you get in this world. If you battle hard enough you'll reach the big leagues. And when you get there keep right on plugging away. The guy who stays at the top longest is the one who fights the hardest. They say there's lots of room at the top. Maybe so. But I haven't noticed anyone hanging on in baseball who loafs on the job. There are always dozens of youngsters ready to step in and knock the loafer out of his uniform."

Not Worth $5,000.

Another time this star of the famous old-time clubs said: "Bucky, you're on your way up. I'm done in the big leagues. Take care of yourself and save your money. And never be a roughneck on or off the field."

When I disagreed with him that his days as a player were numbered he told me his legs had gone back on him and that his throwing arm was weakening. He still could hit, however. In the 1918 season his bat had been a powerful weapon in helping Washington finish third in the pennant race. He was one of the most graceful batters I have even seen. He could knock a ball over the fence with apparently no effort. He was one of the greatest players the game has developed and a thoroughbred of the diamond.

Schulte urged Clark Griffith to buy me from the Buffalo club while we were playing together. So did Joe Judge. The Washington leader learned I would cost $5,000. He looked up my batting and fielding records and found them unimpressive. He knew I was expecting an early call to the colors. Under the conditions he refused to buy my release. I don't blame him, though I was disappointed at the time. But my failure to land with Washington was soon forgotten. I received my call to military service and was ordered to report to Camp Crane at Allentown, Pa.

Tomorrow: Passed up by McGraw.

Washington Senators Picked for Third Place

BY KENNETH L. EAGON.

Washington—first in war, first in peace, and generally last in the American league—having pulled the miracle gag, radiates all indications of returning to form in 1925.

Having won the American league bunting last season by sheer determination and the stamina of youth, added to which was a lot of overhead playing by hitherto unknown stars, President Clark Griffith, a wise and astute commander, and Manager Stanley Harris, "The Electric Spark of Baseball," have decided to change the team's policy.

That's just how they put it into print: "Change the team's policy"

You can spill your own drugs on that one.

Connie Mack, after the world-smacking Athletics had brought so many pennants to Philadelphia, they used them for bath towels, busted up the sweetest aggregation of baseball players that ever will sit in the same pinochle game together and has been content since with watching young men emulate their senior contemporaries. They have sold all the score boards in Philly to a correspondence school and ladies' day is about the only time they dust off the seats in either of the Quaker Town orchards.

Washington not only won a pennant in their respective league, but they went out and took the world's series from the "Joints." Some achievement. Try and do it again.

The Washington Senators this year will boast a first-division club. They are the hardest outfit in the American league to figure. Take into consideration that Griffith and the boy prodigy, "Bucky" Harris, have conceded that they will be "satisfied with a first division club." Still, you can't smear the dope.

Listen To Bucky.

However, it looks like they would end up in about third place. This would be a most resceptable flip-flop from the throne of honor.

Peel this off your chin: (Hot from "Bucky" Harris).

"Now that the Washington club has won a pennant, Mr. Griffith and I have agreed to change the team's policy with respect to veteran players. When we were building up our team, we naturally had to get players young enough to last several seasons so that they would not slip back while waiting for other good players to come along. Now that we have gotten somewhere, all we have to do in 1925 will be to look forward to this season and next season, and all the seasons as they come."

Now that might go two ways. But, when you learn that Mr. Griffith and Mr. Harris have gone out and purchased three veteran pitchers, one 40 years' old, you begin to see the light of the world.

Vean Gregg, southpaw, formerly on the pay roll of the Cleveland Indians, has been purchased by the Washington Senators for a round sum of $10,000 from Seattle of the Pacific Coast league. The ex-Ohioan was going good on the coast. But he is 40 years' old. And that tells a large bed-time story in baseball.

Stanley Coveleskie, veteran spitballer, was also obtained from Cleveland for Byron Speece. Covey is another old man, not long for the big leagues.

Add to this Walter ("Dutch") Reuther, also a veteran southpaw, obtained via the waiver route from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Vets May Deliver.

Three old men who know their stuff, but they'll take a ride if the boys get rough. And the ball gets livelier and livelier.

Maybe these superannuated gents will fool the gang and up and win the games that are expected of them. If they do, with the rest of the Senator's twirling staff, well, we will be looking for another job next October. But it looks like Washington would skip along nicely, winning here and losing there, and bid 1925 allay-out in third place.

Now, before discussing any more pitchers, let us get Walter Johnson, one and only, off our chest. Walter still is in the orangelands of California, but the latest dope hot from Griffith and Harris is that he has abandoned all ideas of buying a franchise in the Pacific Coast league—or any other assortment.

However, both Griffith and Harris have received advices from the coast, both direct from Walter Johnson and others, to the effect that Johnson will be back in harness in the scandal capital within the next 60 days. Johnson will be with Washington, unless the movie vamps get him.

So the remaining pitchers, besides Mr. Johnson, holdovers from last season, most all of whom have signed the papers for 1925, will be Warren ("Curly") Ogden, Paul Zahniser, Allen Russell, Fred Marberry, Joe Martina, all right-handed, and Tom Zachary and George Mogridge, left-handed.

Good Hurling Staff.

Taking the pitching problem, it looks like the Senators will cause trouble for all of the other seven clubs at times. But on team fielding and batting, Washington is just fairly good. On the whole, as a team, they have the material to repeat, unless they put horseradish in their uniforms at every contest.

Now, we are not through yet. Here are three other pitchers who are going to be given a try-out. Both Bucky and Griff are mute as to whether all three will make the club as regulars. But they will go south and try to make it. They are: Harry Kelly, bought from Memphis; Clide Dudley, recalled from Greenville, S. C., and J. Benson Brillhart, recalled from Richmond, Va., and to be given his third trial for a place in the big leagues, all occasions having been with Washington. All these boys are very black steeds.

The infielders consist of Oswald Bluege, at third base; Roger Peckinpaugh, at short; "Bucky" himself, at second base, and Joe Judge, at the initial sack. These are fixtures and already signed up. On the utility sheet, we have, for infield positions, Ernest Shirley, who at once is a first-class first baseman. But he can play any position in the infield.

In the gardens, look at Sammy Rice, Earl McNeely, Harry Leibold, the original Nemo, and Leon (Goose) Goslin, the sticking and socking fool of the recent world's series. They are all there with the goods.

Those just mentioned as fielders—in and out—are regulars. Newcomers are Mike McNally, traded from the Boston Red Sox for Jim (Doc) Prothro, and Spencer Adams, drafted from Portland, Ore., formerly second baseman for the Pittsburg Pirates.

Roy Carlisle.

There are, too, among the maidens, Roy Carlisle and George Rhinehart, both obtained from Memphis. Carlisle was the leader of the Southern league in hitting and has a record as a fence-buster. Griff and Harris refuse to say what they intend to do with Mr Carlisle, some outfielder, but obviously he will be at least used in alternation for right and left-handed pitchers to hurl at.

Wid Matthews, sent to Sacramento on option in a deal which gave the Senators Earl McNeely, is returning to the Nats as a utility outfielder. So it looks like the best things the Senators have comprise fielding ability, and lots of it, so that the old hoodoo can knock and knock and not get on base.

In conclusion, Manager "Bucky" Harris said that he "only wanted each of the veteran pitchers to win 10 games in 1925." Well, if "Bucky" gets his Christmas wish, that's 30 games. But it will take three times 30 to land first place, and likely more.

Sock your rent money on Washington to finish in first division. Get all the odds you can and take all bets from buddies that figure they will repeat on top. It can be done, but so can the eclipse, and we must have some sleep.

See you on the Sabbath.

MUNN DROPS LEGAL BOUT

Independence, Mo., January 27.—Wayne (Big) Munn, who recently defeated Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion, lost his first legal bout with Lewis today when Circuit Judge W. P. Hall declined to issue a temporary restraining order against Lewis. Munn charges that Lewis had interfered with his wrestling contracts, had slandered his title as champion and had adopted a policy of threats and intimidations. He asked a temporary restraining order pending application for an injunction.

Judge Hall explained that his refusal was not absolute and asked Munn and his manager to show some authority for their action. The court advised Munn to bring a damage suit based upon a specific act of interference and slander.

MASCART KEEPS BOXING CROWN

Paris, January 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Edouard Mascart retained the featherweight championship of Europe tonight by knocking out Danny Frush in the second round of what was to have been a 15-round bout.

The end came after one minute and 20 seconds of battling in the second round. The victory of Mascart is considered as giving him the right to challenge Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn., for the world featherweight title.

DOUBLE BILL SPLIT AT FORT

The G. M. A. faculty basketball team won an interesting basketball game from the 22nd Infantry officers last night on the Fort McPherson court by a 28 to 21 score in the first game of a double-header attraction arranged for the soldiers. The 22nd Infantry team then evened up matters for the soldiers by winning the last game from the T. N. T. team by a 41 to 16 score in a loosely played game.

Captain Morrow, who led the G. M. A. team, was the center of the cadet faculty passing system, but McPhadden and McGhee shared equal honors with Morrow in the scoring line. Hatcher played a great guarding game for G. M. A. while Sale was advancing the ball up the court.

Lineup and Summary.

G. M. A. (28)	Pos.	INF (21)
McPhadden (8)	r.f.	(11) Traywick
McGhee (8)	l.f.	Purcell
Morrow (8)	c.	(7) Bolling
Sale (1)	r.g.	(1) Fortier
Hatcher (3)	l.g.	(2) Saddarans

Referee, Brandes. Substitutions, none.

Infantry Rushes.

The Infantry team started off with a rush and doubled the score of the T. N. T. team during the first half. Captain Grant, of the Infantry team, was easily the star of the game with 19 points to his credit. He was right last night and every time he turned the ball loose in the direction of the baskets the scorers were ready to score two more points. Some of his shots were from close range and others from almost the center of the court, making his work all the more praiseworthy.

The T. N. T. team seemed totally blind when it came to locating the baskets, and the blackboard was completely missed more times than it was hit.

Lineup and Summary.

T. N. T. (16)	Pos.	INF. (41)
Tasker (5)	r.f.	(10) Tedasco
Strain (8)	l.f.	(19) Grant
T. Nichols (2)	c.	(10) Morris
O'Connor	r.g.	(2) Riska
J. Nichols (1)	l.g.	Steele

Referee, Brandes. Substitutions: T. N. T., Shue for J. Nichols. Score at end of half: Infantry 22, T. N. T. 11.

AUBURN PLAYS 2 CONTESTS THIS WEEK

Auburn, Ala., January 27.—(Special).—After a week off the Plainsmen basketball squad has turned into this week with a couple of floor contests booked for the Auburn campus. The first game will be played Wednesday night with Montgomery "Y" and the second contest of the week will be with the Mercer Bears, also on the campus.

While not so much is known about the strength of the "Y" outfit from Montgomery, it is understood that there appears a number of familiar names in basketball on the team roster. Clayton Hudson, former member of the University of Alabama varsity; Red Owens, member of the University of Georgia varsity of a few seasons ago; Wallace Hall, former member of the Auburn varsity, and others are to be seen in action against the Plainsmen.

The game Saturday night will furnish the Plainsmen, or any other outfit for that matter, all the opposition that is being looked for. The Mercer Bears, with only one man missing, Harmon, running guard, from their 1924 winners of the S. I. A. A. championship, are looking mighty good to repeat their high honor performance again this season. It is understood that they have recently made a northern expedition, playing teams representing the leading colleges of the country and making a very creditable showing in all their games.

Games last week that were arranged at the last minute with Springhill college, of Mobile, and the Pensacola Naval Air station were canceled on account of semester examinations at Auburn. The team went through with the usual workouts in getting in shape for the coming of the two outfits this week.

The probable lineup for the Montgomery "Y" game will be: B. McKinney and Evans or Ware, forwards; Hall or Long, center; W. McKinney and Gray, guards.

LARRY AVERA DEFEATS WALLACE

St. Petersburg, Fla., January 27.—(Special.)—Larry Avera junior welterweight champion of the south, easily outboxed and outfought Young Wallace, of New Orleans, in an exciting ten-round bout here tonight. The Atlanta battler carried the fight to his heavier opponent the entire distance. At times the mixing was so furious that the spectators were standing on the chairs and cheering both boys. Avera showed entirely too much speed for Wallace.

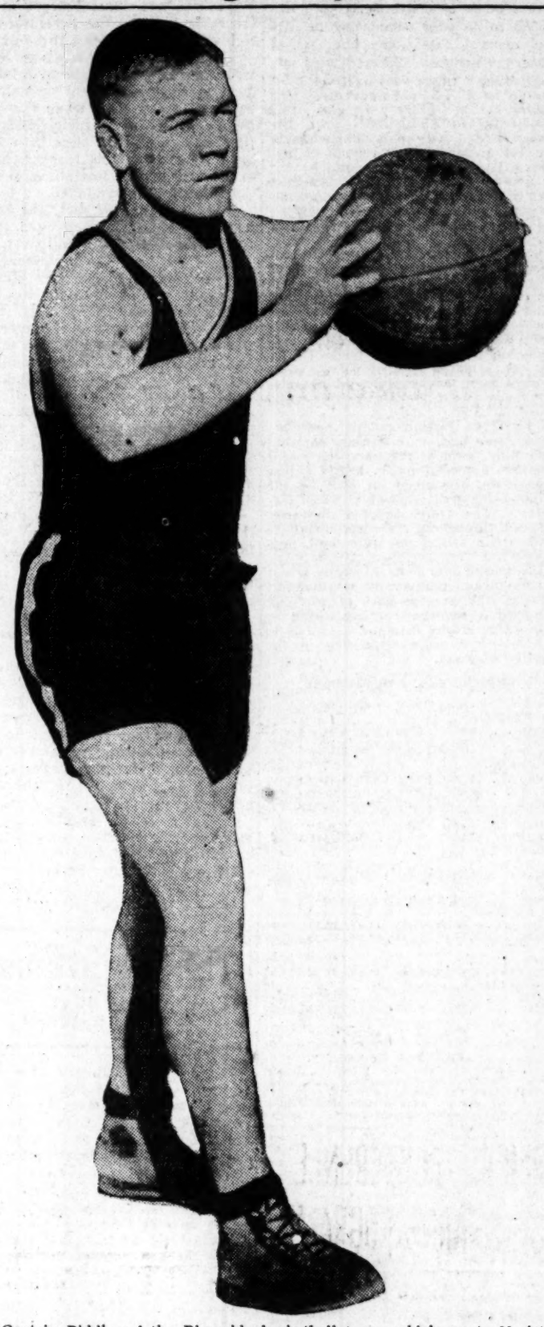

SEVEN YANKS SIGN CONTRACTS

New York, January 27.—Seven more members of the New York Yankees have signed for 1925, according to an announcement today by Edward G. Barrow, business manager of the club.

Miller Huggins, mite manager, who will arrive here Friday, forwarded the signed contract of Steve O'Neill, catcher, obtained by the Yankees from the Boston Red Sox.

Two other veterans now in the field are Aaron Ward, second baseman, and Fred Hoffmann, catcher. Other signed contracts returned include those of Osborn Gardner, left-handed pitcher of the University of Washington; Joseph E. Malley, right-handed pitcher obtained from the Richmond club of the Virginia league; Martin Autrey, catcher, and Henry Cullop, pitcher, last season with the Omaha club of the Western league.

Outstanding Prep Athlete

Captain Riddle, of the Riverside basketball team, which meets Marist tonight at Gainesville, is one of the best prep athletes in the state. He is a four-letter man, a star end in football, a star guard in basketball, a brilliant catcher and a track man of very high calibre. Riddle has been an outstanding athlete of the G. I. A. A. for several years, and his work against Marist tonight will be watched closely.

Jewish Progressives Win Fast Game From Macon

BY C. G. SHINAS.

The Jewish Progressive club basketball team entertained the boys from the Macon Young Men's Christian association here last night, showing them the way it's done in Atlanta by setting a fast and furious pace to win by the one-sided score of 39 to 17. Incidentally, each of the last three quintets to meet defeat at the hands of the Progressives negotiated the hoops for just 17 points.

The action was exceedingly fast throughout the entire game. As is to be expected in a game where the going is speedy and the guarding fierce and close, many personal fouls were committed by both teams. No less than four men of the ten playing finished the game with three fouls each and three others had two apiece. Yet the foul shooting was way below form, the visitors shooting but one out of eight free throws, while the locals did somewhat better with five good ones in ten tries.

Finkelstein enacted his usual role of being high point man for both teams, with seventeen markers to his credit, consisting of eight field goals and one free shot. His best work was accomplished in the first half when he sank five field goals notwithstanding some mighty tenacious guarding by Hall and later by Miller, who relieved him. Joe was halted for a while in the early part of the second period only to break out again with renewed intensity as the game entered into its final stage and was on the way to more baskets when the concluding whistle announced that his work for the night was over.

Spielberger Passes Well.

Spielberger, the flashy captain of the clubbers, played a jam-up game, being here, there and everywhere like the all-around performer that he is. He contributed 7 points, all three of his field goals being of the spectacular variety, the kind that registers heavily with the cash customers. It was his snappy passing that was responsible for getting the ball down the floor in short order, there to be fed to the eagerly waiting Finkelstein, the boy with the eagle eyes and steady hands, who rarely failed to complete the job.

Dorfan, at center, played his usual hard game, breaking up on many occasions incipient "Y" rallies.

Both Siegel and Rosenberg rose to new heights in turning out a wonderful exhibition of clever guarding, and to them is due considerable credit for holding the speedy Maconites to so small a score.

Close Guarding Aids.

Talbird, Pellew and Fuss performed best for the visitors, although the work of Hall, Miller and Dicks was also of a creditable nature. The Central City lads have a mighty fast team, one that is not only good on defense but also capable of some snappy passwork and proficient shooting. Were it not for the exceptionally good guarding of the Bean boys, their score would have assumed more respectable proportions.

The J. P. C.'s led at the end of the half by the score of 18 to 9, winding up strong in the final period, garnering 21 counters as compared with 8 for the losers.

Lineup and Summary:

Macon Y (17)	Pos.	J. P. C. (39)
Fuss (4)	r.f.	(17) Finkelstein
Pellew (4)	l.f.	(7) Spielberger
Terry (4)	c.	(6) Dorfan
Talbird (5)	r.g.	(4) Siegel
Hall	l.g.	(5) Rosenberg

Field goals—J. P. C.: Finkelstein 8; Spielberger 3; Dorfan 3; Siegel 1; Rosenberg 2. Macon "Y:" Fuss 2; Dicks 1; Pelew 2; Talbird 2; Hall 1.

Foul goals—J. P. C.: Finkelstein (1 out of 2); Spielberger (1 out of 2); Siegel (2 out of 3); Rosenberg (1 out of 2). Macon "Y:" Dicks (0 out of 1); Terry (0 out of 2); Talbird (1 out of 2); Hall (0 out of 1); Miller (0 out of 2).

Substitutions—Macon "Y:" Dicks for Fuss; Fuss for Dicks; Miller for Hall; Hall for Miller; Miller for Hall; Dicks for Fuss.

COLD WEATHER HALTS TRIALS

Grand Junction, Tenn., January 27. Old King Winter caused a sudden suspension in the running in the derby of the central states field trials, and from present indications the stake may not be continued for several days.

There are 32 starters in the central states derby, and it is said the field is a level one, though until dogs actually run their first series heats, no one can determine what their relative capabilities are.

In this field of 32 are nine pointers, two Irish setters and 21 English setters. Many of the dogs are still unknown propositions because they have never been seen in any of the derbies of the big circuit.

TIGER TO FIGHT ROBSON TONIGHT

Boston, Mass., January 27.—(Special.)—The Tiger Flowers-Tommy Robson fight that was scheduled for Tuesday night was postponed until Wednesday night because of a heavy snowstorm, according to an announcement made Tuesday night by the Commercial Athletic club.

ATLANTA GOLFER DEFEATS BENNY

Miami, Fla., January 27.—(Special.)—J. W. West, of Atlanta, playing in the first division of the Glen Courtiss trophy tournament here today, defeated B. A. Benny, of Nashville, by a margin of 3 and 2. R. W. Gill, of Atlanta, lost his match in the first division to C. A. Roberts, of New York, who played excellent golf, shooting a 72 and defeating the southerner by a margin of 5 and 4.

GIRLS FORFEIT EPWORTH GAME

BY GORDON KEITH.

Much of the customary interest was lacking in the Epworth league tilts at Wesley Memorial Tuesday night, explained by the fact that the only girls' game on the card was forfeited, but the two games that were played produced in one instance some good basketball and in the other a close battle.

St. John's was in the best form of the season to run rough shod over the strong Druid Hills quintet 27-9 in the opening game. Trinity girls forfeited to Grace girls in the second meeting of the schedule, and First Methodist won a heated 20-15 argument from Kirkwood. The teams in the first game are members of the State league, the girls' game was between Amazon league entries, and the final battle was an Atlanta league dispute.

Flasher and Cordell, the two St. John's guards, played a brilliant game and held the Druid Hills club scoreless during the entire first half, the count being 16-0 at the end of the first period. D. Brewer was the scoring star, ringing up 14 points. Druid Hills played a hard game but was just a bit off form.

Lineup and Summary.

ST. J. (27)	Pos.	D. H. (9)
Bryant (2)	r.f.	Forrester
Brewer (14)	l.f.	(3) J. Smith
Johnston (5)	c.	Will
Flasher	r.g.	(6) Mahone
Cordell (2)	l.g.	Norton

Substitutions: St. John, Gibson (2) for Cordell, Bryant for Gibson; Druid Hills, Hall for Will, Will for Forrester.

Referee, Glassman.

Methodists Rally.

First Methodist snapped out of its tie for the cellar by defeating the Kirkwood quintet 20-15 after trailing 11-10 at the half. The team played good ball in the second half, passing in fair form and keeping possession of the ball most of the time. The trouble with the losing team was its inability to shoot, several easy chances being missed. Hammack and Rose played best for the winners, while Coffee and Parr starred for Kirkwood.

Lineup and Summary.

F. M. (20)	Pos.	KIRK. (15)
Keith (8)	r.f.	(3) Wilson
Hammack (6)	l.f.	(2) Templeman
Rose (4)	c.	(6) Parr

SIX CONTESTS PLAYED AT Y.M.C.A.

BY ROY E. WHITE.

Teamwork with plenty of good passing was the shining light in every game played on the Y. M. C. A. court in the Sunday school schedule last night. In every game the scoring was well divided among all of the players, which is another proof that with each week the Sunday school basketball is getting better and better. Calvary defeated Central Presbyterian, 19 to 13, in the feature game that required two extra periods to decide a winner, and Druid Hills Presbyterian defeated St. Paul, 15 to 12. Gordon Street Presbyterian won from North Avenue Presbyterian, 22 to 8. Jackson Hill won from Druid Hills, 22 to 11. Pep class defeated Piedmont 28 to 19, and the Triple E class defeated Central Baptist, 21 to 12, in the other games played in the Sunday School league last night.

Staging a great rally that netted 7 points in the second extra period of the game, Calvary defeated Central Presbyterian, 19 to 13, in the first game of the season that required two extra periods to decide a winner.

When time was called at the end of the regular playing time the score was tied with 12 points each. Five minutes were given for an extra period and when that period was over the score was still tied with 12 points each, but in the second extra five minutes the Calvary team began a passing attack that won one of the best games that has been played on the "Y" court this season.

Frigerio Walks Three Miles To Victory Making Debut; Ritola Eclipses Record

Madison Square Garden, New York, January 27.—(By the Associated Press.—Paavo Nurmi demonstrated his ability tonight to vanquish America's greatest runners over any distance he chooses when he raced the heart out of Joie Ray and three other stars in world's record time in a spectacular three-quarter event featuring the first half of the two-night Millrose A. A. track and field carnival.

Flashing a dazzling sprint to cover the last lap that seemed to leave his opponents standing still, the phantom Finn, glancing back over his shoulder, broke the tape 10 yards in front of Ray, with Jimmy Connelly, Lloyd Hahn and Leo Larrive, fighting gamely but badly beaten, trailing in that order.

Nurmi, whose time of 3:03 4-5, represented his thirteenth world's record performance in eight races, supplied the greatest thrill of one of the most sensational meets ever held in New York, but he again was pressed for chief laurels by his sturdy countryman, Willie Ritola, who hung up four world's indoor marks in a three-mile race in which he lapped Verne Booth, former Johns Hopkins star, and a half-dozen other opponents.

Ritola Eclipses Records.

Ritola eclipsed four of the five records he put on the books only three days ago, in the Brooklyn college games. His new marks and former records were: Two and one-quarter miles, 10:33 2-5, former marx, 10:36; two and one-half miles, 11:45 4-5, former mark, 11:48; two and three-quarter miles, 12:57 4-5, former mark, 13:01; three miles, 14:04; former mark, 14:11 3-4.

Altogether six world's indoor marks were toppled in a startling exhibition of speed and stamania, Harold M. Osborn, famous all-around star of the Illinois Athletic club, hanging up the other mark when he leaped to a new high-jump record of 6 feet, 6 1-4 inches. Osborn broke the old record by an inch, defeating, among others, LeRoy Brown, of the Colorado School of Mines, who had held the former record jointly with R. W. Landon, New York Athletic club.

These performances thrilled the crowd of 12,000 that jammed the Garden but the hero of the night, in point of popular fancy, was Ugo Frigerio, little Italian walking ace, who holds the Olympic championship.

Frigerio Walks to Win.

Making his American debut, Frigerio, a lithe, colorful personality, who stirred the crowd to unusual enthusiasm, walked easily to victory in a three-mile race in which he conceded handicaps up to 30 seconds to his opponents.

The Italian's triumph established him not only a favorite with the crowd but gained him strong backing for his first big test tomorrow night in the closing half of the Millrose program, when he faces George Goulding, Canadian veteran and Olympic champion of 1912, who is trying a comeback, and Willie Plant, American star.

Goulding, in a two-mile handicap race tonight, found time allowance and a couple of bad spills on slippery turns, too much to overcome and finished second to Charles E. Schenbach, of the Pastime A. C., New York, who had a 30 second start on the Canadian.

Columbus Fight To Be Step Towards Strib's Great Goal

Columbus, Ga., January 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—When W. L. (Young) Stribling steps into the squared ring with Joe Burke, Detroit pugilist with quite a record, at Columbus on February 2, for a ten round decision bout, he will make his debut as a heavyweight, according to Major John Paul Jones, athletic director of the Charles S. Harrison post of the American Legion, sponsoring the card. Stribling is expected to weigh in at 177 pounds.

With the crown of light-heavyweight champion of the south having long rested on his head, Stribling is expected to be in the best of shape with the expectancy of scoring the decision over his hard-hitting opponent, according to "Pa" Stribling, his father-manager, who says there is a good chance of a "knock-out."

In the event that Stribling is the victor over Burke, it is understood that he will then begin in earnest his shaping up for the greatest title to be bestowed—that now belonging to Jack Dempsey. And it was just about three years ago that "Pa" announced that in 1925 Stribling would be "ready" for Dempsey. But even the most ardent of his supporters agree that it will take several more ring engagements and much training for the Georgia champion to face Dempsey.

Has Met Leaders.

In Burke Stribling faces a fighter who has met some of the outstanding leaders of the four-cornered ring, it is said, and one who will bear watching from the sound of the gong. The record of Burke shows knock-out victories over "Wild" Bill Reed, Jack Doyle, Bill Campbell, Tommy Madden, and Shamac O'Brien. He likewise has won decisions over Captain Bob Roper, Bob Martin, Joe Lohman and Homer Smith, all of whom are considered worthy opponents in the heavyweight division. It took Luis Firpo seven rounds before he landed on Burke for the count.

It is expected that one of the largest audiences that has ever witnessed the youthful Georgian in action, will be on hand when the gong is sounded for the opening round here on the evening of February 2, according to Major Jones who has handled practically all of the match-making for Stribling in this city which the Legion sponsored. Columbus has always drawn a good audience when Stribling has appeared in the ring, fans coming from all parts of the state on these occasions.

Plans Are Complete.

Practically all arrangements have been made by Legion officials for the staging of the bout. It is believed by Major Jones that the Stribling-Burke card will be the biggest affair staged since the memorable occasion when Mike McTigue made his bow in this city in 1922.

The semi-finals also are to be seasoned with quite a bit of hard slugging, according to the major, who says that "Soldier" Brown, recently returned from China, and now stationed at Fort Benning, near here, will meet Billy McGowan, Atlanta youth, and a sparring partner of Stribling. Several other engagements will make up the semi-finals, it is said.

GEORGIA RATS MEET TECH HIGH

BY GORDON KEITH.

Tech High has undertaken a man-sized job for the last of the week, the management having scheduled a game with the formidable Georgia freshman basket squad for Friday—the day after the Smithies encounter their bitterest enemy and worthiest of foes, Boys' High—on the Tech High court at 3 o'clock, and with the appearance of this game on the card another great battle is to be fought in prep circles. Tech High had an undefeated record until Saturday when the vaunted Lanier five managed to snatch a last-minute decision after two extra periods, and the Smithie five is out to regain any lost prestige this week.

But from the looks of the opposition Coach Tolbert's five is to face, the team will be considered a veritable world-beater if it can manage to come through both battles unscathed. The dope, of course, is very much against them.

Game Arranged Tuesday.

The Georgia game was arranged Tuesday, and although it is going to be mighty hard to put their full strength on the floor on successive days, the Tech High squad has been laboring long and hard and their coach will have them in the best condition possible under the circumstances.

Luke Woodall, last year mainstay on the Tech High varsity at forward, is a freshman bright light on the Georgia squad this winter, and the meeting with old feammates should not hurt the game any. Broadnax and Freeman, old Bluebird stars, are on the rat quintet too, and these players most likely have not forgotten their last year struggles with the Gold and Purple any more than the Smithie players have forgotten the general havoc these two men worked at the state tourney in Griffin. This is one game everybody is in favor of seeing.

NOTED COACHES CLASH TONIGHT

Gainesville, Ga., January 27.—(Special.)—One of the biggest crowds of the season is expected to see the Riverside-Marist college basketball game here tomorrow night in Riverside's big new gym. Coach Joe Bean is bringing a large squad of very fine basketball players to engage the Mooney-coached five, and the fans here are planning to flock to the game.

Bean and Mooney are reputed the two best basketball coaches in the south, and their teams always are rated at the very top of the heap.

GRAND JURY ACTION SOUGHT

New York, January 27.—The district attorney's investigation into the Dolan-O'Connell bribery scandal was continued today when Horace Ford, second baseman of the Philadelphia Nationals, was questioned as to his knowledge of the $500 bribe offered to Heinie Sand, Philadelphia shortstop, by Jimmie O'Connell, New York outfielder, in a game here near the close of last season.

Ford, it was understood, told Assistant District Attorney Brothers that his first knowledge of the affair came when Sand took him into his confidence after the game.

According to the testimony taken before Commissioner Landis, Ford advised Sand to "use his own judgment." Subsequently Sand related his story to Arthur Fletcher, manager of the Phillies.

The examination of Ford followed interrogation yesterday of two other figures in the scandal, Frank Frisch, captain of the Giants, and Sand.

Others will be interviewed during the next few days in an effort to uncover any basis for grand jury action and indictments. Fletcher was to have come here next Friday but his hearing has been postponed until Monday. John Couch, Philadelphia pitcher, and George Kelly, Giant first baseman, will arrive the latter part of the week.

Dolan, now at his home in Oshkosh, Wis., and O'Connell, located in Sacramento, Cal., who have been banished from baseball for their alleged part in the scandal, have been asked to come here as early as possible to go over their stories once more.

New York, January 27.—Irregularity featured early trading in the cotton market today, with May contracts selling off to 23.43, or 14 points net lower. Increased activity and strength followed, however, with an advance of fully 30 points from the lowest, May rising to 23.75. The general market closed steady at a net advance of 11 to 14 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 6 to 13 points. The selling which carried active positions from 13 to 15 points lower was due to cables reporting that the Manchester Master Spinners' federation had decided to ballot members using American cotton, on a proposal to reduce working time by 4 1-4 hours per week, from February 16, the result of the ballot to be announced on February 10.

With spot houses, Wall street and the west offering cotton rather freely and unfavorable reports from domestic goods markets, the undertone of the futures market continued heavy until the decline was checked toward midday by support from mill interests together with covering by local shorts on the rather liberal exports. Steady advances from this level were recorded throughout the afternoon in sympathy with strength in grains and a rally in stocks, part of the demand being credited to speculative interests now in Florida. It was said in the afternoon dispatches that larger spot sales had been made in the St. Louis district than in any week this season and that the demand was coming in from all sources. Other sections of the belt denied there had been any heaviness of spot quotations or that offerings had been increased as a result of the recent downward tendency of futures and poor trade reports. On the contrary, demand was said to be still satisfactory in the south, especially for the longer staple.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.

BETTER TONE AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, January 27.—The cotton market developed a better tone today and despite a slightly easier opening showing a loss of 13 points on May the market gradually advanced until at the high point of the day that month was 32 points above the early low and 18 points above the close of yesterday. The close was not much below the best, May showing a gain of 12 points and March as much as 19 points.

At the start as Liverpool was lower than due, first trades showed losses of 9 to 13 points. The opening figures were the lows of the day, March trading at 23.10, May 23.36 and October 23.30. The decline was checked by bad weather in the belt and prices soon began to advance on reports of a good spot demand in the local market. The market remained on the upgrade practically all day following the brief period of early weakness and at the top, March traded at 23.41, May 23.68 and October 23.53, or 21 to 32 points above the lows. The close was near the top on some months and actually at the top on others and showed net gains for the day of 12 to 19 points.

The main stimulating factor of the day's session was the reported good demand for spots in the local market at a higher basis. Even short staple cotton which has been neglected for some time was in request. The sales totaled 5,571 bales, the largest sales here in a long while. Another influence contributing to the firmer tone was the unfavorable weather in the belt which is further delaying crop preparations.

The main cause of the initial decline was a cable from Liverpool announcing that the Master Spinners' Federation had resolved to ask mills using American cotton to vote on the advisability of reducing working hours per week from 39 1-4 to 35 hours beginning February 16. Reports of depression among woolen mills was also a contributing cause to the early dip.

News, Views And Reviews

Stock Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, January 27.—Active demand for oil shares continued to shadow all other developments, particularly in the late afternoon. Pacific Oil was one of the outstanding features, surging into new high ground at 62¼. Sinclair common, at 21, and the preferred at 90, were also well taken. Pan American "B" closed at 68½ and the entire group including Texas Company and many other issues were very strong in the final dealings. The one exception was Simms Pete, which was one of the weak spots owing to the fact that this company has large interests in the Wortham Oil field in Texas which is showing a sharp drop in production. A reassuring statement regarding the safety of the dividend of American Wool preferred, caused a sharp rally in the senior shares and the strength was communicated to the common, which rebounded quickly to 53, as compared with the low price of 49¼ for yesterday. Various earning statements were also published and for the most part these were of a favorable nature. Call-money on the outside market renewed as low as 3½ per cent. The strength in wheat was also of fair importance, the May option selling as high as 199¾. Among the industrial specialties, Foundation Company was a tower of strength, moving up more than 2 points to 103¾. U. S. Steel hung around 127 during the final hour. The close was somewhat irregular, with gains fairly evenly distributed.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, January 27.—For the greater part of the afternoon stocks showed little tendency one way or the other. In the last half-hour shorts began remembering that steel has fooled the street before, and while they did not expect anything from the steel meeting other than the regular dividend, they covered some stocks. This covering, together with some fresh buying in some of the oil stocks resulted in quite a strong closing market. A story that preferred American Woolen dividend was considered safe by some of the directors caused some covering in this stock and a rebound to 53. Pacific Oil was the feature, however, advancing on fresh buying to 62¼. Pan-American was another feature, reaching 68½ for the "B" stock. Total sales, 1,363,500.

POST & FLAGG.

New York, January 27.—The market, while steady on scattered shorts, covering and a moderate trade demand to fix prices has at all times looked as if a resumption of aggressive tactics by sellers would break it again without encountering any serious opposition until new lows were reached. There is a marked lack of confidence in the long side on the part of speculative interests, though it is worth noting that some members of the trade itself, who have recently been bearish because of the larger crop figures, are now reported as of the opinion that bearish features have been well discounted and expecting a steadier tone making conservative purchases advisable. The results of the ballot on short time in Lancashire will not be known until February 10, but some find it difficult to reconcile the large forwardings to the trade there with reports of any serious falling off in business prospects. Exports continue on the top side and, while advices as to the spot demand are somewhat conflicting, there is nothing in them to indicate that holders are becoming discouraged or anxious with a disposition to press cotton for sale. It is obviously not the time to relay confidently on extended advances, but a large speculative short interests has accumulated and the relative firmness of new-crop months suggests a degree of doubt already as to a really adequate supply next season. If this is strengthened by early new-crop advices as to acreage, weevil or season in the soil the present complexion of the market would undergo a quick change.

FENNER & BEANE.

New Orleans, January 27.—Cotton slipped a few points at the start today but had a good rally in the afternoon when early sellers tried to cover, and closed with a gain of 15 to 20 points. The early selling was based on recommendation of a reduction of four hours a week in working time by the English Master Spinners' federation and reports of rains and snow in Texas. The official record only showed light rainfall in the east and south and the snow in the north was light. Reports of good spot demand from many parts of the belt and trade buying on the dips checked the selling in the afternoon and induced the covering that caused the rally. Professional opinions still lean largely to the selling side.

C. P. ELLIS & CO.

New Orleans, La., January 27.—The market is in a deadlock; large certificated stocks and the absolute apathy of speculation deters buyers. Huge exports and increasing domestic consumption on the other hand restrains sellers. Unless or until some radical change takes place in the situation, therefore, we hardly expect much change until the inspiration is furnished by developments in regard to the new crop.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

New York, January 27.—Cotton closed steady at the day's best prices. There is a considerably better feeling in the market. The trade is prone to be awed by forebodings on the part of British spinners and when they try to cast a shadow of gloom through threat of curtailment in spinning time it is usually accepted as ominous of direful situation and the feeling that the price of cotton necessarily must decline. Such a cloud hanging over the market for several days seems dispelled through today's news item indicating that a vote on short-time reducing spinning per week by only 4¼ hours is being taken, but the results will not be made known until February 10. From the time this information reached the market, demand has been on the upgrade. It is conspicuous that the market has on several occasions this month approximated 23.05. For March contracts and other months, somewhat in proportion, yet stubborn resistance being met on each such recession would seem to indicate that such a figure is rock-bottom, for cotton under presently known circumstances. It seems now that the market will trade in higher ground with scalping operations probably dominant, but purchases for a further runup seem advisable at current prices. March, Liverpool, due 12.54.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, January 27.—Cables this morning were lower than due, but spot sales increased to 8,000 bales. It is understood that the masters federation in Manchester will take a ballot on a proposition to reduce their working hours from 39 to 35¼ hours a week. The result of this ballot will not be known for some seven days or more. Our market was lower at the opening in response to cables but met covering by some local sellers and the usual buying on the scale down from the trade. New Orleans was stronger and in the afternoon buying from that market brought about a small advance in our quotations. The cold wave appears to be passing off in Texas, without leaving any moisture of moment, although snow is reported in Oklahoma, and in Arkansas. Predictions of a clearing weather in the western belt and the fact that once again Texas has not received anticipated rainfall tended to strengthen prices here. The local sentiment is still bearish, although the failure of any general selling movement to appear as a result of last Friday's break, has lead to somewhat less confidence on the part of local traders. Liverpool futures are due tomorrow: March 12.56; May 12.67.

H. & B. BEER.

New Orleans, January 27.—(A. V. Curran & Co., Correspondents.)—Some people are of the opinion that the price of cotton is high enough, some think too high considering the ample supply available for this season, but the trade is looking ahead, for, while it is satisfied that there is an ample supply for this season, it realizes that there is no assurance for the making of another good crop this year for next season's requirements. Aside from the lack of rainfall in Texas, the price of grain continues to advance, and the higher it goes the greater is the probability of a reduction in this year's cotton acreage, as the south has to feed itself as well as grow cotton to help clothe the world. Furthermore, weevil may be more numerous and active this year than they were last year, when the protracted drouth held them in check. This feature of the situation is reflected in the firmness and price of new-crop deliveries.

Dry Goods.

New York, January 27.—Cotton goods were steady today with trade light on sheetings and convertibles. Some print cloths were bought for February-March deliveries. The demand for ginghams improved. Raw silk was unchanged. Activity in silk goods continued, crepes being sold well. Knit goods were more active. Lines of men's wear of the American Woolen Company will be priced for fall on Wednesday, Feburuary 4, and other lines will follow. Cable dispatches stated that the Lyons, France, Chamber of Commerce would not approve the name "Rayon," as applied to artificial silk. English spinners using American cotton are to ballot on the question of running short time.

Wave of Buying Sends Wheat Close to $2 Mark

TONE REACTIONARY IN CURB MARKET

New York, January 27.—Confused price movements took place in today's curb market, the oil shares displaying considerable irregularity and the general list showing pronounced reactionary tendencies.

Announcement of the third gasoline price advance within the last two weeks brought fresh buying into Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania, Prairie Oil and Gas and Vacuum, which closed one to two points higher. Cities Service common rallied three points on reports that the stock will be split up on a five to one basis. South Penn oil broke six points to 187 1-2. Prairie Pipe yielded 3 3-4 to 120 1-4 and Southern Pipe line dropped 7 1-2 to 100 1-2, most of the liquidation in these issues representing profit-taking.

Radio shares were reactionary. Freed Eisemann, Thermiodyne, Ware and Music Master fell back a point or two and most of the others yielded fractionally.

Public utilities also lost ground. Commonwealth Power fell 2 1-4 points to 118 and American Light and Traction common and the Lehigh Power Securities each closed a point lower.

Weak spots in the industrial list included Grand Stores, Atlantic Fruit and Cudahy Packing, off one to three points.

WITNESSES AGREE IN HERRIN INQUEST

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Herrin, Ill., January 26.—Declaring that nothing but personal religion can save Herrin, the Rev. John Meeker Presbyterian minister, late today said the last rites over Deputy Sheriff Ora Thomas, two-gun leader of the anti-klan forces in the county, while the coroner's jury took up the task of unraveling Saturday night's shooting which claimed the lives of Thomas, S. Glenn Young and two others.

All of the 11 witnesses before the jury gave testimony which tended to support the version of the shooting related by Young's friends.

These witnesses, who saw the shooting, asserted that Thomas fired first and that it was his bullet that killed Young. Another testified that Thomas earlier in the day "appeared to have been drinking," and that he was seen with a number of strangers in several places.

The witnesses who were outside of the hotel at the time testified that at least three shots were fired by persons outside of the hotel and that shots came from the upper windows of the hotel and from the direction of City Judge Bowen's office across the street.

The mysterious shot heard on the main street of the town and supposed to have been fired at Ross Lisenby, a policeman, was in reality fired by Lisenby himself, witnesses indicated, although none could testify that they actually saw the shot.

Thomas Killed Young.

All of the witnesses who saw the shooting agreed that Thomas killed Young, while several added that Young killed Thomas after himself receiving a fatal wound. Opinions differed as to who killed Ed Forbes and all denied any knowledge of who killed Homer Warren, but all agreed he must have been killed by bullets fired from the outside.

Meanwhile several thousand mourners gathered at the Thomas home for the funeral ceremonies. The house was so small it could accommodate only a few of the miners, business men, women and other friends.

Services were held from the front porch of the residence, the crowd standing in the snow, as far back as the opposite side of the street.

Floral decorations were received in such great volume that they were placed in the snow across the front of the house. Wreaths or some other floral remembrances were received from local mine unions in all sections of Illinois and many were received from the lodge to which the slain deputy belonged. Mr. Meeker did not deliver a eulogy of Thomas but dwelt on the question of peace in the county.

"We all know that the man whom we are honoring was not a churchman," he said. "It is not of him I would speak. He is in the hands of God. I am not here as a Presbyterian minister. I am here as a minister of God.

"I know that people cannot live right without religion. We must have religion and a personal faith in God before we can live right and be truly neighborly.

"If these dead men could return today they would say, 'Have faith in God. Protect and make sacred the home life of your community: Criticize your own faults and let your neighbor take care of his own.'

After a hymn the body was brought out of the house and the casket placed on the front walk. Mrs. Thomas was under the care of a physician, having been prostrated by her grief, but she came to the front porch with her family while members of the local union, to which Thomas belonged, filed past for a last look at him.

Chicago, January 27.—Successive waves of speculative buying forced the wheat market today up to within 1-4 cent of $2.00 a bushel, May delivery, a new high price record. Fresh indications of world demand for wheat available to be delivered at once had much to do with stimulating to such an unusual extent the purchase of future contracts. Wheat closed unsettled at a range varying from 1 5-8 lower to 2 7-8 net advance, May $1.99 1-8 to $1.99 1-4 and July $1.70 1-2 to $1.70 5-8. Corn finished 1-2 to 3-4 up, oats unchanged to 1-4 higher and provisions at two cents lower to 17 cents gain.

News that European countries which generally are exporters had become importers excited widespread attention among wheat traders today, especially in view of almost simultaneous reports that growers in Argentina were holding their wheat back for higher prices. A big advance in quotations at Buenos Aires, Liverpool and Winnipeg tended further to emphasize the buying side of the market here and word that good export business had developed today in the United States. On the first of today's price bulges here, heavy profit-taking sales suddenly swept May back from $1.98 to $1.96 1-2.

Flood of buying orders, nevertheless, came back with a rush, notwithstanding frequent reactions the wheat market ascended until shortly before the close. The acme for at least the time being was reached at $1.99 3-4, May. The more deferred deliveries lagged throughout the day, owing to persistent selling of July and September.

Corn and oats were rallied by wheat strength and unfavorable weather but during the greater part of the day showed a tendency to sag owing to the large stocks in sight.

Provisions were responsive to the action of grain.

Grain Letter.

FENNER & BEANE.

Chicago, January 27.—Wheat: Report that Buenos Aires futures were three cents higher than the opening, strength at Winnipeg and eastern advices indicating widening of the export demand for all kinds of wheat, brought about short covering and new investment buying late in the session that carried prices into new high ground. July and September did not reflect in full the upturn in May. Receipts estimated at 48 cars. Cash premiums are advancing and the export inquiry broadening. We continue bullish and look to see the market materially higher.

Corn: Commission houses selling early ran into support and the market rallied later with wheat. It was apparent that selling had been overdone. Cash markets were relatively 3 cents higher to 3 cents lower. Weather conditions favorable and country offerings fair. Our advice from the country are to the effect that the break has shut off country offering. This may act as a stimulant to the market temporarily.

Oats: Moderate trade with local selling while scattered commission houses were buyers, prices held within a narrow range. Cash market firm. Weather conditions favorable for country movement. We believe oats are being neglected and that the trade will awaken to their relative cheapness before long.

Rye: Mixed trade with May advancing on lack of pressure, while July ran into selling and eased off. Cash rye nominally 8 cents under May. We continue bullish on rye and look to see it sell much higher.

Provisions: Commission houses were on both sides in a moderate way and prices held within a narrow range with a firm tone at the last. Hogs steady to 5 cents higher. Top, 11.00.

Daily Cotton Review

On the New York Cotton exchange today cotton prices opened from 6 to 13 points lower. March future contracts opened at 23.48, were 23.19 at 1 o'clock and closed at 23.40 compared with 23.20 yesterday and 33.22 a year ago. On the Liverpool Cotton association, March futures closed at 12.44d compared with 12.52d yesterday and 19.44d last year. March futures on the New Orleans Cotton exchange closed at 23.39, compared with 23.20 yesterday and 33.25 last year. On the Chicago board of trade March future contracts closed at 23.51 compared with 23.40 yesterday.

The average price of middling spot cotton in 10 designated markets today was 23.15 per pound compared with 33.22 on the same day last year. Middling spot cotton was quoted today in New Orleans at 23.40 per pound compared with 23.30 yesterday and 33.38 one year ago.

Spot sales today in the 10 designated markets amounted to about 16,000 bales, compared with 9,142 last year.

Exports today amounted to 49,426 bales.

H. Y. M'CORD LOSES BROTHER BY DEATH AT CRAWFORDVILLE

Crawfordville, Ga., Janaury 27.—(Special.)—Joseph W. McCord, 78, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed citizens of Taliaferro county, died at his home here about 8 o'clock Sunday night. He was at one time game warden of Fulton county with offices in the capitol and had a wide acquaintance in the state. His body was interred in Crawfordville cemetery at 5 o'clock Monday.

He is survived by seven children, Mrs. R. L. Taylor, Mrs. R. W. Golucke and Mrs. T. S. Hall; H. F. McCord, of Crawfordville; Mrs. Frank Granade, of Vidalia; Mrs. Milton Hollis and Mrs. John H. Stephens, of Atlanta, and one brother, H. Y. McCord, of Atlanta.

Exports from the United States during November amounted to $494,000,000 compared with imports of $296,000,000.

The Investor

Norfolk & Western Railway, Noted For Its Shrewdness in Picking Market Peaks, Now Offers a Block of Equipment Certificates at the Dearest Price in Years.

The Norfolk & Western Railway company has just marketed a $6,000,000 issue of 4 1-2 per cent equipment certificates at levels unusually attractive to the company. The certificates with a 1926 maturity sold on a 4 per cent yield basis, the 1927s at 4.40 per cent, the 1928s at 4.50 per cent, and the 1929-1935 maturities on a 4.65 per cent yield basis. No railroad equipment trust certificates have been offered at such a favorable level to the borrower—which is to say, at such a dear price to investors—in at least three or four years.

The Norfolk & Western Railway company seems to have an extraordinarily good sense of market values, judged by the periods it selects to float equipment trusts. Many railroads trust pretty largely to bankers to tell them when the time is ripe for the sale of an issue, but Norfolk & Western usually holds up an offering until it thinks the proper time has come, and then calls for competitive bids. Its judgment has been so good in this respect that many bankers look with a great deal of interest upon a Norfolk & Western offering, even if they are not participating in the syndicate.

As a matter of fact, the market in railroad equipment certificates had been virtually unchanged for several weeks, but less than a week ago became stronger, and it was then that the Norfolk issue appeared.

Equipment Trusts Now Dear.

Not only did Norfolk & Western bring out its equipment issue at an especially opportune time to take advantage of the general bulge in prices, but it was able to get a little better price than prevails for similar issues. The Norfolk & Western new 1929-1935 or longer term maturities were retailed, as has been said, at a price to yield only 4.65 per cent. Our best equipment trusts of other companies, even in the present market, do not command so high a value.

At present, for example, New York Central long-term 4 1-2s are quoted 4.85-4.70; that is, obligations are sought at levels to yield 4.85, but are offered at levels to yield 4.70. The offering price for Illinois Central 4 1-2s per cent certificates represents a yield of 4.70 per cent, as does also that for Pennsylvania railroad issues. Figuring in the same way, the standard 5s are on about a 4.75 per cent basis and the 7s on a 4.87 per cent basis.

Nothing has been said about the 6 per cent certificates. Most of these are "Director Generals," by which is meant they are the issues offered by the railroad administration during the period of government control. These are callable at 103, and for that reason sell lower than otherwise would be the case. In the present market they sell on something like a 5 per cent basis. Incidentally, the price paid by investors in many instances is three or four points above the redemption level.

Why the Issues Are So Popular.

Perhaps the best evidence of the high quality of equipment trusts is to be found in the level that they command marketwise. Investors who feel that the securities market has reached rather high levels, and who desire to preserve their principal amounts intact, are coming more and more to select railroad equipment trusts as the ideal investment for them. Being issued in serial form, the trusts enable an investor to pick maturities that will bring repayment of his funds at the time desired. The short-term maturities always are popular, of course, but in the present market, so houses report, the demand for short-term maturities far exceeds the supply.

Their unusual popularity at this time results from the ease in money rates and the belief of some large investors that bond prices can scarcely be expected to advance much more. That being the case, such investors conclude, funds may be kept in more liquid form through an investment in railroad equipment certificates than in the ordinary long-term bond.

The Day in Finance

BY R. L. BARNUM

St. Paul To Go Into Hands of Receiver Unless Company Is Able To Refund Bonds Falling Due.

New York, January 27.—Reports of a further drop in production of crude oil in the new Texas field enabled some oil shares to make new highs today. But the oil shares were the only ones to show any sustained strength. Steel common continued to dominate the stock market and uncertainty as to what the directors of Steel corporation would do at the quarterly meeting held after the close of the stock market was reflected throughout the entire stock list with the exceptions of the oils. At times during the day Steel common was heavily sold on widely circulated rumors that the quarterly statement of earnings would show the $1.75 quarterly dividend paid recently unearned and that only the regular quarterly $1.25 and 50 cents extra would be declared. At other times there was a recovery in Steel common on rumors that a 10 per cent stock dividend would certainly be declared.

Directors of the Steel corporation went into session promptly at 3 o'clock in the office of Chairman Gary, on the 17th floor of 71 Broadway, which overlooks Trinity church to the north and the Hudson river to the west. For 1923 the company earned $16.38 a share for its common stock. For the first quarter of 1924, $5.04 a share was earned for the common stock; for the second quarter, $3.44 a share; for the third quarter, $1.72, making $10.20 earned for the common stock for the first nine months. For the December quarter, $1.56 was earned for the common stock, making $11.76 earned in 1924 for the common shares, against $16.38 for 1923. Only the regular $1.25 dividend and the extra 30 cents paid three months ago was declared, much to the disappointment of Wall street.

Net earnings for the December quarter were $30,762,000 against $30,718,000 for the September quarter and $49,958,000 for the December, 1923, quarter. For October of 1924 net was $12,236,000; for November only $8,903,000 and for December $9,622,000. These earnings by months were smaller than had been expected by Wall street.

While today's steel corporation meeting was uppermost in all Wall street discussion, other important news was not lacking. Directors of the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke company met and passed the quarterly dividend of $1 a share. For years the company paid $8 dividends annually on its stock having a par value of $50. In 1923 a stock dividend of 40 per cent was declared, after which the annual dividend was reduced to $4. The company operating in the union wage field of Pennsylvania was not able last year to compete with others paying lower wages in the nonunion field. Every month last year the company reported a deficit after dividends.

Call money opened at 4 per cent this morning, but afterwards dropped to 3 1-2, yesterday's advance attracting funds from outside. For the rest of this week or until the month end requirements are met call money rates are expected to rule around today's figures. No change occurred in time money today despite announcements of further engagements of gold for export.

Missouri Pacific reports for 1924 a surplus equal to $9.04 a share on the 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock against 17 cents earned for 1923. The unpaid dividends on these shares at the end of 1924 amounted to $32.50 a share. Speculative Wall streets expects the company to place the preferred shares this year on a regular 5 per cent basis and pay something on the back dividends.

President Byram, of St. Paul, went on record today with the statement that unless the company is able to refund the $48,000,000 bonds falling due at the close of the first half of 1925 a receiver would be appointed.

Baltimore & Ohio did some fine work in adjusting its December expenses, according to today's earning statement for that month. Gross for the month was $18,215,000 against $17,075,000 for the corresponding period of 1923, but despite this increase in business net for December amounted to $2,929,000 against only $603,000 for the same month of the previous year. Apparently operating expenses in December of last year were cut to the bone to make the statement for the year show up as well as possible. For the year gross of $224,318,000 compares with $255,594,000 for 1923. Net of $38,184,000 compares with $12,133,000. The increase in December gross after the losses reported for previous months of the year is decidedly encouraging.

STATE EMPLOYEES STRIKE IN LONDON

BY CHARLES M. M'CANN.

London, January 27.—The British Empire has a strike on its hands. The strikers are mechanics and laborers ordinarily employed to stoke the fires, jigger the electric wires, run the elevators and sweep the floors in government buildings. Every such building in London is affected—Buckingham palace along with the others.

If King George and Queen Mary were not at their country place, at Sandringham, they would be duplicating the prodigious feats of stairclimbing enforced upon cabinet members, judges and other officials Tuesday.

In the various administrative department buildings, junior clerks, with the speckless bat-wing collars and ties without which no British junior clerk can make entries in his ledger or bow a visitor in, have been put to stoking furnaces. Lighting is unaffected, as the government purchases its power from private companies.

Hampton court, the imposing Thames-Ide palace, built by the mighty Cardinal Woolsey, suffers from the strike along with the British and Science museums, the mint, law courts, houses of parliament, government hospitals and Kew gardens.

The results of the strike at Kew may be disastrous. Under glass in one corner of the famous area there is one of the world's most valuable collections of plants and flowers. Unless the hot-house temperature can be maintained many of these specimens would be destroyed.

The employment of one non-union man by the office of public works precipitated the strike.

HARD SNOW BLIZZARD DRIFTS GOTHAM STREETS

New York, January 27.—Another hard snow storm blustered into New York today just as the street-cleaning department was removing the remnants of last week's fall. Blown by a 40-mile northwest wind, the snow whirled into drifts, causing delay to traffic.

The storm was general throughout the east. A sharp drop in temperature tomorrow was forecast.

BUTLER STREET "Y" TO MEET THURSDAY

The annual meeting of members of the Butler street branch of the Y. M. C. A. will be held Thursday night at 8 o'clock. The annual report will be made and the program for the coming year adopted. From 7 to 8 o'clock the senior Bible class will continue the course of study adopted some weeks ago.

Sentence Is Suspended.

Columbia, S. C., January 27.—Governor McLeod today announced he had suspended the sentence of Col. Anderson, eight-year-old boy, who was sentenced to three months' imprisonment in Lexington county last week following his conviction on a charge of grand larceny. The boy was accused of stealing a gold watch.

Total bond sales, par value, $13,033,000.

New York, January 27.—With bond trading marked by narrow and irregular price fluctuations, new financing today captured most of the interest in investment circles. An unusually satisfactory response to offerings of more than $60,000,000 so far this week was followed by the announcement of several important issues to be sold tomorrow and by preparations on the part of bankers to speed up pending negotiations.

Heading the list of tomorrow's offerings will be an issue of $16,092,000 Chicago and Western Indiana 37-year first and refunding 5 1-2s, which will be marketed by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. The bonds will be priced at 97 to yield slightly less than 5.70 per cent. Proceeds will be used to retire a 7 1-2 per cent loan floated in 1920 and to finance a construction program. Public offering will be made by Dillon, Read & Co. of over $10,000,000 Union Oil company of California, 10-year 5s at 96 to yield over 5 1-2 per cent.

Prompt over-subscription of $10,000,000 bond issues for the German General Electric company and the Siemen Electrical group of Germany, it was indicated, would influence further offerings by both German and French industries. New French financing, which has been held back during the recent debt discussions, is scheduled to appear in the market before long. Negotiations for approximately $75,000,000 French municipal, railway and industrial loans are pending. The Canadian National railways also is expected to market a $35,000,000 bond issue.

Price changes of listed bonds today were insignificant. Oil liens gave a fair demonstration of group strength, but others, industrial and rails issues, moved in irregular fashion.

DIPHTHERIA SCOURGE HITS ALASKAN CITY

Nome, Alaska, January 27.—Nome has a diphtheria epidemic and no anti toxin. The nearest known supply of anti-toxin is at Anchorage, 600 miles away, and must come by dog team. Several deaths have occurred.

There is only one physician here and new cases are appearing daily.

The United States public health service, in response to a request relayed by radio, cable and land telegraph, has ordered 1,000,000 antitoxin units dispatched from Seattle. This must come by way of Seward and the Alaskan railroad to Nenana, 400 miles away, and thence by dog team, a journey of 50 days.

Dan Sutherland, delegate in congress from Alaska, has sent word that he is trying to get an aeroplane to fly from Fairbanks, Alaska, and pick up the anti-toxin at Nenana. By this means it would take about a week to bring the life-saving agent from Seattle.

The one physician has already shown signs of overwork, and George Maynard, mayor of Nome, has appointed a special health board and engaged at public expense all the available nurses. The schools have been closed and Nome has been quarantined.

DAILY WEATHER BULLETIN PLAN ECONOMY VICTIM

Washington, January 27.—Government economy has stepped in to abolish one of the familiar landmarks in postoffices, general stores and other gathering places—the daily weather bulletin of the United States weather bureau.

The last one was mailed out Sunday, after 44 years of a thriving existence, the weather bureau announced today.

The budge bureau put its foot down on the oblong yellow cards. The cards, it was explained, have lost their popularity with the complete broadcasting of the weather every day by the radio, and publication of predictions in newspapers.

DAY'S SUMMARY.

Monday	121.38	101.68
Week ago	121.06	101.58

Total stock sales, 1,371,700.

New York, January 27.—Stock prices again displayed considerable irregularity in today's market. Bear traders, taking advantage of the uncertainty regarding the United States Steel corporation's dividend action and earnings, succeeded in unsettling the general list in the early trading, but the persistent demand for the oil shares had a steadying effect and eventually brought about a rather general recovery.

The steel corporation's report for the fourth quarter, which was issued after the market closed, showed net earnings of $30,762,231, an increase of $43,816 over the preceding quarter. Owing to the fact that prices for fourth quarter delivery were lower than those of the preceding three months, the steel trade had looked for earnings of between $28,000,000 and $29,000,000. The regular dividend of $1.25 and the usual extra of 50 cents were declared, setting at rest rumors that the common stock would be placed on a flat $7 annual basis.

United States Steel common today fluctuated within a range of about one point, closing 1-8 higher at 126 3-4. Most of the independent steels showed small fractional recessions. Pressed Steel Car dropped 1 1-2 points to 63 1-2, resumption of dividends on the preferred not being announced until after the market closed.

Further accumulation of the oils was stimulated by reports of another sharp drop in the output of the new Wortham pool, and additional gasoline price advance. Pacific Oil led the advance, closing 2 1-2 points higher at 62 1-8. Pan-American issues each showed gains of 2 points, with Texas Company, Maracaibo, Associated Oil, Houston and Standard Oil of California showing gains of a point or so. Simms Petroleum was heavy.

American Woolen, which has been under pressure most of the week, rallied 2 points to 52 3-8. The preferred closed 3 points higher at 89. Commercial Solvents issues each jumped about 5 1-2 points and Nash Motors soared 9 1-2 on a few sales. Foundation Company moved up 2 1-2 points to a record top at 104, Laclede Gas showed a net gain of 4 1-2 points at 139.

A brisk demand for Norfolk & Western, which closed 2 points higher at 129 after selling as high as 129 3-4, featured the railroad list. Denver & Rio Grande Western preferred dropped 2 5-8 points to 45 1-8, but most of the other issues in that group held relatively steady.

Call money opened at 4 per cent, the highest renewal rate since January 5, and then dropped to 3 1-2, where it closed. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates stiffened slightly, with business in increased volume. Demand sterling ruled about a quarter of a cent higher around $4.79 3-4 and French francs were again quoted above 5.40 cents.

U. S. Steel Directors Fail To Authorize Special Dividend

New York, January 27.—Directors of the United States Steel corporation today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the common stock and the "regular" extra 50 cents a share, which has been paid each quarter since the beginning of 1924.

Total earnings of the corporation for the final quarter of 1924 were $30,762,231 compared with $30,718,415 in the preceding three months. On the basis of the quarterly report the year's total earnings amounted to $152,937,130 and after all deductions, a surplus of $4,234,092 remained.

WOMAN IS BURNED BEFORE OPEN GRATE

Mrs. Bessie Edwards, 35, of 55 Wood street, is in Grady hospital suffering from painful burns sustained Tuesday afternoon when a paper on which she was standing became ignited from hot ashes from the grate and set fire to her clothing.

Mrs. Edwards stated that she had been performing usual duties about the house preparatory to visiting a sister, who is ill in a local sanitarium. At the time her clothing became ignited she was sweeping ashes from the grate into a newspaper. Her dress was a mass of flames before she realized her danger, he declared.

Her burns are not serious, physicians said.

Your Income Tax

The revenue act of 1924 provides that the basis for determining taxable gain or deductible loss from the sale or other disposition of property acquired after February 28, 1923—the first income tax law became effective March 1, 1913—shall be the cost of such property with certain exceptions.

The first is that if the property should have been included in the taxpayer's last inventory, the basis shall be the last inventory value thereof. For example, if a merchant in 1923 bought a certain article, and it was not sold by him prior to December 31, 1923, but was included in his inventory as of that date, the taxable gain or deductible loss would be the difference between the selling price and the amount at which the article was carried in the inventory.

If the property was acquired by gift after December 31, 1920, the basis shall be the same as it would be in the hands of the donor or last preceding owner by whom it was not acquired by gift. For example, a man in 1921 bought stock in a corporation at $100 a share, kept it until January, 1922, when it was worth $120 and then gave it to his son who in 1923 transferred it to his wife, the stock then being worth $150 a share. If in 1924 the wife sold the stock for $200 a share, her taxable profit is not $50 but $100 a share, the gain over the cost to the last preceding owner who did not acquire the stock by gift.

In computing the gain or loss from the sale or other disposition of property acquired by gift or transfer in trust on or before December 31, 1920, or by bequest, device or inheritance, the basis shall be the fair market price of value of such property at the time of acquisiton. For example, a taxpayer received in 1919 a gift of real estate having a fair market value of $10,000 which he sold in 1924 for $15,000. The original cost to the donor in 1916 was $12,000. The taxable gain, however, is $5,000.

Atlanta-Washington Highway To Be Opened By June 1 Is Planned

Elberton, Ga., January 27.—(Special.)—Much interest attaches to the authoritative statement that the Calhoun highway will probably be open to travel from Atlanta to Washington, D. C., by June. Word to this effect comes from the headquarters of the highway.

President R. E. Hanna, of the Calhoun Highway association, who resides at Cheraw, S. C., recently received communications from Washington from District Engineer R. E. Toms and Thomas H. McDonald, chief of the federal road bureau, stating that decisions affecting the construction of a bridge across the Savannah river between Elberton, Ga., and Abbeville, S. C., on the Calhoun highway may be expected very soon, so that the bridge may be constructed this year. This is considered highly important and significant information.

Cotton Growers Meet.

Memphis, Tenn., January 27.—Representatives of state cotton cooperative marketing associations in every cotton-growing state who are here for a conference called by the American Cotton Growers' exchange, with headquarters in Memphis, continued today their discussions on the prospects for the 1925 crop and the best methods for handling it. Charles B. Bowling, traffic manager of the American Cotton Growers' exchange, is presiding over the conference which deals especially with questions of traffic in the distribution of the cotton crop.

WOMAN KILLER GETS LIFE TERM SENTENCE

Little Rock, Ark., January 27.—Mrs. Winona Green, convicted of murder in connection with the killing of her father-in-law, J. R. Green, who was shot to death here last August, was sentenced to life imprisonment today. Attorneys announced an appeal to the supreme court would be taken.

VERDICT FOR SENTER IN $200,000 BREACH SUIT

St. Louis, Mo., January 27.—A unanimous verdict in favor of Charles P. Senter, wealthy bachelor, and defendant in the $200,000 breach of promise suit filed by Mrs. Ella Maie Campbell, beauty parlor proprietor, was returned by a jury here today.

A prison has been offered for sale in the newspaper of the town of Mecklamberg, Switzerland. The jail has been empty for years and officials decided to sell it and save the money for its up-keep.

MORE than mere materials—and a conception of their assemblage—is needed to build a successful plant.

Before the "blue-print" comes into being—even before a site is selected—there should be worked out an intelligent, constructive plan that provides not only for today's needs, but for tomorrow's requirements as well.

Labor conditions, transportation facilities, taxes, competition, the future development of your business—these, and many other vital problems of management, must be carefully considered and solved before actual work on the building is begun.

In the Lockwood-Greene organization are men who have successfully operated industrial plants of various kinds. These men study every client's needs from a business and financial viewpoint. Their studies, together with those made by our skilled architects and engineers, result in a plan that assures a sound plant—one that is correct both commercially and mechanically.

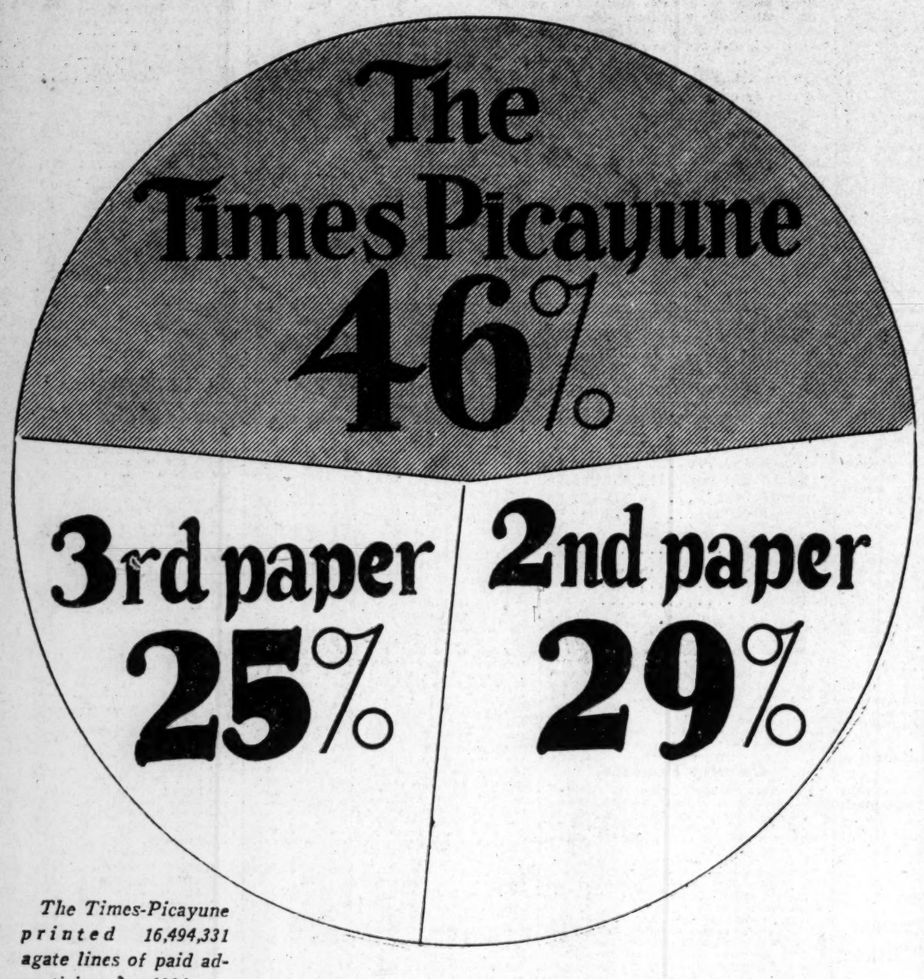

Let our representative discuss with you the details of your building problem. It is neither too large nor too small for thorough attention.

New Orleans is a morning paper city

The Times-Picayune printed 16,494,331 agate lines of paid advertising in 1924, an excess of 6,744,875 lines over the second New Orleans paper and 7,720,614 lines over the third New Orleans paper—46% of the total as compared with 29% in the second paper and 25% in the third paper.

First in Total Paid Advertising

THE DOMINANT and growing leadership of The Times-Picayune, published seven mornings a week, over its two evening-and-Sunday contemporaries in the New Orleans field was again demonstrated effectively in 1924. In addition to printing almost as much paid advertising as the two other New Orleans papers combined, The Times-Picayune alone showed a gain over 1923 in total paid lineage. It gained 153,049 lines, while the second paper lost 1,195,382 lines and the third paper lost 47,404 lines. The Times-Picayune's lead over the second paper amounted to 60%, and over the third paper, 88%. It again dominated its field in all the three major divisions of advertising--local display, national and classified. It led in practically all standard classifications of advertising, whether addressed primarily to men buyers or to women buyers.

This 1924 record was made in the face of the fact that, on account of its rigid censorship, The Times-Picayune carried far less proprietary medicine lineage than either of the other papers--barely three-tenths as much as the paper leading in this classification.

Only faithful, efficient service to readers and outstanding, consistent results to advertisers could produce such an overwhelming and growing preference on the part of all classes of space buyers.

Lineage figures in this advertisement compiled by New Orleans Publishers' Association, which comprises all the New Orleans Papers.

Charming Visitors To Be Feted At Various Parties Today

A group of charming visitors will occupy the center of the stage in Atlanta's social world today. The entertainments in their honor will be elegant affairs, including tea dances, dinners and luncheons.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Wilson-Lawrenson have as their guests a trio of charming Birmingham matrons, Mrs. Ford Cromer, Mrs. Edgar Kilby and Mrs. Carr McCormack. Mrs. Wilson-Lawrenson will compliment her guests at a luncheon today at her home on Oakdale road, in Druid Hills, and this evening she and Mr. Wilson-Lawrenson will be hosts at the Biltmore dinner-dance.

Army circles will be gay with social affairs honoring Mrs. A. W. Rapp and Miss Virginia Rapp, of Clarksburg, West Virginia, who are the guests of Colonel and Mrs. Milville S. Jarvis. Mrs. Rapp is prominently connected in the Virginias, is a prominent federated club woman, and has a wide circle of friends in Atlanta made on previous visits. Colonel and Mrs. Jarvis will entertain at a large tea-dance at the Officers club this afternoon, January 28, from 4 to 6, in honor of their guests and on Saturday at a large card and mah jong party for the older set at their home.

Mrs. H. B. Swope, of Asheville, N. C., who is visiting Mrs. Edgar Neely, will be central figure at a luncheon at the Piedmont Driving club today at which Mrs. Neely will entertain.

The marriage of Miss Martha Lewis Steffner and Lawrence Douglas Cook will be an event of this evening at the home of the bride-elect in Druid Hills. Miss Lillian McClelland, another bride-elect will be honored at a bridge-tea this afternoon by Miss Maxine Adams.

Another party at the Biltmore dinner-dance this evening will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Black for Miss Callie Orme, popular debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Orme.

Miss Margaret Bryan will entertain the Wednesday afternoon class of The Club de Vingt with a costume party at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The officers and chairmen of the crippled children's hospital auxiliary will be entertained this afternoon by the newly elected president, Mrs. R. M. Callaway, at her home in the Pershing Point apartments.

Mrs. Maddox To Give Luncheon.

A lovely affair of today will be the luncheon at which Mrs. Robert F. Maddox will entertain in honor of the Order of Old-fashioned Women.

The list of this organization includes Mrs. W. H. Kiser, Mrs. Wilmer Moore, Mrs. W. D. Ellis, Jr., Mrs. Robert Foreman, Mrs. Julian Field, Mrs. Morris Brandon, Mrs. Preston Arkwright, Mrs. Robert Maddox, Mrs. Henry Inman and Mrs. Maud Barker Cobb.

Weston Hamilton To Be "At Home."

Weston Hamilton will be "at home" informally on Sunday afternoon at his apartment on East Seventh street.

The guests will include a group of the younger social contingent.

Mrs. Wortham To Be Honored.

Mrs. Henry Wortham, of Macon, the guest of her sister, Mrs. John D. Little, is being delightfully entertained at many charming affairs.

Mrs. Little entertained at her home in the Biltmore apartments in honor of Mrs. Wortham on Tuesday at a lovely luncheon.

Covers were laid for a few friends of Mrs. Wortham, who is one of the most beautiful and popular women in the state.

Mrs. Charles Conklin will entertain at luncheon Wednesday at her home on Peachtree street for Mrs. Wortham.

Mrs. Robert Maddox entertained at a small but beautiful luncheon Monday at "Woodhaven" in honor of Mrs. Wortham. The beautifully appointed table had in the center an alabaster bowl filled with richly tinted fruit and the guest list was limited to a few friends.

Other parties are planned for Mrs. Wortham, who will return to her home Friday.

Jack Sharp To Honor Forney Wyly.

Forney Wyly, who leaves soon for New York, will be entertained Wednesday evening, February 11, by Jack Sharp, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sharp, in Piedmont avenue. Guests will include a group of the honoree's friends.

Mrs. Alston Honors Visitors.

Miss Kate Pendleton and Miss Stanley Pendleton, of Winchester, Ky., the guests of Mrs. Joseph R. Lamar, were entertained at a beautiful luncheon on Tuesday by Mrs. Robert Alston, at her home on Andrews drive.

The attractive home was artistically decorated with luxuriant ferns and Miss Martha Steffner, whose marriage to Lawrence Douglas Cook will be an interesting event of this evening, taking place at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Steffner, on Oakdale road, in Druid Hills.

Atlanta Visitors Being Entertained at Affairs in Florida

There is quite a colony of Atlantans spending the winter in Palmetto, Fla., and many social activities are revolving around these visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bell and daughter, Miss Martha Bell, are spending the winter at the Oaks hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell have taken a cottage on Bay street to remain until May, and have as guests their daughter Mrs. Will Reeves, and baby.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Wilder are with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lamb on Riverside drive until March.

The residents of Palmetto will entertain at a bridge-luncheon on Thursday, February 5, in compliment to the visiting ladies at the Country club. Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Wilder and Miss Martha Bell will be guests of Mrs. Frederick Stevenson, wife of the president of the club.

Miss Keipp Will Speak To Music Club.

This morning at 10:30 o'clock in the ball room of the Biltmore hotel, Miss Madeline Keipp will give the fourth of a series of talks on the fundamentals of music. The subject for this meeting will be "The Harmonic Basis of Music."

Mrs. Armand Carroll, chairman for the morning, has arranged a very beautiful musical program illustrating the lecture, and will present two of her artist pupils, Mrs. Frances Stovall Felder and Miss Blanche Roberts, in interesting piano groups; and Mrs. W. W. Bateman, soprano, will sing a group.

Mrs. Bateman not only has a charming voice but many splendid compositions to her credit. She was, before her marriage, Miss Florence Golson and is now a leader in the affairs of the Music club in College Park, where she makes her home. This is her first appearance before the Atlanta club.

This morning's program will include the following numbers:

Love's Lullaby, Love's Old Sweet Song, Auld Lang Syne, My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair, Hark, Hark, the Lark, Reflections in the Water, Magic Flute Music, Sonata Tragica, First Movement, Largo Maestoso.

BOOKS CLOSED: All purchases made today and the balance of this month will appear on February statements not payable until March.

RICH'S Personal Service—

—The constant aim of this store is to be of greater service to the public! To this end, we have established a "Personal Service Bureau" under the expert direction and personal supervision of an experienced woman, Miss Penelope Penn. There is no service too great, none too small, for her to give you. Free of charge, of course! We tell of a few of her services here. There seems to be a thousand more—an important one of which is that she will "shop with you, and for you." Meet . . . Miss Penelope Penn.

Penelope Speaking!

Do you want to know . . . How to arrange a luncheon? What to wear on your vacation? How to word an invitation? Ring up "WAlnut 4636" and ask for "Penelope Penn." I always answer! Or send a note to me at Rich's. Every day, in this column, will be printed your queries and my answers. And remember this—I'm never too busy to help! Absolutely free!

I Will Personally Shop for You!

I know exactly where to go for what you want! There will be no waste of time, no needless effort! For years I have studied Fashion, what to wear with what and where to wear it! I have learned to furnish homes, plan the color schemes, select draperies, pictures, and all those tiny things that make a house—a home! Please let me help! Or if you're a man, helpless in the labyrinth of a department store, let me shop for you! Of course, no fees for this service.

Just Call 'WAlnut 4636'

So many seemingly petty, but really important, perplexities turn up in a woman's day! "What shall I have for dinner," that eternal question, "How do you remove ink-stains?" or "Where can I get a servant?" When you need instant help, call me! I can do anything from planning a party to calling a fire-engine! I'm always ready for an emergency. My services cost nothing!

What To Give!

There's that ever-important question of . . . . . gifts! What shall I give her? What can I give a man? Where can I get an unusual bridge prize? I know where the most fascinating and appropriate things are—for every occasion. I can help you choose the gift, or choose it for you, remove the tag, wrap it daintily, tie it with ribbons, inclose a gift card, and send it to its destination! It's a pleasure, I assure you! No fees, ever.

That Trip!

How about your vacation? With the help of the Ask Mr. Foster Service, I can help you choose a playground, buy your ticket, arrange for your luggage, call a taxi, anything to make your journey more pleasant. Do you want to send a wire? Let me do it for you. Theater tickets? I can get them so easily. In fact, there is nothing too trivial, nothing too complicated, for you to ask of me! No fees.

Yours for service,

Penelope Penn

Steffner-Cook Bridal Party Honored at Buffet Supper

Mrs. George U. Steffner entertained Tuesday evening at a buffet supper at her home on Oakdale road in Druid Hills following the wedding rehearsal of Miss Martha Steffner and Lawrence Douglas Cook, whose marriage will take place this evening.

The lovely color scheme of green and white prevailed throughout the lower floor where the guests assembled. Bows and vases of white narcissi and feathery ferns were artistically arranged on the mantels, bookcases and consoles. A cover of imported lace overlaid the dining room table and was graced in the center by a large silver basket filled with yellow and white narcissi. At intervals were placed silver candlesticks holding unshaded green tapers.

Mrs. Benson Entertains For Her Young Son.

Mrs. Marion Benson entertained in honor of her son, Lawrence Walker Benson, Monday afternoon at her home on Springdale road in Druid Hills, the occasion celebrating the ninth birthday of the honor guest.

Baskets holding narcissi and crimson roses were placed on the mantels and buffet. The table in the living room was overlaid with a lace cloth, and a birthday cake, embossed in roses and adorned with nine red candles, graced the center. Silver baskets holding red roses and narcissi alternated with silver candlesticks, holding unshaded red tapes.

Games were played, adding an attractive feature to the afternoon, and prizes were awarded to the winners. Misses Maud Thompson and Dorothy Davidson were in charge of the grab-bag. Misses Betty McDuffie, Lucile Jordan and Rena Candler served lemonade from exquisitely decorated bowls. The decorations were suggestive of the Valentine idea, and dainty favors were given to the guests.

Mrs. Hodgson To Address History Class.

Mrs. Fred Hodgson will address the 1908 history class this morning at the home of Mrs. F. D. Eckford on Peachtree circle. Her subject will be "The Moral and Material Progress of India Under the British Rule."

Oglethorpe Women To Meet Thursday.

The executive committee of the Oglethorpe Woman's board will hold its meeting at the home of Mrs. Thornwell Jacobs Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

This meeting always precedes the meeting of the regular woman's board, which will take place in February at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Conkling on Peachtree street.

Habersham Teas Prove Popular.

Habersham hall will be the scene of a number of bridge parties on Wednesday afternoon, January 28, from 2 to 5:30 o'clock.

This beautiful hall is open every Wednesday, being open-house day, to the members of the Habersham chapter, their friends or to any ladies in the city who wish to avail themselves of a quiet and charming place of entertainment for their guests, the hall being easy to reach on Fifteenth street, close to the Piedmont Driving club. Mrs. J. C. Gentry, house chairman, assisted by different members of the Habersham chapter each week, is always present to welcome all guests, and reservations can be made by telephoing to Mrs. Gentry, Hemlock 2362. The cost is 25 cents for each person, $1 for a table, and delicious sandwiches and tea are daintily served.

Tables for Wednesday have been reserved by the following ladies: Mrs. Charles Loridans, Mrs. H. T. Woodward, Mrs. Frank Golden, Mrs. A. O. Mitchell, Mrs. J. I. Coleman, Mrs. J. J. Simpson.

Mrs. J. C. Gentry will entertain the following guests: Mrs. F. J. Spratling, Mrs. E. W. Alfriend, Mrs. W. P. Thornton, Mrs. Charles Goodman, Mrs. Charles J. Haden, Mrs. J. R. Hardin, Mrs. Virgil Jones, Mrs. R. N. Striplin, Mrs. G. H. Beasley and Mrs. W. H. Carroll.

"Follies Rehearsals at Biltmore and Club.

The rehearsals of the Junior League 'Follies" will be held on Monday and Tuesday of each week at the Biltmore hotel, Wednesday at the Piedmont Driving club and Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Biltmore hotel.

Affairs of the "Junior League Follies" are being efficiently directed from their specialty establishment offices in the arcade of the Atlanta Biltmore.

Mrs. W. Eugene Harrington, chairman, announces that Shop No. 8 has been designated official headquarters for the Junior League until after the "Follies." A special telephone, Hemlock 5911, has been installed for the convenience of members of the committee.

Miss Caroline Nicholson has been placed in charge of the office.

Witobo Class To Give Candy Pulling.

The Witobo class of the Gordon Street Presbyterian church will give an old-fashioned candy pull Saturday, January 31, at 3 p. m. in the Sunday school building. Admission, 10 cents.

Miss Farmer Presents Pupils.

Miss Anna Mae Farmer presented Miss Mary Louise Parham, Miss Inez Pergantis, Miss Ocie Lee Holt, and Sam Hughes in the first recital for the season Friday evening to a large audience.

Mrs. Doyle's Class To Give Recital.

Mrs. P. M. Doyal's music class will entertain members of Silver Cloud Council No. 1, Degree of Pocahontas, ladies' auxiliary of the Improved Order of Red Men, with a recital, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, at Red Men's wigwam. All members are urged to be present. Members of other councils in the city are invited. Refreshments will be served by a committee composed of Mrs. J. W. Wilson, Mrs. C. C. Gillette, Miss Emma Green and Mrs. J. S. Harris.

CHARMING VISITORS TO BE FETED TODAY

The table in the dining room was exquisitely appointed, being overlaid with a rare patchwork lace cover and holding in the center a lovely bowl of Venetian glassware filled with pastel shaded flowers and ferns. Tall candlesticks holding burning tapers were alternated with dainty compotes of mints and nuts.

Mrs. Montgomery To Visit Mrs. Argo.

Mrs. Robert Argo will have as her guest Mrs. John Montgomery, of New York, formerly Miss Roselle Mercier, of Augusta, and now one of the noted poets of the country.

She will arrive February 19 to be the guest of Mrs. Argo at her home, 683 Peachtree street.

The Atlanta Writers' club will entertain for her on February 24.

The Nineteenth Century History class will entertain for this gifted writer Thursday, February 26, at the home of Mrs. Rutherford Lipscomb, on Peachtree road.

The Atlanta Mary Baldwin Alumnae association members will be hostesses at a luncheon for Mrs. Montgomery February 21.

Mrs. Cloudman To Honor Mrs. Dickinson.

Mrs. John F. Dickinson, of Boston Mass., who is spending several weeks at the Atlanta Biltmore, will be complimented at a lovely bridge-tea on Thursday by Mrs. J. D. Cloudman.

Eight friends have been invited to meet Mrs. Dickinson.

Dr. Kent Honored At Lovely Dinner.

Dr. M. Ashby Jones, Dr. Plato Durham, Dean C. F. Parker, of Emory university, and Dr. M. L. Britain, president of Tech, honored Charles F. Kent, of the Biblical department of Yale university, who is spending several days in Atlanta at a dinner party at the Atlanta Biltmore on Monday evening.

The guests included several prominent members of the clergy and a number of leading educators.

Mrs. Swope Honored at Parties.

Mrs. Edgar Neely will be hostess at an informal tea at her home in Barksdale drive on Thursday in compliment to Mrs. H. B. Swope, of Asheville, N. C., the guest of Mrs. Neely.

Mrs. Neely will honor Mrs. Swope today at a luncheon at the Piedmont Driving club. Her guests will include a few close friends.

Mrs. Hugh Lokey entertained Tuesday at a lovely informal luncheon at her home on Fourteenth street in honor of Mrs. Swope.

The house was decorated through out with a beautiful display of flowers in pastel shades. The handsomely appointed table was overlaid with a gorgeous real lace cover. Gracing the center of the table was a bowl of rare Tiffany glass holding calendulas and sweet peas. Yellow, unshaded tapers were in the Tiffany glass.

Memorial Association Holds Regular Meeting.

The Ladies' Memorial association held their regular meeting Friday, January 23, in Steinway hall, Phillips & Crew's.

Mrs. William A. Wright, president, presided.

Mrs. Wright was given a welcome after an absence on account of illness and bereavement in her family.

A letter was read from Hollins N. Randolph, president of the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association, announcing that 12 months ago the head of General Robert Edward Lee was unveiled on the precipice of Stone mountain and that since that time the work on the central group of which Lee was the beginning, had progressed so well that the association plans to unveil the figures of General Lee, President Davis and General Stonewall Jackson down to their saddles, on Jefferson Davis' birthday, June 3, when all the patriotic organizations will take part. He also announced that the first thousand Stone Mountain Confederate half dollars, which were coined last Wednesday, were now in shipment to the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta and plans were being laid for the sale and distribution of these.

The Stone mountain memorial half dollar is a very beautiful coin, those having seen it, consider it the most beautiful coin ever handled by the United States. It was designed by the sculptor of the memorial, Gutzum Borglum.

On one side are the figures of Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson on horseback, on the other an eagle alighting on the summit of Stone mountain, and the following inscription, "Memorial to the Valor of the Soldier of the South."

These first coins were tested on Monday, January 19, which was the one hundred and eighteenth anniversary of the birth of General Robert E. Lee.

Mrs. Wright stated that while the Ladies' Memorial association was a founders' roll, that we urge the enrollment of every boy and girl to contribute $1 each and become a founders' roll in the Book of Memory.

Mrs. Wright announced that Memorial day, April 26, 1925, would fall on Sunday this year, but that the Ladies' Memorial association plans to observe it on that day with the usual ceremonies, the plans to be announced later.

Mrs. J. B. Jobson was appointed chairman of music.

The next meeting will be held Friday, February 27, in Steinway hall

Junior Music Club Will Hold Meeting And Chorus Practice

The Atlanta Junior Music club will hold its regular meeting at Phillips & Crew hall Saturday, January 31, at 2:30 o'clock, and will be preceded as usual by the chorus practice at 1:30 o'clock. Miss Weegand asks for a full attendance at this rehearsal.

Saturday's program will be very interesting, as many of the club members who participate are among the smallest attendants, Miss Marguerite Taylor, aged 5, being the youngest member of the club.

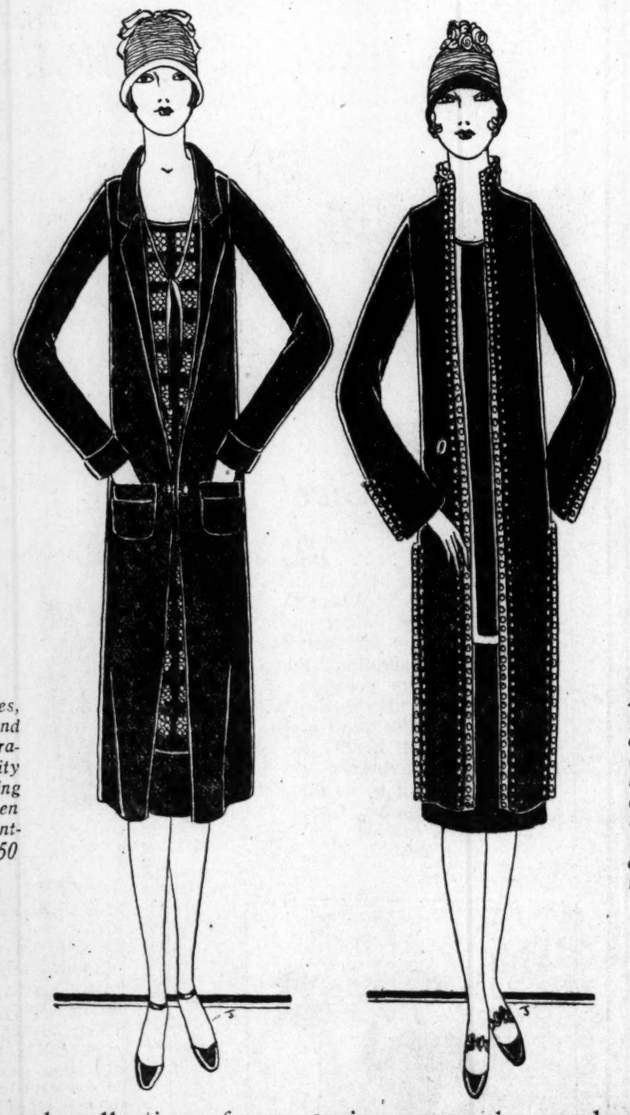

Mrs. Wayne Wilson, chairman of the program, has arranged, artistically, numbers by Mozart, Beethoven, Bach, Heller, Phillips, Leontini and Moskowski, played by Misses Florence and Mary Bryan, Marguerite Taylor, Emily Smith, Lillian Odell, Eugenia Snow, Julia McClatchey and Betsy Weyman.

Members of the Senior club are always admitted on presentation of senior membership card and non-members on payment of the small sum of 25 cents. All Junior club members who have not already done so are reminded to bring their dime for federation dues.

$15.00 Doll for $4.95

When the "Little Miss Georgia" doll Christmas campaign offer of The Atlanta Constitution closed, it was found that there were a few of these magnificent dolls left on hand. Rather than carry them over to another season, Constitution subscribers can obtain them while the supply lasts at $4.95, which is considerably less than cost.

"Little Miss Georgia" doll walks, talks, sleeps, winks, blinks, rolls her eyes, and does everything else that the premier doll of all times would be expected to do. She is non-breakable, elaborately outfitted; has real hair and is over 24 inches tall.

This doll has readily sold at retail throughout the country at from $12.50 to $15.00.

Atlanta and suburban Constitution subscribers and their friends can obtain the dolls at the city circulation department, second floor, Constitution building. Out-of-town orders filled by mail in first and second zone at same price, but beyond second zone 25c should be added up to fourth zone and beyond that 50c additional.

This will be a splendid gift to some little girl.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Many years ago Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., originated her now famous Vegetable Compound for women, by steeping roots and herbs on her kitchen stove. The fame of its success for overcoming some of the most stubborn ailments of women spread far and wide until today the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., of Lynn, Mass., is said to be the largest user of roots and herbs in the world. It operates a large laboratory at Lynn, Mass., others at Cobourg, Canada; Mexico City, Mexico; Barcelona, Spain, and Paris, France.—(adv.)

"Madam Slifer French Library" To Be Established by Alliance

Mrs. Marvin Underwood and her committee have organized as an adjunct of the Alliance Francaise to secure funds to establish a library of French books—which the Carnegie authorities have consented to house in a separate department of Carnegie library.

This section will be known as the "Madame Slifer French Library" in memory of the late Madame A. K. Slifer who contributed much of her talent to dissemination and instruction of the French-speaking people of Atlanta for several years. They will "stage" an al fresco entertainment in the early spring to secure further funds for this library.

The details of this entertainment will be worked out soon by Mrs. Underwood and her committee, when the plans will be announced in full. Meanwhile the members of the Alliance Francaise are requested to be making out lists of desirable books to be purchased and placed on the shelves of the "Madame Slifer Library" at Carnegie.

The executive board of the Home for the Friendless will meet at the home, 226 Highland avenue, Thursday morning, at 10:30 o'clock.

Russell T. Edwards Praises Tree Planting.

"Women of Atlanta are doing a wonderful job in city beautification with their peach tree planting," said Russell T. Edwards, director of the educational section of the American Tree association, of Washington, who is on a tour of the south, talking before women's clubs and chambers of commerce on the importance of tree planting in various phases.

"The tree-planting army, which is another name for my organization," continued Edwards, "is the only association I know of that has no dues, for the only way to join is to plant a tree and register it with the headquarters in Washington. Charles Lathrop Pack, the president, will send the tree planters a certificate of membership, which indicates they have been enrolled as good citizens.

"It was certainly encouraging to hear of the progress made from Mrs. V. H. Kriegshaber. In my travels through the south it has been interesting to note that where they have such beautiful trees they want more. The Road of Rememberance idea has taken hold everywhere. Then, too, some towns are planting memorial groves and calling it the 'Hall of Fame' for that community.

"We want to see a much bigger registration in the tree-planting army from Georgia and it is bound to come judging by the enthusiasm I find for the projects here in Atlanta."

From Atlanta Mr. Edwards goes to Rome then to Jacksonville and points in Florida before returning to Atlanta for tree planting days, February 5 and 6, when the clubwomen start the tree-planting campaign.

BAPTIST COMMITTEE VISITS WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., January 27.—(Special.)—The Baptist committee appointed by the Georgia Baptist convention to select a site in southeast Georgia for the location of a junior college were guests of Waycross today. Members of the committee arrived in Waycross early this morning and were conducted over the city, a special tour of inspection of the Atlantic Coast Line shops being made during the morning. At noon the committee was the guest of the Lions club, a special program having been arranged for their benefit.

During the afternoon the committee inspected the grounds and buildings of Piedmont institute. This evening a luncheon was served at the Y. M. C. A. The members of the First Baptist church prepared and served the luncheon.

A definite proposition was presented to the committee, setting forth what Waycross had done and expected to do fr Piedmont institute and for the junior college if located here.

Members of the committee are Rev. J. C. Wilkinson, Athens; Rev. O. P. Gilbert, Brunswick; Rev. F. M. Fugate, Macon; Rev. R. H. Ferrill, Albany, and Rev. T. W. Tippett, Vienna.

The decision of the committee is expected to be made soon as to the location of the junior college.

Firor Remains Agent In Macon County; Declines Sumter Offer

Americus, Ga., January 27.—Guy W. Firor, county agent of Macon county, who was recently named to succeed George O. Marshall as county agent here, has just notified the board of county commissioners that he will be unable to accept the place tendered him. Montezuma residents recently subscribed $600 to supplement the salary paid him by the county in order to retain Firor's services as county agent here. His salary under the new arrangement in Macon county will be $3,600 a year.

As a result of Firor's inability to accept the place here, steps are being taken by local authorities to secure another suitable man for the position O. W. Caswell, professor of agriculture at the Tihrd District A. & M. college here, it is said, is being considered as an applicant for the place.

Grandfather Gains Possession of Child Reared Since Infancy

Statesboro, Ga., January 27.—D. B. Donaldson, a well known citizen of this county, was yesterday awarded the custody of the 3-year-old child of his son, Dewey Donaldson. He had cared for the child since it was four months old.

Recently Dewey Donaldson took the child to Florida. Under a warrant charging kidnaping, the father was brought to Statesboro and the legal fight for the custody of the youngster developed.

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna K. Forbes

DEVELOPING THE LEGS.

Women hate exercise, they say, in spite of the numbers that weekly join country clubs and gymnasiums. It is true that exercise is a little like dish-washing; it's drudgery if it's done alone, but nothing at all if someone else is there to talk to or to have a hand in it. Gym classes are fun; exercises done alone in one's bedroom tedious beyond words.

But suppose you want awfully to improve your figure and for some reason you can't belong to a swimming club or a gymnasium. The only thing to do is to buckle down to it, learn which exercises are easiest and pleasantest to do and then do them every day.

Here's one, for instance, frequently mentioned here which is not practiced as much as it ought to be. You needn't take time off to do this, you can practice it while you do other things. It consists simply in walking around a certain amount, in stocking or bare feet or in limp-soled moccasins, on the balls of the feet and the toes, "tip-toes" as we wrongly term it. This is really a wonderful exercise, as any ballet master will tell you. It strengthens the ankles and takes off fat, it develops, rounds out and makes firm, therefore shapes the calf of the leg. That line running from ankle bone to knee is an important one, no matter what length skirts we may be wearing this season. It must curve in slenderly to the ankle and round out gently toward the calf of the leg. A "broomstick" outline will spoil any costume and make any woman look homely and awkward. Tiptoe around your room as you dress and work and improve your legs.

Mrs. L. I. A.: The pilocarpine tonic which is recommended so often in the "Chats" would be helpful in your case. If you care for the formula I will be glad to mail it to you on receipt of your stamped, self-addressed envelope for forwarding. Meantime be sure to massage your scalp every day until you feel that you have improved its circulation. Never mind if more hair falls, as all the loose hair must come out so that new will grow in its place. Any hair tonic that you include with the massaging should have some oil in

Tomorrow: Manicure Helps.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

PRESIDENT OPPOSES AIR SERVICE UNION

Washington, January 27.—President Coolidge is opposed to unification of the army and navy air services as proposed in the Curry bill, Secretary Wilbur today informed the house military committee.

The naval secretary declined to discuss the president's views beyond the bare statement that the executive saw no need for the creation of a separate air force. He said he talked to Mr. Coolidge about the proposal this morning and had been authorized to make the statement as to the President's views.

WILBUR CHALLENGES MITCHELL BOMB DATA

Washington, January 27.—Statements of Brigadier General Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, as to the disastrous effect of aircraft bombs on naval craft were challenged today by Secretary Wilbur during testimony before the house military committee on the Curry bill to create a department of aeronautics.

The naval secretary read an extract from a magazine article by General Mitchell in which the army officer said that during recent bombing tests the condenser system of a battleship a mile and a half away was so badly damaged by water pressure from the explosions that the vessel was compelled to limp into port at greatly reduced speed.

Secretary Wilbur then read a report from the naval officer in charge of the ship denying this statement and declaring that half an hour after the bombing his vessel steamed at full speed, but later developed condenser trouble in no way related to the bombing experiments.

A statement by Rear Admiral Strauss, who had extensive experience with bombing operations in the North sea during the world war, was read also by the secretary. It said it was inconceivable that any damage of the nature related by General Mitchell could have been done.

The naval secretary reiterated his opposition to any legislation which would deprive the navy of control over its aircraft operations.

$819,683.09 COST OF NEW VIADUCT

The total cost of constructing the Spring street viaduct, including all other projects built in connection with it, was $819,683.09, according to a statement sent by W. E. Reynolds, resident engineer, to Walter G. Cooper, chairman of the viaduct committee of the city bond commission. The total includes every item of expense with the exception of ordinary engineering fees.

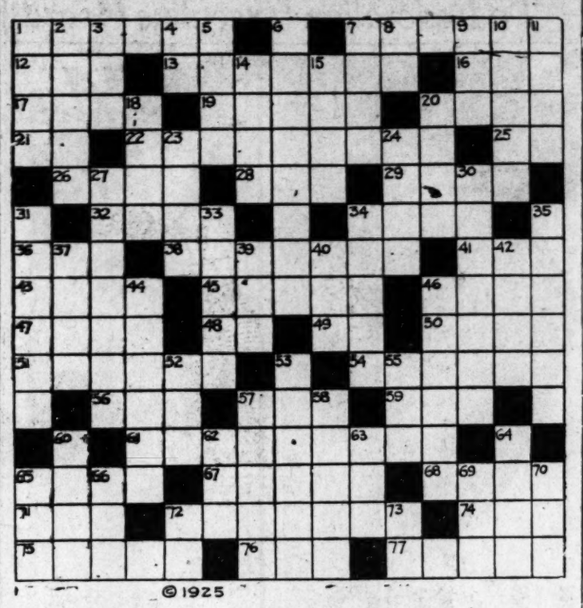

The main viaduct cost $524,051.94, according to the statement, while the Hunter street approach cost $97,027.77; Fairlie street extension, including $7,500 to the railroads, $13,830; Bartow street paving, including Seaboard drive, $27,876.05, and an eight-story addition to the Beck & Gregg Hardware company building, $156,897.33.

The total also includes $4,437 paid to the federal reserve bank; $7,900 to W. E. Austin and Mrs. Martha Price Austin, and an engineering charge of $7,220, which is charged to the contractor.

A bond issue of $750,000 was voted for the project but $25,000 worth of the bonds expired before they could be sold due to being held up through a court fight. At the time it was thought that the full amount would be necessary for the viaduct proper but through good management all projects were completed at slightly more than the original estimate for the viaduct alone. The sum of $42,983.62 was given by city council in the January finance sheet to make final payments on contracts.

In addition to those improvements the city, in a deal with the railroads obtained the right to close the Forsyth street underpass, doubling the capacity of the Forsyth street viaduct. The city was forced to extend Fairlie street across the railroad tracks, as the railroads demanded that before they would consent to the Spring street viaduct crossing over the tracks. The city obtained the right to close the Forsyth street underpass in the same trade.

COLOR CUT-OUTS
Red Ridinghood

OFF FOR THE WOODS.

Little Red Ridinghood had the prettiest crimson cloak you ever saw. It was no wonder she was proud of it, and no wonder she was happy as she put on the cloak, placed a basket of cakes on her arm and set off to see her grandmother, who lived in a little cottage on the other side of the big woods and had been sick for some time.

"Now do be carreful, dear," little Red Ridinghood's mother called after her. "I don't like to have you go through the woods by yourself. But hurry right along and don't speak to anyone or stop for anything."

(But we know she wasn't safe, and tomorrow we'll have a picture that will show just why she wasn't. Color her cloak a bright red and her basket yellow. If you cut out along the dotted line on the basket handle and then cut out carefully around her right hand, she can slip the basket on her arm).

Mercer Alumni Lay Plans To Join in Memorial Drive

Joining with their thousands of colleagues scattered throughout the state and nation the Atlanta chapter of the Mercer university alumni will meet in the breakfast room of the Kimball house Thursday night at 7 o'clock to launch the Mercer Alumni Memorial campaign to raise $200,000 with which to erect a memorial building at the university in honor of Mercer men who were killed in the civil war and the world war.

Frank A. Hooper, Sr., well known local attorney, is president of the Atlanta chapter and will preside at the dinner Thursday evening. Mr. Hooper announces that there are about 400 Mercer alumni in Atlanta and he expects to see a fine representation Thursday evening.

Judge George Hillyer, the oldest living alumnus of the university, having graduated in 1854, will attend the dinner and will be one of the speakers. It is understood that there will be a number of brief addresses in which the purposes of the campaign will be set forth. Dr. Rufus W. Weaver, president of the university, will be present and will speak as will John K. Williams, alumni secretary.

Prominent Speakers.

Former Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, John H. Hudson of the solicitor's office, Guy A. Moore, Hugh M. Willet, W. B. Stovall, John L. Westmoreland and Dr. J. F. Sellers of Oglethorpe university are among other speakers.

The alumni in Atlanta have been allotted a substantial quota in this campaign and at the meeting Thursday night the committeemen hope to secure the full amount. The subscriptions will be payable within two years from date in four payments.

W. G. McRae, local attorney, is assisting in the details of the meeting for Thursday evening and announces that it is hoped that everyone will be at the Kimball house promptly at 7 o'clock. The meeting will adjourn at 9 o'clock. There will be no charges for the dinner.

Home Team Captains.

The captains of the teams in charge of the local canvass are:

Big Snow-Dance Features Thrill Immense Crowd

Even the weatherman smiled on the Shrine snow dance at the auditorium Tuesday night and unleashed some real winter ozone to mix with property flakes of snow which enhanced the brilliant festival and entertainment.

A great and happy throng was there. And a good time was had by all.

The affair—which was informal—held sway under the auspices of Yaarab temple. Attendance, however, was not restricted to Masons and Shriners and many others were there.

The arena of the vast auditorium was decorated with pine tops and evergreens, and artificial snow was dropped from every bough. The floor was covered with mica dust, shimmering like a blanket of snow, which made the floor most inviting for lithe and sprightly terpsichorean artists.

The Peerless Entertainers furnished the music. And they made things lively and lovely.

Dance Began Early

The dance began shortly after 9 o'clock. Just before 10 o'clock, all lights in the auditorium were turned out and green, wintry lights flooded the hall. Then, from the rafters, artificial snow was showered on the gay dancers.

There were five specialty numbers interspersed throughout the event. At 9:30 o'clock, Miss Paula DeVoll, popular and capable dancing artist, presented a solo dance. The stage was dressed a la winter.

At a few minutes after 10 o'clock, Miss Annie Mae Coleman and four of her pupils gave three numbers. Miss Coleman presented a unique toe dance specialty. Miss Emily Satterfield and Miss Gladys Hill presented a "scarf dance," and Miss Ossilee Smith and Miss Dorothy Smith, known as "the dancing twins," gave an interpretation of the wild, jazzy dancing steps of the present day.

Snowballs Featured.

Still later, just before 11 o'clock, Miss Catherine Jones and her three little sisters, Nancy, Betty and Harriett, presented a "snow ballet." A miniature artificial snowstorm was in progress on the stage during this number and from the wings was rolled a huge snowball, while five sprites danced on it. The snowball finally broke open and from within stepped tiny Nancy Jones, very cunning and beautiful.

The doors opened at 8 o'clock and there was quite a crowd on hand early. Dancing continued until after 1 o'clock this morning.

At the very close of the entertainment the committee in charge presented two spring coats to lucky holders of the lucky numbers.

WILL 'DOCK' EMPLOYEES ABSENT FROM DUTY

In the future city employees will receive pay only for days which they actually work and will not be paid for days which they are absent from work on account of sickness or other reasons, according to announcement by Mayor Walter A. Sims. A letter was written Tuesday to Chief Jentzen, of the sanitary department, instructing him not to provide compensation for his men for days they are not at work, the mayor said.

The order followed reports made to the mayor that nine of the twelve flushers in the sanitary department were said to be sick for several days recently but returned to duty as soon as he made known his intentions to deduct from their pay for days which they were not on duty, he said.

The mayor's contention is that it is unfair for policemen to be "docked" for days on which they are absent because of illness and other reasons and not make the same rule apply to all city employees.

Although the sanitary committee of city council met Tuesday afternoon, Councilman W. E. Saunders stated that no reference was made to the mayor's letter at the meeting and that the committee took no action in dropping any men from the rolls.

WORK ON STOCKADE TO BEGIN MONDAY

Work on the new stockade building for men to be located at Fort and Hilliard streets probably will be started Monday, it was announced Tuesday by Councilman Charles L. Chosewood, chairman of the prisons committee of city council, following a meeting of that committee. Plans for the building are being drawn in the construction department at present, and as soon as specifications for the basement are completed, excavation work will be started.

The women's stockade, which will be on the city dairy farm, will not be built until after completion of the men's unit, according to present plans. However, both units are expected to be completed within a short time, an dthe present stockade, located near Girls' High school, will be abandoned.

City council, by adopting the January apportionment sheet, set aside $20 000 for the woman's unit and $15,000 for the men's unit. Men prisoners, it is planned, will be put at work in the sanitary and construction department shops, on Fort street, while occupants of the women's section will work on the dairy farm.

After City Attorney James L. Mayson had ruled that through a technicality, election of E. J. Hale as superintendent of city prisons several weeks ago was illegal, the prisons committee Tuesday "reelected" him, after he had resigned his position in the tax office.

At the time of his first "election" January 12, Hale was employed in the tax office, but the city attorney ruled that no person can be elected to a public office while holding another, making the election illegal.

W. A. COOK NAMED AS BOARD MEMBER OF ATLANTA BANK

William A. Cook, cashier of the Atlanta Commercial bank, has been elected to the membership of the board of directors of the institution, according to an anouncement Tuesday.

Mr. Cook is the son of the late Phil Cook, secretary of state for many years, and a brother of Charles Cook, head of the motor vehicle department of the secretary of state's office.

He served in the World war and after the armistice returned to Atlanta and accepted a position in the Commercial bank where he has received several promotions. Recently the bank doubled its capital stock and moved into a new building on Marietta and Bellwood avenue.

Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this get two ounces of calonite powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The calonite powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.—(adv.)

CHAMBER BANQUET PLANS COMPLETED BY COMMITTEES

Completion of plans for the annual banquet of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce to be held Friday night at the Chamber of Commerce building featured a meeting of entertainment and guest committees Tuesday at 12:30 o'clock.

The banquet this year is expected to be the best as far as entertainment of guests and a get-to-gether meeting is concerned, committee chairmen announced.

J. Milton Bell is the general chairman of the program committee, while the entertainment committee is headed by J. F. Burdine. Members of the guest committee include George West, chairman; C. K. Ayer, Howard Haire, W. R. C. Smith and E. L. Thornton.

Reservations already have been received from 750 members and it is expected that 1,000 guests will attend.

FIVE PERSONS DIE IN FARM HOUSE FIRE

Barnum, Minn., January 27.—Five persons burned to death near here early today when the farm home of Mrs. John Gerard was destroyed by fire. Three persons escaped.

The dead are Mrs. John Gerard., a widow; her two children, Ruth, 14, and Russell, 12; two grandchildren, Esther Walberg 3, and Arthur, Jr., one year old.

GROUND IS BROKEN FOR BIG EPISCOPAL CHURCH BUILDING

Ground was broken Monday by Rev. G. W. Gasque, rector, and H. G. King, senior warden of the Church of Our Savior, Episcopal, for a new building on a lot purchased recently by the church at the corner of Highland and Los Angeles avenues.

The new building will provide for the seating of 200. Plans are being made for a large social and Sunday school room and kitchen, and on the south side a vestry room and a rectors study, it is stated.

When the church was organized there were only 40 members, while the roster includes about 127 at present. The financial condition of the church also is in splendid condition, all debts having been paid the first of the year and a balance of nearly $100 remains in the treasury and more than $1,500 in the building fund.

Services are being held in the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church, Highland avenue and Hudson drive, until the new building is completed. Sunday school services are held every Sunday at 2:30 o'clock and sermons are delivered at 4 o'clock.

The Rev. Dr. G. W. Gasque, rector; H. G. King, senior warden; John T. Pugh, junior warden. Vestry: C. L. Fox, recording secretary; A. H. Thomas, corresponding secretary; R. Winston Harvey, treasurer; A. E. McCann, F. E. Ellis, H. W. Anderson, J. G. Jackson, W. G. Hastings, A. B. Clark and F. E. Ellis are the building committee.

DAUGHERTY DENIES OFFERS OF BRIBE

New York, January 27.—Harry M. Daugherty, former United States attorney general, testifying today at the trial of Gaston B. Means and Thomas B. Felder, charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice, indignantly denied he ever had been "approached by either of the defendants with bribe money." He also denied any knowledge of an alleged attempt to "fix" certain federal officials, of which he himself was supposed to have been one, for the purpose of having indictments against officers of the Crager System, on charges of using the mails to defraud, quashed.

Mr. Daugherty came to court with William J. Burns, former head of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, and testimony of Felder, one of the defendants, was interrupted to allow the former attorney general to take the stand. His testimony consumed a little over half an hour, after which Colonel Felder resumed the stand.

"Hellbound and Spellbound."

Mr. Daugherty said that for some time the state of affairs in Washington was such that there were men in the capital who were "hellbound and spellbound."

"I would like at this time to tell the true story of that situation if I am permitted to do so," said Mr. Daugherty. Judge Lindley, however, refused him permission.

Mr. Daugherty denied that Thomas B. Felder, one of the defendants, ever talked to him about indictments then pending against the Crager system, a company manufacturing glass caskets. Felder and his former client, Gaston B. Means, are being tried on charges of conspiring to bribe high government officials, including Mr. Daugherty, in attempts to quash the glass casket indictments.

Denial by Daugherty.

"Did Gaston Means ever talk to you about it?" he was asked by Frank P. Walsh, defense attorney.

"He never did," replied Mr. Daugherty.

"Did Jarnecke (Means' former secretary) ever talk to you about it?"

"He never did," answered the witness.

"I will ask you whether or not it is a fact that Colonel Felder called upon you on one occasion when you were ill in Washington and spoke to you about the glass casket case?"

"He never did," said the witness. "None of these men ever discussed the glass casket case with me."

Mr. Daugherty testified that he had known Felder for 15 years and perhaps longer and that he had been associated with him and his law firm when Felder was a resident of Atlanta, Ga.

"Never Heard Reflection."

Asked what he knew of the reputation of Felder, Mr. Daugherty said:

"During the past three or four years I could not testify to the reputation of any man, especially if he held a high public position. The higher and more efficient he is, the more he is subjected to attack. Until this case came up I am quite sure I never heard any reflection upon his (Felder's) reputation."

Mr. Daugherty said he did not know Means personally and had talked to him only once, when Means spoke to him in the Department of Justice building.

Mr. Walsh asked the witness if he ever "attended a conference at the Waldorf hotel (in this city) in the early part or middle of October, 1922, at which there were present yourself, William J. Burns, Andrew J. Mellon and Gaston B. Means. Before the witness could answer, Prosecutor Todd objected and Judge Lindley ruled out the question.

Question Ruled Out.

Another question ruled out was one in which Mr. Walsh asked Mr. Daugherty, "if you ever stated to Gaston Means that there was a shortage or deficit in the republican campaign fund and that you on that account, with Mr. Mellon and Mr. Burns, would share in a division of $65,000 which was to be collected from the glass casket defendants?"

Mr. Daugherty told of a conference in Washington with several persons, including defendants and their attorneys, interested in the glass casket case.

"I knew that this case was the case to be considered," he said, "so I assembled two or three assistants so there would be no misunderstanding about it and I think I asked Mr. Todd to be present at the conference."

Most of the questions relating to this conference were ruled out. It was at this juncture that Mr. Daugherty appealed to Judge Lindley for permission to tell the "true story concerning this matter."

After answering several queries dealing with the ousting of Means from the government service, Mr. Daugherty left the stand.

A "felt throat" for carburetors is said to keep practically every bit of dust and grit from entering the engine through the air intake.

Red Hair and Blue Sea

By Stanley R. Osborn.

BLUE RIBBON FICTION

SYNOPSIS.

Palmyra Tree, on board the yacht Rainbow, which is leaving the California coast for the South Seas, is startled to see a sinewy hand with a black lace mitt on it thrust through her porthole window. Palmyra is loved by two men, John Thurston and Van Buren Rutger. She is not certain which she loves.

The girl determines to unearth the owner of that sinister hand, and discovers Ponape Burke, who confesses he is a smuggler of coolies. He permits her a glimpse of a savage brown man, Olive, hiding with him.

Palmyra gradually convinces herself she is in love with Van Buren Rutger. Burke and Olive leave the yacht at Honolulu, and Palmyra's engagement to Van Buren is announced. The yacht Rainbow is wrecked, and the party lands on an uninhabited island. Burke appears on the Pigeon of Noah and promises to rescue them. Palmyra goes on board alone to investigate, and finds herself a prisoner. Burke sails away with her, telling her it was he who wrecked her yacht. Thurston and Van Buren start in vain pursuit. Burke grows ugly at Palmyra's refusal to listen to his lovemaking, and leaves her alone on a deserted island for a few months, with barely enough food to last until he shall return for her.

In the morning she sees Olive swimming toward her. Exhausted from a long swim, he falls asleep. When he awakens he attempts sign language. Finally he communicates to her the idea that he and she are to swim away together in the limitless sea. He makes her a life preserver of cocoanut husks and they start their ocean journey. Burke's ship is again seen in pursuit of them. By clever maneuvering Olive eludes it. A ship is sighted at last. It is the imperial Japanese gunboat, with Thurston and Van Buren aboard and Commander Sakamoto in command. Olive's signals fail to reach it. Soon they see the Pigeon of Noah in close pursuit. Escape seems impossible, but Olive hurdles a reef with marvelous skill. They land on Olive's island at last. Palmyra is greeted by Thurston, Van Buren, and her parents. Palmyra breaks her engagement to Rutger, as she realizes it is Thurston she loves.

Burke follows Palmyra and has her kidnaped by natives. The entire settlement is aroused, and her parents institute a search for her. Thurston, Rutger and Olive join it. Olive finds Palmyra and plans her escape.

INSTALLMENT LVII.

ESCAPE.

Olive continued talking in the tones of courtesy, looking at Martin but speaking direct to the villagers. In a sentence he appealed to their cupidity, to their fear of the Japanese. Then, without alternation of voice or manner, he added for the interpreter: "Make words; made words unto him. Anything—that shall mean nothing and have a pleasant sound."

The interpreter had got the idea. Out came a flood of compliment, to which the white man made crude response, condescendingly amiable.

The natives had already become alarmed on finding their fellowship with Burke made them accessory to the abduction of a high white girl. The Japanese naval administrator had been severe enough to fill them with a wholesome apprehension. Moreover, they had had Ponape's gifts; it was Olive who now promised. And the brown man, by this audacious appearance, had become so great a hero they all wished to serve him.

Olive could thus go on, giving them sentence by sentence his plan. Alternating, the interpreter evolved additional expressions of politeness for Martin. Other men, in the spirit of the play, made formal remarks that were in reality suggestions for the plot.

And so, under the very nose of the unsuspecting Martin, almost within hearing fo Burke, Olive worked out his attack.

The plan was formed. All that awaited was opportunity. And Ponape Burke himself gave the signal. Springing up now, he bawled across to his mate: "Ahoy—ahoy, there! Haven't them dam' Kanakas got the Pigeon out yet? Give a hail the moment y' sight her. These Japs is maybe up t' something."

He leveled his binoculars again upon the gunboat. Martin reached for his own, beat them upon that spot where the Lupe-a-Noa's topmasts must emerge from behind the taller trees.

For perhaps forty seconds both men were absorbed.

Then Martin, still seated, his shoulder against the girl's support, lowered his glasses, turned his head to speak to her.

But Palmyra was gone! Failing to find the prisoner at his elbow, Martin glanced about in an amiability that turned to surprise, alarm.

"Wh—why, where is she?" he demanded.

Outside, the sentry paced back and forth, unaware of trouble. But the white man read a something in the eyes of the natives that sent him on a run for Burke.

The moment Martin turned away Olive slipped out at the rear of the house, sought cover in several thatches along the village path. The now frightened guard brought down his rifle in a half-formed hostility. But, desperately incriminated, he dared not give them alarm.

"Burke!" Martin was bellowing. "Burke—the girl. She's gone!"

The natives insisted she had stepped out, started off among the huts when the sentry's back was turned. The sentry swore she had not left the house. In his panic he was convincing.

And Burke's prisoner could not have jumped into the sea—scarcely knee deep at the point—he must believe her somehow to have been got past his man. He was surprised the natives should conspire against him, puzzled as to their method.

At his order the crew, loading rifles, began to go through the thatches. Fortunately for Olive, Ponape remained in the open, bawling out commands and imprecations.

"Outside," he sneered, "there's only the cocoanut trees, and she can't climb 'em. Inside there ain't no work o' God or man, except a flagpole, so bare a hiding place. And yet y' can't find her."

Twice, indeed, revolver in hand, he rushed into the very house where Olive had taken refuge. But the islander escaped notice. He had found two men of his own relationship, tied by Burke, squatting face to face against a post in the central shadow of the thatch. These he released, but one remained as if tied. Whenever Ponape came Olive's way, Olive would retreat to this post, take the second prisoner's place. A single look might have enlightened the white man. But to an intellect dulled with drink, inflamed wih anger, concentrated upon its quest of the girl, the passing impression of two bowed figures sufficed.

It was when Ponape Burke had stopped, completely at a loss, that a messenger came running from the Lupe-a-Noa. The schooner could not be got out. Diving, the natives had found under her nose two of the long hexagonal rocks from the ancient wall. The men could not understand how she had originally slipped over and in.

Burke, at this new blow, broke into a frenzy. But presently he settled to a reckless calm.

He would have been aghast to know that John Thurston had discovered the vessel; had reached her before the working party and while her watchman was irresponsibly absent, had, and the brief interval afforded, made good use of his engineering skill. With a block and tackle and a light spar from the schooner, Thurston, in a few minutes, had undone a labor at which slaves must have sweated for days. He had tumbled two of the stones off the wall into the canal. The Pigeon would not fly again until the month's highest tides came to lift her over.

Burke, knowing nothing of this, called his men together. They were to pounce upon one group of houses after another. Each three or four thatches in ordere were to be surprised, surrounded, their occupants herded down to the seaward end of the village, and there held while the sailors worked through to the landward.

Ponape Burke indicated four huts that stood about midway the islet. "No, don't look," he warned. "Now, are you ready?"

At the word the armed men sprang forward. As the villagers within the four thatches caught the meaning of this unexpected change, there was visible commotion. Then, as the foremost sailor was within a few yards of the nearest house, a figure broke from the farthest, went bounding along the path toward the outer point, carrying in its arms a heavy burden.

Burke uttered a cackle of triumph.

For, as this figure, there was visible over its shoulder a white straw hat, a blue veil fluttered into view, and, below, Ponape saw the folds of a plaid raincoat.

"There, fools, there!" he screamed. "Run, dam you; run him down."

The fugitive was of great strength. Despite the burden in his arms he rushed forward at a pace which seemed sure to win him land's end, though what he would gain thereby was not apparent.

As he ran, however, he struck his foot against a tree root, staggered; the burden was hurled from his arms to the ground. But he did not pause. With one despairing look back, he plunged on; turned at right angles, tried to make his escape into the sea where the water deepened. But two of the sailors, flanking along the beach, sprang upon him. Others joined in. A struggle, and he was held.

Ponape Burke had remained at his post, an amused spectator. Now, however, when the girl on the ground did not stir after her fall, he ran toward her.

"Palm," he called. "Palmie, are y' hurt?"

Another hundred feet, and he stopped. Bewilderment turned into rage.

For lying there in the hat, veil and raincoat was no Palmyra Tree. It was a big roast pig.

Bill Sammis is a highbrow
Who thinks all slang absurd;
He lifts a wicked eyebrow
At any simple word.
He uses terms pedantic,
Five syllables or more;
He drives most hearers frantic,
And makes some people sore.

No time in any college
Was spent by Otey Oakes;
His fund of useful knowledge
Consists of slang and jokes;
Yet these were rival lovers
Who sought a maiden, rich,
Sweet Geraldina Glovers,
Which should she choose? Yes which?
"My love is Brobdingnagian, Gargantuan, immense,"
Said Bill in style up-stagian,
In tones profound, intense.
"You are the cat's pajamas,"
Said Oakes: "Give me your hand."
But she said "Me for Sammis;
His langwidge is so grand!"

"Dante," Man of Surprises.

(At the Atlanta Theater.)

Dante, the renowned European conjurer, has leaped into instant popularity with Atlanta theater-goers. Capacity houses at the Atlanta theater at all performances thus far given this week give ample testimony to this fact. Not alone is Dante an expert mystifier, but is also possessed of a personality that wins instant appeal. His stage production is of a caliber rarely seen on the modern magic stage and is lavish in the extreme. Featured among his own and the Thurston-Kellar mysteries and illusions which Dante presents are "The Ghost Woman," psychic phenomenon of the age. You may ask her any question which chances to come to your mind, and will receive instant response thereto. Dante will hold the boards all this week at the Atlanta theater.

"Very Good Eddie."

(At the Lyric.)

"Very Good Eddie," the rollicking musical comedy which has set the whole of America humming its catchy, pretty, syncopated tunes, is carrying the Lyric players to their greatest triumph in all their career of nearly three years in Atlanta. Fred Raymond and Jack Holden have blossomed not only as comedy actors of high order, but as dancing fools who have kept the crowds howling for more at each performance. The chorus is the snappiest "home-grown" organization that ever stepped on an Atlanta stage. The production in its entirety, with Rolfe's orchestra, chorus, four special singers and dancers, including Catherine Jones, the special costuming, lighting and decorative effects, have set the theater back several "grand" more than the most expensive previous performances, but attendance at the first three performances has been so much larger than usual that the expense is being met without any advance in the prices, which remain $1.50 top at nights and 50 cents top at matinees.

"Pietro."

(At Keith's Forsyth.

Music of the caliber that has brought recognition from thousands of music lovers throughout the country is being offered patrons of Keith's Forsyth theater in the first three days of this week by Pietro, world-famed accordionist, who is headlining the excellent program.

As an added attraction, the program also includes the Royal Venetian five in a "Venetian Musical Melange." McCormack and Wallace have an unusual ventriloquistic number entitled "The Little Red Schoolhouse," and two other good acts.

Loew's Vaudeville.

(At Loew's Grand.)

Jim Toney and Ann Norman, the popular favorites, are proving themselves great entertainers this week at Loew's Grand theater, where they head the bill of vaudeville. Jim Toney is a born comedian and a clever dancer as well and the house is kept in an uproar during the entire act. Miss Norman is a good singer and dancer. The Eclair Twins and Billie Wells from the Alhambra, Paris, and the Ambassador, London, have a very clever song and dance number. Al Raymond and Walter Kaufman are a scream in their sketch, "Marriage and Divorce in Three Rounds." They have a line of comedy and some songs that are going over big. Two other acts, both of the high-class variety, complete the bill of vaudeville. Irene Rich and an all-star cast are seen in the feature photoplay, "This Woman."

"East of Suez."

(At the Howard.)

"East of Suez," the latest Pola Negri production for Paramount, is making a decided hit at the Howard all this week. Hundreds are attending the showings daily and acclaim it as the best Negri production that they have seen. "East of Suez" is truly a wonderful picture. The prologue is a wonderful Chinese setting with Virginia Futrelle singing a special selection from "Madam Butterfly."

Constance Talmadge.

(At the Metropolitan.)

Constance's latest First National comedy is "Her Night of Romance," directed by Sidney Franklin for Joseph M. Schenck. It was written by Hans Kraly, author of "Passion," "Deception" and other photoplays.

"Tomorrow's Love."

(At the Rialto.)

A diamond-embroidered nightgown is Hollywood's latest.

And it's but one of the many gorgeous creations worn by Agnes Ayres in her new Paramount picture, "Tomorrow's Love," at the Rialto theater this week.

Whitney Hubner's music, a Telephone Girl short subject called "The Bee's Knees," and Pathe News complete the program.

CLAIMS "ORPHAN" GIRL LONG-LOST DAUGHTER

Middletown, Md., January 27.—Virginia Benton, 18, harbored as an orphan and working after school hours on the farm of Walter B. Coblentz near here, has been claimed by Mrs. Grandes Thompson, of Asbury Park, N. J., as her daughter.

Mrs. Thompson, who said she was the wife of an amusement operator, declared that for 14 years she has been hunting her daughter from whom she was separated in Philadelphia by illness. Ultimately, she said, she obtained a clue in Baltimore which led to the reunion.

Virginia is her daughter by her first husband, Thomas Benton, a musician, whom she married at the age of 15, according to her story. When she came here recently in search of the girl she carried a valise containing presents of jewelry for her daughter.

Mrs. Thompson said she had been aided in her search for some time by Virginia's aunt, Mrs. Virginia Vaughn, of St. Petersburg, Fla.

SENATOR ATTACKS FRENCH DEBT PLAN

Cincinnati, Ohio, January 27.—The recent speech of Deputy Marin suggesting repudiation of the debt to the United States "was unwise, imprudent and unworthy of a Frenchman," Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, said in a speech to local business men.

"Six years have now passed since the armistice, quite a sufficient time for war convalescence and economic adjustment," Harrison said. "Without minimizing in the least the high price paid by France in that great struggle, the sacrifices made by her allies must be considered.

"Every other allied country adopted a policy of readjustment, finding relief in cutting down large standing armies and the curtailment of naval construction. Not so with France. From the armistice up to this hour she has expended lavishly in the maintenance of large armies and in the preparation of other war activities. No other country has pursued a like policy. It might not be in good taste for a citizen of one country to voice strictures upon the domestic program of another government, but when the domestic policies of France are so interwoven with the domestic welfare of this country, the end justifies the means."

Attack Is Vigorous.

Harrison's attack on the French debt policy is the most vigorous that has come from a responsible democratic senator in some time.

"It cannot be forgotten that in the prosecution of the great world war, not only did we send our boys to France to fight and die and render substantial assistance in every way, but when the finances of the world were shot to pieces and the interest rates upon the loans to France, Great Britain, Italy and the other allied countries ranged from 7 to 8 per cent, and often could not be obtained even at those rates, it was this government that loaned to those countries in fixed terms billions of dollars to prosecute the war and make victory certain. At the time these loans were made for which the American taxpayer was obligated, there was not a man or woman in this country who did not believe that if victory crowned the efforts of the allies, that every farthing would be paid. What is the result? Today the American people are being taxed at the rate of 4 1-4 per cent annually on approximately eleven billions of dollars, with no payments yet being made by France, Italy, Belgium and other of the smaller allied countries.

U. S. Wants Payment.

"If I interpret correctly the feelings of the American congress, and understand the sentiments and heart throbs of the American people, I am quite sure that it is not only against the cancellation of one cent of the European debt to us, but that the terms of payment should be the same to all European countries and no better treatment accorded to France and Italy and Belgium than to Great Britain, Poland, Finland, Lithuania and Hungary."

Canadian Railway Plans To Float Big Bond Issue

Montreal, January 27.—The Canadian National Railways company is about to offer a bond issue approximating $35,000,000, The Star says today. The loan is likely to run for 15 years at 5 per cent.

The issue is needed for capital improvements and most of the new funds will go to pay off short-term notes which are said to represent advances made to the railroad by the government, the paper says.

The Star understands that at least a part of the proposed loan is to be sought in the New York market.

Being Present When Promotions Are Being Handed Out

It's a grand and glorious feeling—to take a definite step upward upon the ladder of success and know that you have risen—permanently—above the standards of yesterday.

There is generally just this difference between people who are up above—looking down—and those who are down below—looking up:

The former read The Constitution's A-B-C Classified Section regularly and are present every time promotions are being distributed.

If you have not advanced to the limit of your capacity—it will benefit you to read the Employment Columns of the classified section.

All the best positions in the city are listed here—in alphabetical order for quick finding.

Senator Hiram Johnson Predicts Defeat of Bill. "Bad Precedent," Declares Senator Heflin.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Washington, January 27.—Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, predicted that the bill for the double purpose of raising the pay of postoffice employees and increasing the rates on several classes of postal matter will not pass. "Predicted" is hardly the right word to describe Senator Johnson's assertion, for he spoke as if there is no doubt about it, as if it were not a future matter at all, and as if the decision not to enact the law were already an accomplished fact.

Among other reasons, he said that even if the bill should pass the senate, the lower house would not even consider it. Nevertheless, from other sources, there is fairly dependable information to the effect that the house will pass the bill in whatever form the senate passes it, and that it will become a law at this session.

Political Aspect.

There is a political aspect of the measure and principle involved that comes to the front in almost every speech on it. The postoffice employees want an increase in pay which aggregates $69,000,000. Practically everybody agrees the postoffice employees are entitled to more pay. It is sometimes objected that the uniform raise of level which the bill provides should be changed so as to give larger raises in big cities and smaller ones where the cost of living is less; but that there should be an increase and that a proper increase will amount to about sixty-nine million dollars are generally agreed to.

A bill providing for the increase was passed, Coolidge vetoed it. He said the postal employees ought to have the increase but he laid down a new principle. Coolidge said the necessary $69,000,000 should first be provided by increasing the charges for carrying mail matter. That principle met, and still meets, vigorous, almost outraged dissent from many senators. They tried to pass the original simple increase of pay bill over Coolidge's veto. They failed by one vote. That narrow escape was important to Coolidge's prestige and to the principle he laid down.

The New Bill.

Then the present bill was introduced, embodying Coolidge's principle It grants the raise in pay and at the same time provides the necessary money by increasing postal rates. Some senators, like Heflin, of Alabama, oppose it because they don't believe in the principle. Heflin says it's a bad precedent to set. He and many other senators would frankly take the necessary $69,000,000 right out of the general revenues raised by taxation.

Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, doesn't exactly oppose the bill; but questions its good faith. He implies pretty frankly that the intention is merely to fritter away the present session in debate, and thus deprive the postal workers of their rise in pay. Johnson introduced the word "debunk" into the senate vocabulary, volunteered to perform the process of "debunking" and called the bill "a sham, a pretense and a fraud." He declared every senator knows the bill will not pass in a form raising the necessary money; whereupon Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, arose to describe himself as an exception, and to say that he is "dealing in no fraud, no subterfuge and no pretense."

Mean to Pass Bill.

Decidedly the best judgment is that the administration senators really mean to pass the bill this session, and attach a good deal of importance to doing so. It will encounter a good many snags; because each one of the proposed increases in the charges for carrying second, third and fourth-class mail, will encounter opposition, and the aggregate of that opposition will consume a good deal of time.

Nevertheless, the bill probably will pass in something like its present form. For one reason, the postoffice workers are for it. They realize that this bill represents the only chance they have of getting any increase of pay at this session, and realize also that Coolidge will probably never let them have the increase unless it is accompanied by the necessary means of providing the extra revenue. The postoffice workers have a strong leverage in congress. They are a politically potent body at all times, and especially so in the present instance because it is generally admitted their cause is just.

The chief objections to the bill come from the businesses affected by the increases in the charges for carrying mail matter But these objections are mollified a little by the fact that the present bill is an emergency one lasting only until next February of next year, and that in the meantime a commission will hold hearings and fix the permanent rates for the various classes of mail matter.

ATLANTA WRITERS HOLD DINNER-MEET AT ANSLEY HOTEL

More than 75 members of the Atlanta Writers' club met Tuesday night at the Ansley hotel for their regular monthly dinner meeting. The affair was featured by the reading of a number of original manuscripts by members of the club, including skits, poems and short stories. At the end of the reading members voted for the best in each class, these to be entered in the final competition which the club will hold early in the spring.

A feature of the evening was a short talk made by Anna Aiken Patterson, president of the Little Theater Guild, who stated that her organization planned presentation of a number of one-act plays during the spring and early summer, and invited members of the Writers' club to submit suitable plays about Georgia life.

James B. Nevin, president, presided and in addition to the readings, musical numbers, vocal and instrumental, were rendered by club members.

It was announced that at the meeting of the club on February 16, Edgar A. Guest, nationally famous newspaper versifier, would deliver a lecture at the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's club.

ARTIST-HUSBAND SUED BY PRETTY "MOVIE APPLE"

Cleveland, Ohio, January 27.—"He grabbed a knife and threatened to cut my heart out. He was so emotional!"

Thus Helen Cardiff Scher, who played the role of one of the "apples" in the movie, "Forbidden Fruit," explained in a petition filed Tuesday why she wants a divorce from her artist-husband, Solomon A. Scher, formerly of the San Francisco Symphony orchestra.

"He played the violin," said Helen, "and after he got through some soulful bit, he grabbed a knife and threatened to cut my heart out."

Mrs. Scher charged cruelty. She said Scher was jealous of her beauty and of any glance she cast at another male. They were married February 12, 1924, in New York after a romance that began in Hollywood.

Not half of those eligible for the bonus have submitted their applications.

AVIATION SERVICE TO JOIN CHICAGO WITH AUSTRALIA

London, January, 27.—Director Hugo Eckener of the Zeppelin company, and British experts are discussing a plan to link two-thirds of the circumference of the world by air. If the plans should materialize, regular airship service would be in effect eastward from Chicago, across the Atlantic to Europe, and thence to India and Australia. Only the eastern area of the Pacific ocean would need to be included to make the complete commercial circumnavigation of the globe by air complete.

Eckener is understood to be speaking for the American syndicate which recently became interested in a Chicago-New York-Hamburg airline. The object of the discussion is to consider the possibility of linking this unit with the proposed British air line to India and Australia.

Army cavalry horses have an average age of 15 1-5 years, it is said.
